THE JIM CROW CAR PARCE.

These railroad companies in North Carolina which have thus far made the Sanarate Car law, or as it is often designated the Jim Crow law, a farce, should give up that end of the job and make the law operative, as it was intended to be,

Whatever protest could have been made, and was made by the railroads before the passage of the law, ought to have sufficed the corporations and for some of these corporations to make a covert attack upon the law, by making it obnoxious to travelers is not going to have the effect these railroad companies have in contemplation.

In framing the law the utmost leniescy was shown the railroads, and the greatest faith was placed in their carrying out, completely, the Separate Car bill that was introduced, modified and passed by the last Legislature.

Unquestionably considerable latitude was given the railroads in the matter of the law, in time for its enforcement and in the construction the railroad people would give to the "separateness" of the

Having extended such courtesis to the rallroads, at'a time when the feeling throughout the State was most rigid on the celor line issue, it is meet unfair that any railroad should have taken advantage of the situation, and placed such interpretation upon the law as a swinging curtain being a division, or that a car should so be divided that white passengers should be crowded tegether, while a single negro should have half a car to himself.

The Jim Crow Car farce has gone far enough

The traveling public is in no mood to longer consider it a joke, and unless a just and full interpretation and carrying out of the law is promptly made by offending railroads, which need not be particularized by mention, the offenders are ith a turn which will make the jol expensive one for them.

IS IT RIGHT

For An Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines ?

From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N C. It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various pro-prietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good work for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhosa Remedy. We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of the remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited. We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhosa Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by F. S. Duffy & Co.

HE WAS TOO ANXIOUS TO ASSIST the Welfare of a Blied Man on a Train Get Her Into Trouble With

I knew a good woman once-God never made a better-who on her jourthrough life was always trying to helpful; always looking out to lend be helpful; always looking out to lend a hand to her fellow wayfarers and to make the rough paths amoother and cauter for them. She was never so happy as when she was making some sacrifice or serving some other person, alaring her strongth with the weak or her plenty with the poor, and some-times she overdid it. For the purpose of identification I will call her Mrs. Jones.

While traveling between Utica and Albany one day, a blind man was led into the car and placed in the seat be hind her. Here was a chance for a fore anybody else got ahead of her. She saw that he was comfortably seated; opened her lunch basket and of fered him something to eat; she looked at his ticket to see that it was right and did everything else she could think of to show her interest in a fellow be

The blind man was going to Little sills, and every time the train stopped would inquire in an anxious way if he had reached his destination, and whenever he heard somebody passing through the sisle he would ask how far it was to Little Falls.

Mrs. Jones was alert and answered very question and assured him that she would see to his perfect safety She urged blus to be comfortable and contented and promised to let him know when his journey was ended.

When the train slowed up and a brakeman yelled, "Little Falls!" she pushed aside several officious persons who offered to assist her and, taking the blind man by the hand, led him out to the platform and delivered him to some friends who had come to the station to meet him. After she had bidden him goodby and returned to the car she noticed in the seat he had occupied a well worn satchel. She seized it instantly, rushed to the door and threw it off toward her blind friend on the platform with as much force as she could exert, screaming at the top of her

"You forgot your satchel." Then she returned and took her seat in the car with the consciousness of having performed a Christian duty. Pretty soon a rather rough looking person, who had neglected to shave that morning and chewed tobacco came back from the smoking car and began to look around curiously and in an anxious way. Noticing that Mrs Jones was watching him, he looked at her inquiringly and then said: "Madam, have you seen a satchel that was left in that seat?"

"Yes," she replied promptly. "It be longed to a blind man, and I threw it out to him at Little Falls." "The blank you did!" exclaimed the unshaven citizen, whereupon Mrs.

Jones, perceiving that her friendly interest in the blind man had possibly caused some inconvenience to one who had two large, blaging eyes and was addicted to the tobacco habit, began to apologize. The stranger listened with an expression on his face as if he regretted that murder was out of style, and when Mrs. Jones had completed her somewhat incoherent explanation he remarked: "Madam, permit me to advise you hereafter to mind your own blank business, and let blind men and other folks' gripsacks alone. I am going to Utica to attend court today, and that evidence in a case that involves many thousands of dollars. I have got it continued twice on various pretexts but if I go into court today and tell the ludge that I can't go on because a lunatic has thrown my grip at a blind man, he'll give me the laugh and my elients will be robbed. And you are to

Mrs. Jones protested, apologized and shed tears, and when the conductor came back and sent a telegram to the station agent at Little Falls to find the bag and send it to Utlea by the next train she took out her pocketbook and offered to pay all the expenses. She even offered to leave the train and go onck to Little Falls berself and bring the bag to Utica. She was eager, anxious to do something to repair the amage and aid the lawyer in saving his case. He settled down in his seat, chewed his tobacco calmly and let her
