Official Paper of New Bern and Craven County.

New Bern, N. C., August 2, 1899.

WHAT WAS ACTUALLY SAID.

The latest forum of so-called journalism, promoted and successfully carried on by the yellow journals, seeks not the legitimate news, that which by all right belongs to the reporter and his newspaper, and which the reading public have the right to know, but rather the yellows strive to ferret out and betray the individual, seeking to gain private secrets for a morbid reading constituency, from the rambly and discordant utterances of the sleep talker, the drunkard, the morphine eater and the cocaine fiend.

When these are not available, the eaves dropping method is pursued, the jest at the club is made fato fact, or the private confidence is betrayed by the publication of personal confidences.

Capt. Coghlan of the Cruiser Raleigh, was food for the Yellows, and now Admiral Dewey is either wrongfully credited or has had his confidence betrayed by the sentence imputed to him. "Our next war will be with Germany.

It is this yellow journalistic method of today, which makes of questionable value such publications.

They are read for their sensations, the improbableness of their matter gives their readers the mental excitement sought, while for the matter of what was actually said or how said is of no consequence.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for testimonials.

"Sure," replied Judge Lynch of Arizona. "We have used telegraph poles ever since I can remember."

A Nice, Original Man.

While a good many of the funny stories of "She asked me to hold the baby" have been written and the subject consequently is somewhat frayed, still the scene that occurred in Madison square one night was funny. A genial looking old gentleman was sitting on a bench beside a portly, well dressed woman who had a baby in her arms. The two got in conversation by the old gentleman remarking, "How well the baby behaves," for the little thing lay and slept peacefully wrapped in numerous rollings.

Presently the woman said she was going over to Fourth avenue to buy a bottle of milk and requested the old man to hold the baby. "Why, certainly," said he. "I've been a father and grandfather to so many that I know how to handle them." The woman went away and didn't come back. The old gentleman became nervous, but as the baby still slept on peacefully he waited until long past his own bedtime for the mother to return.

It was nearly midnight when he walked into the police station and handed over the bundle. Then he barely escaped arrest for trying to hoax the sergeant when the wrappings were thrown aside and there was disclosed a papier mache doll, one of those jointed things from Paris which admirably reproduce an appearance of life.—New York News.

He Held on to His Kattle.

On the afternoon of June 1, 1872, an old painter named William McCullough while painting the bridge above the falls between the first and second Sister Islands fell into the rapids. Instantly he was swept furiously toward the cataract, but whirled into lesser waves so that he struck against and seized a rock not far above the brink. Hundreds quickly gathered on the shore and waterland, all eager to help, but ignorant what to do. Among them was Thomas Conroy, who secured a coil of rope, fastened one end to a tree on shore and with the other end in his hand waded out as far as he could and occasionally swam, the water being from 18 inches to six feet deep.

He aimed far up stream to allow for the power of the current and at last with great difficulty reached the unfortunate painter and bound him to himself with the rope. They were swept off their feet several times on the way back to shore, but the rope had been firmly fastened, and they finally landed safely. When they reached shore, it was found that McCullough still clutched his putty knife firmly in his hand, having held it during the three hours he had been on the brink of the falls.—F. A. Acland in "Adventures at Niagara," in Youth's Companion.

It is an established fact that lemons, when combined properly with other liver tonics, produce the most desirable results upon the stomach, liver, bowels, kidneys and blood. Little Jamie—We've had gran'pa and Uncle Henry locked up in the cupboard for an hour, an' when they get a little angrier, I'm going to play "going into the lions' cage."

Their Business Booming

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at C D Bradham's drug store as their giving away to their many customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this very valuable remedy, from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis, croup, and all throat and lung diseases are quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size 50c, and $1.00. Every bottle warranted,

A Sickly Set.

Jennie—Herbie, it says here another octogenarian's dead. What's an octogenarian?

Herbie—Well, I don't know just what they are, but they must be awfully sickly creatures. You never hear of em' but they are dying.

A Mother Tells How She Saved Her Little Daughter's Life.

I am the mother of eight children and have had a great deal of experience with medicines. Last summer my little daughter had the dysentery in its worst form We thought she would die. I tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do her any good. I saw by an advertisement in our paper that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy was highly recommended and sent and got a bottle at once. It proved to be one one of the very best medicines we every had in the house. It saved my little daughter's life. I am anxious for every mother to know what an excellent medicine it is. Had I known it at first it would have saved me a great deal of anxiety and my little daughter much suffering. Yours truly, MRS. GEORGE F. BURDICK, Liberty, R. I. For sale by F S Duffy & Co.

Only Way to do it.

I am writing an article, he said, on "The Way to Manage a Woman."

I suppose it will be a long one, she replied in a slightly scornful tone.

No, he answered; it will be quite short in fact, it it will consist of only two words—"Don't try!"

Then she knew him to be a man of sense and experience in spite of his apparent youth.

Making a Choice.

Which do you prefer? asked her indulgent father. It is so hard to decide, she answered, but at the price quoted I think the duke is a better bargain than the count. I guess you may buy me the duke.

During the civil war, as well as in our late war with Spain, diarrhoea was one of the most troublesome diseases the army had to contend with. In many instances it became chronic and the old soldiers still suffer from it. Mr. David Taylor of Wind Ridge, Greene Co., Pa., is one of these. He uses Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and says he never found anything that would give him such quick relief. It is for sale by F. S. Duffy & Co.

Theodore Bikel's Heroism.

Good stories of William Morris are told by J. W. Mackail in his "Life."

"Morris went to Jones' on Sunday night," runs a note in Miss Horne's diary, "while they were here, and his hair was so long and he looked so wild that the servant who opened the door would not let him in, thinking he was a burglar."

Morris had a temper, also sound teeth. Once, in a fury, he bit a silver table fork all out of shape. On another occasion he hauled a fifteenth century folio at a workman. The book went through the workshop door. In his fits of anger Morris would drive his head against a wall or bite deep into the window frame.

Morris was honestly a socialist. When his workshops and their contents were worth $75,000, he surrendered all profits and took foreman's wages, thus enabling the business to pay $2.50 per week better wages to each man.

Morris began designing wall papers and decorations by accident, because he couldn't find any fit to buy. Nor did he use in designing, except at first, and colors. Once he showed a rich customer some bright Hammersmith carpets.

"Are these all?" asked the buyer. "But I thought your colors were subdued?"

"If you want dirt," said Morris, "you can find that in the street."

And to the street the customer went.

How They Saved Cable Tolls.

Every American traveling abroad knows that he is able to notify his friends in America of his safe arrival in Paris by registering his name at one of the newspaper offices. The names are cabled over every day and appear on the following morning in the New York editions.

This custom struck two smart business men as being open to large possibilities. One of them goes to Paris every spring upon business, and, in order that the one who remains in New York should be kept posted as to what his partner is doing, a large amount of cabling is necessary

In order to economize in this matter, it is said that the two partners arranged a cipher, made up of family and Christian names. Every day that the partner in Paris transacted some business he walked into the newspaper office and registered there under some name and address that conveyed to his colleague in New York an exact idea of the progress he was making.

The name, initial and place of residence registered represented some item of information which the partner in New York learned next day upon reading the newspaper's list of arrivals in Paris.—Stray Stories.

The Company Stood It.

On one of the trolley lines leading to a well known amusement park they have a system whereby the cars are stopped at certain points to allow uniformed inspectors to count the passengers, presumably as a check on the conductors. Among the passengers on the car was a well dressed young fellow with a penchant for cracking jokes at other people's expense. When the car stopped for the count up, he had a lot of fun thrusting jibes at the inspector, the conductor and the trolley company people in general. Finally, just as the car was about to resume its journey, he called out:

"Say, Mister Inspector, you missed me."

The inspector turned and looked the young fellow over very carefully.

"Humph!" he retorted. "I guess the company can stand it. I didn't miss much."

Then everybody laughed, the young fellow got red in the face, the motorman turned on the current, and the car sped onward.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

An Awful Blunder.

At a Rosenthal recital in Seattle a young pianist of considerable social prominence sat in a stage box and followed the performance by means of the scores of the several morceaux which composed the programme. She was evidently deeply interested, and stopped at intervals to exchange notes with a companion who sat behind her. All went beautifully until the artist came to the last piece, a tremendously heavy Liast. In the midst of an intricate passage, the lady, much excited, rose in her box, holding out the roll of music toward the stage. "That's wrong! That's wrong!" she cried. "You should have crossed your hands there."—San Francisco Wave.

Whale Tooth Coin.

Whales' teeth form the coinage of the Fiji islands. They are painted white and red, the red teeth being worth about 20 times as much as the white. The native carries his wealth round his neck, the red and white of his coinage forming a brilliant contrast to his black skin. A common and curious sight in the Fiji islands is a newly married wife presenting her husband with a dowry of whales' teeth.

Another View of the Matter.

"I firmly believe," she said, "that woman should have the right to propose."

"Of course," if woman proposes," he replied, "she would give an engagement ring and other presents, instead of receiving them."

"On second thought," she answered, "perhaps it would be better not to change existing conditions."—Chicago Post.

Wesley a Vegetarian.

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, seems to have been not only a pioneer of the temperance movement, but also an apostle of vegetarianism. He states in one of his sermons that for several years he subsisted on potatoes and found that doing so conduced largely to promote that splendid health which he enjoyed.
