ARE THEY LEAVING ?

Said That Many Negroes Are Moving To The North.

The Oyster Beds Examination. What Butler Wants. Test Case of Craig Law. Penitentiary Payments Number of Students and Scholars.

RALPHIGH, October 7.—The railroad people here say large numbers of negroes are leaving this section for the north. New York appears to be the objective point of most of them. It is said that as many as 3,500 have left Wilmington in the past eleven months, but the accuracy of this is questioned.

State Geologist Holmes was here. He has been at Washington to prepare copies of the surveys of the oyster waters of North Carolina. He got these and they are now on the United States fish commissioner's steamer Fish Hawk, which is, as has been stated, making a critical and most important examination of the oyster waters. Some able specialists are on board, among them a biologist.

Congressman A. W. Water, of this district, is here. When he was informed that Senator Butler had declared against the franchise amendment, he said: "That means that he proposes to fuse the Populists with the Republicans. But he can't deliver the goods."

Insurance Commissioner Young, who has been sick for a month and who has had a relapse, is at Henderson and is improving.

General McCarthy, who again takes charge of the etiological work of the Agricultural Department, said today that for a year past he had been studying at the University of Chicago. He expresses his great pleasure at being back in North Carolina. He was born a deaf mute, but was taught to articulate.

The anti-expectation and anti-telegraph and telephone pole ordinances are everywhere these things here. Both are along good and proper lines.

Revenue Collector Duncan is informed by Deputy Collector Scatterfield, of the seizure of three illicit distilleries.

Considerable interest is felt in the case at Durham to test the question whether the Craig law as to domestication of corporations can prevent the Western Union Company from placing a case in the Federal Courts, the amount involved being over $4,000. Some lawyers have said that the Craig law would hold; others that it was valueless. Some lawyer said that a case from Louisiana proved that it would not hold water.

Capt. Fletcher, U. S. A., will next Monday assume charge of the cadets at the A. & M. College here. The battalion is to have four companies, with a strength of about 200.

At the Treasury Department today it was said by Chief Clerk Duncan that in August the penitentiary paid $1,881 into the Treasury and in September $29,938, and that between February and August it had paid in nothing. Purchasing Agent Arendell, of the penitentiary, who was present, said that between February and August all accounts were kept with a bank. He said the payments made were merely of receipt from incidentals; that no cotton had been sold; that the market was being watched and that the sale would be governed by the conditions, that cotton might be held on storage or might not.

This city's public schools open next week. When these and the institutions for the blind and deaf-mutes are in operation there will be 4,500 students in the various public and private universities, colleges, schools, etc. This will include those in the seven public schools, St. Mary's, Peace Institute, the Baptist Female University, the Agricultural and Mechanical College, the Roman Catholic school, the Raleigh Male Academy, the institutions for the white-blind and for negro deaf-mutes and blind, Shaw University and St. Augustine's Normal School.

Today the football team of the A. & M. College goes to the State University to play its team.

AGAIN NO RACE.

One Mile From Finish. Columbia In Advance.

Nip and Tuck all the Way Through. Shamrock Plainly Handled. Promise of Good Wind But It Died Out.

Special to Journal.

New York, October 7.—The wind was blowing twelve miles an hour at Sandy Hook, with clear, bright skies, and the chances of a race were good, when the preparatory gun was fired at 11:03. At 11:15 the warlike whistle on the Judge's boat was blown and at 11:30 the starting gun was fired and the Shamrock and Columbia started on a race which proved a fizzle, the third successive failure of the week.

The Columbia crossed the line at 11:31:02 and the Shamrock at 11:31:19. The Columbia was at the east end of the line and the Shamrock at the west end. The wind dropped to ten miles an hour soon after the start. The Shamrock had considerable trouble with her topsail early in the race.

Shortly after the start, at 11:33 the Shamrock took the wind from the Columbia's sails and passed her. At this time an accident occurred among the accompanying fleet of steamers. The steamer Cambridge attempted to cross the bow of the steamer Ponca. There was a collision and the Ponca had a hole stove in her bow.

At the end of the first hour the two racers were abreast. The wind was light and gradually the Shamrock drew ahead of her rival and obtained a little lead. On nearing the stake boat, or outer mark, the Shamrock changed her course and passed the mark 9 seconds ahead of the defender of the cup. The official time for rounding the outer mark, fifteen miles from start, was 1:39:25 for the Shamrock and 1:39:34 for the Columbia. The reports sent out were very conflicting, the yacht being close together and either one appearing ahead according to the angle at which the observer was placed.

After turning the stake boat it was reported that the Irish yacht outpointed the American boat in beating up against the wind, but the yachts appeared to be close together, each in turn taking the lead.

At 3:02 the yachts were still eight miles from the Sandy Hook lightship. The contest was so close that it seemed that the result would depend on the closest maneuvering and on obtaining the windward position. At the time the Columbia began to gain slightly on her opponent.

The race was called for the limit of time given, of hours. The time limit expired for the Columbia at 4:51:09 and for the Shamrock at 4:51:19. When the race was declared off, the yachts were about one mile south of the finish line. The Columbia had a lead of about 300 yards and in addition had the weather berth.

Experts say that the races should start at seven o'clock in the morning, when there is more chance of the wind continuing. J. L. Norton's yacht again proved a mighty fine boat. She gained 26 seconds on the race to the stake boat. It seems to be the opinion of the yachting cracks that the challenger did better work than the defender in the work to windward. She was also beautifully handled. But there was not much to choose as the racers kept close together during the run.

RIOT ON STEAMER.

Awful Scenes During The Yacht Race on The Georgiana.

Eight Hundred Persons Are Engaged or Witness a Fierce Struggle. Presence of Gamblers The Reason. Many Arrested.

Special to Journal.

New York, Oct. 7.—There was a fierce riot during the yacht race today, on board the steamer Georgiana. About eight hundred persons were aboard at the time. A number of men received cuts on the head and face. The passengers became angry over being forced, as all kinds of gambling games and a gang of blacklegs are said to have chartered the boat. These men came from Philadelphia and were led it is alleged by a man named Torbrigton.

Off Liberty light before the scene of the yacht race was reached many passengers were rebuked by trickery. Captain Henry, of the Georgiana, announced that owing to the condition of the engines and boilers the best would have to return at once to the city. There had been some fighting previous to this because of the loss of money among those on board, but with this announcement fighting began.

The passenger had paid one dollar apiece, a few more than that, to see the races and demanded that the boat proceed. The captain refused. The angry passengers at once gave vent to their wrath. Some made for the captain, who ran and hid in the coal bunker. Other charges on the gamblers and seized their paraphernalia. The black legs ran down into the engine room to hide, fighting those who attempted to obstruct their way. Faro, Roulette and the chuck-a-luck lay out were thrown over board and the tables upon which the games had been conducted on the lower deck were also cast into the sea. The passengers became enraged and decided to take things into their own hands.

Captain Norton, wearing his G. A. R. badge, gathered eight determined men and hunted up the captain of the steamer. They threatened to throw him overboard if they found him but he kept safely out of sight. Then Captain Norton and his next officer in command made him fly the flag union down as a signal of distress. The Georgiana then turned around and was brought back to the city as it was too late for the passengers to see the yacht race except the finish. All way back the lower deck was a scene of fight after fight. A number of women were on board. Screams of terror added to the uproar and many fainted.

The gamblers knowing that the signal of distress would be seen by the police, tried to take down the flags as the boat neared Governor's Island. This was the cause of the fiercest fight of all. With fists, canes and chairs, motion and his men fought the gamblers. Many painful cuts and bruises were received, but the black legs were driven back and the distress ensigns stayed up and they also did the work intended.

From the pier, twenty-five policemen went to the rescue, being taken on the tax Edward B. King. After the policemen had boarded the steamer, Capt. Allaire ordered the vessel to proceed to pier six, North river. Thirty-six prisoners were taken to the station house in New York.
