THE LESSON IS FOR THE NEGRO.

The carnival of burning and killing of the negroes, Hose and Strickland, in Georgia, and the pursuit, if not death of other negroes, is the most horrible in its recital, the most sickening in its details of any story of crime and punishment in recent years.

In the terrible punishment meted out to the negroes, the outside public stands aghast at the story, and there cannot but be an exclamation against the action of the crowd which inflicted such punishment upon the negroes.

Civilization recoils both at the crime perpetrated by the negroes, and at the punishment measured out in its terribleness, to them.

Excuses cannot be offered for the first, nor the second, and yet as often as such a crime is committed, so will the punishment follow hard and swift, terrible in its detailed features.

And this punishment of such crimes is not a matter of section, North, South, East or West; Georgia, New York or California; let the crime of Hose be perpetrated any where in this country, and the death of the offender is certain to follow.

The lesson in this Georgia affair, is as plain as the crime and punishment is self-evident.

However revolting the mode of meting out the punishment, the lesson is not to the white people who killed the negroes nor is it to other negroes who may commit similiar outrages.

The lesson is to the entire negro race, which as a whole takes no stand in crying down the crimes of its people, nor seeks to bring to justice those of its own race who perpetrate crimes of any character.

The negro today, sets himself up to enjoy every benefit of education, business, trade, political franchise and religious liberty, the same as the white man, and all at the expense of the white man who must foot the bills.

The negro not only claims the benefits of civilization, inaugurated, supported and maintained by the white man, but also attempts to exact special privileges, in the way of exemption from responsibility or giving assistance to crush his race's animal nature, and the right to hold office over the white man.

Thus the negro thinks that he is the special ward of the community in which he lives, to be maintained without cost or danger to himself, and in politics is a special institution of the nation's to receive privileges which are really the exclusive right and property of the white man.

The negro has grown up during the past decade under these false ideas of his position, encouraged at times by designing and unscrupulous white men.

When, as in the Georgia case he finds that he must meet death for outrages against society, or as in the Wilmington, N. C. case, he cannot usurp the political right of the white man, he thinks the lessons too severe, perhaps, and yet these lessons must be learned by the negro, and his standing in community and nation will never be stable and assured, until the lesson is not merely learned, but fully lived up to, not by the individual negro alone, but by the entire negro race.

New and Original Advertising.

It is interesting to watch the new ideas always to be found in the advertising of Hood's Sarsaparilla. The present line of advertisements is especially unique, each beginning with a familiar proverb and leading up to the good qualities of this famous medicine. The argument in every case is clinched by condensed testimonials from people that medicine has cured. It is gratifying to see the similar success of an article of genuine merit. While other preparations come to the surface and after a short time disappear, Hood's Sarsaparilla has steadily maintained its place in public confidence

An Argument.

Life is not all sunshine, Herriett.

Yes, I know that; but you know very well, Julius, there are lots of days when I could carry a chiffon parasol, if I had it.

I am in my seventy third year, and for fifty years I have been a great sufferer from indigestion, constipation and biliousness. I have tried all the remedies advertised for these diseases, and got no permanent relief. About one year ago, the disease assuming a more severe and dangerous form, I became very weak, and lost flesh rapidly. I commenced using Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir. CASTORIA.

Free Hairdressing.

Know your self once that you could get almost anything for nothing in New York. This was strongly practically to my notice a few days ago, says a writer in the New York Herald, as I was going up town on Third avenue. I passed a barber shop which displayed this strange sign:

"Ladies' Hairdressing Done Free Every Afternoon From 1 to 5 o'Clock."

As it was past 3 I was prompted by curiosity to go in and investigate. I found the "ladies'" hairdressing parlor a neat, cozy place, with a number of chairs standing in front of a long mirror, which covered one side of the room.

I was fortunate enough to find a subject in the chair, who was having her hair dressed. She was a middled aged, thick headed, respectable looking woman, who was going to the inevitable ball. "Doing" her hair was a nice looking little woman, the head of the hairdressing establishment, and gathered around the chair were half a dozen white coated young men, watching the process of the work and occasionally giving assistance. And that is how the apprentice or student in hairdressing gains his experience, and the clever women who are in touch with the trick get their hair dressed for nothing.

Rheumatism Cured in 24 Hours.

T. J. Blackmore, of Hailey & Blackmore, Pittsburgh, Pa., says: "A short time since I procured a bottle of Mystic Cure. It got me out of the house in 24 hours. I took to my bed with Rheumatism nine months ago and the Mystic Cure is the only medicine that did me any good. I had five of the best physicians in the city, but I received very little relief from them. I know the Mystic Cure to be what it is represented and take pleasure in recommending it to other poor sufferers."

Sold by Henry's Pharmacy.

Safe Boast.

Mallaby—Bragleigh boasts that no living man could forge his name successfully to a check and get it cashed. Has he such a very peculiar signature?
