Official Paper of New Bern and Craven County.

New Bern, N. C., Nov. 16, 1899.

MAKING GOOD HIS PROMISES.

The word pledges of Mr. James A. Bryan, upon taking the Presidency of the Atlantic and North Carolina Railroad, as being as rapidly made good, as material efforts can accomplish them.

Without quoting President Bryan's exact words, the main point in his address upon taking the chief place on the railroad, was the assurance that the road would be conducted and run upon business principles, and the people along the line given a passenger and freight service that would meet all their requirements.

President Bryan has also made it distinctly understood that the A. & N. C. R. R. was not to be run on the idea that "political dividends" was its only purpose, but instead the road was to give public service, first, and if possible, dividends afterwards, the primary object being the best interests of the people and the section through which the railroad passes.

That the people are recognizing and appreciating the making good of these promises on the part of President Bryan is most thoroughly evidenced by the resolutions passed Tuesday night by the New Bern Chamber of Commerce, and published in this paper, this commercial body through its members receiving benefits that fully warranted the public expression as set forth in the resolutions, unanimously passed by the Chamber of Commerce.

It cannot be a matter of self congratulation to President Bryan, that the changes he has instituted meet with such quick and hearty approval, not merely in words but by the increased business which has come to his road, showing plainly that this section's interests needed the changed conditions, in the way of improved and greater train service over the Atlantic & North Carolina.

Increased passenger service, has met with increased patronage, improved terminal facilities, finds increased business, while improvements along the line find increased respect and regard from every one traveling over the line of road.

The Journal congratulates President James A. Bryan on his immediate success of making good his promises in the affairs of the Atlantic and North Carolina, which promise to bring this road forth as the "New Mallet Road," the "Old Mallet" having passed away.

Needed a Change. I am not satisfied with the new minister, said the old-fashioned deacon: his sermons are too short.

I could stand that, said the liberal brother, if they were not so narrow.

Even that might be overlooked, said third, a staid one, but they are hopelessly shallow.

Then they voted to make a change.

AUGUST FLOWER.

"It is a surprising fact," says Prof. Hooton, "that in my travels in all parts of the world, for the last ten years, I have met more people having used Green's August Flower than any other remedy, for dyspepsia, deranged liver and stomach, and for constipation. I find for tourists and salesmen, or for persons filling office positions, where headaches and general bad feelings from deranged habits exist, that Green's August Flower is a grand remedy. It does not irritate the system by frequent use, and is excellent for your stomach and indigestion." Sample bottles free at F. R. Duff & Co's.

Sold by dealers in all civilized countries.

Chamberlain's Pain Balm Cures Others.

Why Not You?

My wife has been using Chamberlain's Pain Balm, with good results, for a lame shoulder that has pained her continually for nine years. We have tried all kinds of medicines and doctors without receiving any benefit from any of them. One day we saw an advertisement of this medicine and thought of trying it, which we did with the best of satisfaction. She has used only one bottle and her shoulder is almost well.—ANOTHER L. MINNERS, Manchester, N. H. For sale by F. R. Duff & Co.

"Want of Watchfulness Makes the Thief."

Many cases of poor health come from want of watchfulness. But if you keep your blood pure no thief can steal your health.

The one effective, natural blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. It never disappoints. Impure Blood—"Five years I suffered with pimples on face and body. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me permanently. It also cured my father's carbuncles." ALBERT E. CHASE, Trinita City, Cal.

Cataracts—"Disagreeable catarrhal droppings in my eyes made me nervous and dizzy. My liver was torpid. Hood's Sarsaparilla corrected both troubles. My health is very good." MRS. ELYRIA J. SMILEY, 171 Main St., Auburn, Maine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Never Disappoints.

Hood's Pills cure liver bile, the most irritating and only cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

The Wrong Woman.

"He's looking for a wife," they said to her, pointedly.

"He would be an object of greater interest to me," she replied, with some asperity, "if he were looking for a single woman."

It's Inevitable Every Day.

Mytic Cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits. 75 cents. Sold by T. A. Henry, druggist New Bern.

Saved the Rent.

"Did you save the country, Fat?"

"How's that?"

"Be your rote?"

"No beggary. But I saved the rent."

The Sultan.

The president of the United States is no more informal than the sultan in his manner of receiving guests. He places his visitor beside him on the sofa and himself lights the cigarette for smokers. The cigarette is never out of his fingers. As the sultan is supposed to speak no languages but Turkish and Arabic his majesty, though a good French scholar, carries on conversation through a dragoman.

Quite recently a very great lady had the honor of dining with his majesty—the first Turkish sovereign, by the way, who has ever admitted a Christian woman to his table. After dinner the lady noticed a mousetrap, which had been forgotten, on one of the chairs.

"Oh," said the sultan, "that is an excellent trap! It has caught no mice in England, and I have caught no mice in it today."—"You're a Companion."

Expels in a Strange Role.

The dancing girls of Bangkok are always exercising in the royal gymnasium. Their ages vary from 5 to 30 years. The curious and subtle feat of picking up a bit of straw with the eyelids can be learned only by the youngest of them, who are made to practice it in order to render them flexible in every part of the body. There are two long rows of besoes, one a little higher than the other. On the lower is a row of little girls, and on the upper bench are laid the polished bits of straw. At the sound the girls drum the little girls all together bend back the head and neck until they touch the bits of straw, which with wonderful dexterity they secure between the corners of their eyelids.—London Modern Society.

A Queer Old.

In every town and village insurance agents are ever on the alert for those who are anxious to prepare for the future. A loquacious member of that ilk was the other day endeavoring to persuade an Irishman to take out a policy, explaining to him the advantages his wife and family would reap at his death, and so forth, when the Irishman wound up with:

"Bedad, it's a queer claim, I think. Ye get nothing till ye be dead."—Pearson's Weekly.

Not What She Meant.

Young Wife—Oh, Charlie, dear, the new cook has burnt the beef; but then, she's so young and inexperienced! Will a kiss compensate you for her carbuncles?"

Charlie—I've no objection. Send her in.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Used by British Soldiers in Africa.

Capt. C. G. Danneberg is well known all over Africa as commander of the forces that captured the famous rebel Galla. Under date of November 1897, from Yergang, Bechuanaland, he writes:

"I have a quantity of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I have used it with great success, and had given it to my wife and family. It is a grand good medicine, and I can recommend it to all my friends."—F. R. Duff & Co.

One of Love's Conditions.

(Shipping the flag on the dagger)—"Let's say this secret a little while, darling. Don't say anything about it!"

"In a whisper"—"I was here—ill! I find out whether the stone is genuine or not."

Don't look, Hubbard, O. says, "My wife had piles forty years. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cured her. It is the best thing in the world. It costs very little and cures all the diseases." F. R. Duff.

The Applied Arts.

All sorts of tapestry, more or less valuable, fills the market of art, but the current is once more turning with increasing steadiness and strength toward the point where art becomes the handmaid that ministers to the practical needs of man. Painters and sculptors are working with the architects not only in beautifying buildings, but in giving an artistic perfection to the furnishings and utensils. Stained glass, mosaic, wall papers and fabrics, furniture, posters, book and magazine illustrations are only some of the numerous branches of activity which the movement opens up to the artist. It is quite within recent years that it has reached our shores, but now that it is come its continuance and its spread are assured, for it appeals exactly to the democratic conditions of the national life. It brings the masses in touch with art and in the way most likely to influence them—by daily contact.

Museums too much to refine and cultivate the thousands who visit them, but their usefulness would be small compared with a diffusion of art among all the things of everyday life. That is the goal to which the movement in favor of the "applied arts" is directed, and undeniably none could be nobler. No doubt it is a long way off, but it is no reason for despairing of the possibility of reaching it. Nor is the material character of American life a bar to it. The Athenians of Pericles' time, the Italians of the renaissance and the Dutchmen of the 17th century were material enough and fully as bent on matters merely mercenary, and yet they surrounded themselves with the evidences, in small things as well as big, of taste and refinement.

There is no incompatibility between materialism and art, especially when at the back of both is a strong pride in citizenship. A large share of the credit for what has already been accomplished is due to the architects. On their devolves the execution of the biggest evidences of improved taste, and they have it in their power to combine with their own work that of the painters and sculptors.—Harper's Weekly.

Butterfly Neckties.

"I had a singular experience during a recent tour of Europe," remarked a gentleman prominent in the literary world, "in the search for one of the simple, ordinary butterfly neckties. There was a time when I wore scarfs and ties more elaborate, but that has passed, and I, like many other men who have passed the meridian of life, am content with comfort instead of looks. I had a pretty good supply of butterfly ties with me, but somehow I mislaid them while in Rome. I searched through nearly every store in the Eternal City, but could not find any. I had a similar experience in Berlin and Vienna. I was told, however, that I would have no trouble to secure what I wanted in Paris, but, though I tried nearly all the large establishments, I could not find such a thing, though there were hundreds of other styles easily obtainable. Next I tried London, though more for the fun of the thing than anything else, for I had some time to order in Paris, and strange as it may appear, none of the haberdashers of London could supply them. Until this experience I did not know that the butterfly tie is distinctly an American idea and is only known here."—Washington Star.

What the Blind Girl Said.

"When my wife gets to jawing," said a man, "I preserve a dignified silence."

"Yes, I heard about it," said the other man. "I heard your blind girl telling her hired girl that you was the best hand at settin' round an' sulkin' she ever seen."
