The Stranded Steamer.

Seventeen of the crew of the steame City of Jacksonville" which went on the beach six miles south of Portsmouth on September 18th, came up yesterday on the A. & N. C. Railroad and took the Atlantic Coast Line for Wilmington, where they will leave for New York. There were four white and thirteen colored in the crew. The steamer is still on the beach but work is proceeding to remove her, and the vessel is not ret considered a loss.

Mastache Too Light.

Yesterday afternoon a negro supposed to be "Sing" Nixon, who shot William Tucker in the fight over a crap game in "Brooklyn," was arrested in New Bern by the local authorities there. The authorities here have been notified and if the prisoner is identified as Nixon he will be brought here and lodged in jail to answer the charge of assault and baitery with a deadly weapon. Tucker, the wounded negro, la doing remarkably well at the Hospital.-Wilmington Star The negro arrested answered the description of the man wanted in all particulars except as to mustache. The description said dark and heavy but on cond inspection the man arrested did sot have that kind, but a small and rather light one. So he was released from cus-

"The olio was a long one, but not tiresome and some splendid eccentric danc-ing was given by Willie Patten, while the ' "genteel" act by the Horner Brothers, and the laughable creations by the Hickman trio were most entertaining. Nicola Garzia, the equilibrist, executed some difficult feats. "The show as a whole, was up to the average, and much better than some minstrel companies that have been seen here."

> Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly For October, 1899.

Frank Leslie's Populer monthly for October contains the first part of a masterly review, by the Hou. Lyman J. Gage, Secretary of the Treasury, of "The Fluances of Our Wars." In this article, which is elaborately filustrated from official sources, Secretary Gage discusses most interestingly, and without resort to dry figures or statistics, the finances and financiers of the Revolution, the Continental paper currency, and the War of 1813. The Mexican War, the Civil War, and the late Spanish-Ameri-can conflict, will be treated in a second
