Wandell Phillips and Blatne. When Wendell Phillips was last in Washington, he was for a few minutes on the floor of the United States senate, surrounded by a group of senators, among whom was Senator James G. Bigine, given a favorite with Mr. Phillips. It so happened that a few recks before this time Mr. Binine, in presenting to congress the statue of Governor King. first governor of Maine, to be placed in the rotunds of the capitol, had commented severely on the loyalty of Massachusetts, and especially the Federalist party, during the war with Great Britain in 1812.

Of this party the father of Wendell Phillips, John Phillips, was a con-spicuous member. When Blaine's speech was made Dawes and Hoar were senators from Massachusetts, and they both essayed some sort of at impromptu reply thereto, but did them-selves little credit in parrying the thrusts of Blaine's glittering rapier. So, when Wendell Phillips met Blaine on this occasion, he said to him
