ONLY CONTEMPT FOR ROBERTS. Brigham H. Roberts, who attempted te enter the United States Congress with his bigamous record, and who for a few short days kept himself before the public in the role of a martyr, this case now cease ; to interest the public, although it has not yet been settled.

Even those persons who considered Roberts entitled to some congressions rights, and would have advecated giving him a seat and trying him afterwards. upon his record, are perfectly disgusted with the showing that Roberts has made in his trial, and especially in his at-tempts to cast doubts as to his having married and lived with wives, two and three.

That Roberts can live openly with three wives in Utah, and then come to Washington to represent not only the people of Utah, but to the world, the people of the entire United States, and pretend to have only one actual wife, is not calculated to help his cause, but rather injure it, for the public has no use. for the man who will attempt to advance himself at the sacrifice of a woman.

And Roberts, attempted evasions as to his bigamous record, can only provoke contempt for him, as a man of no moral courage, and one who would sacrifice ties, which ought to be sacred to him, for the sake of a political job.

The showing of the case is enough to defeat him, even before a verdict is reached, and so far as the public is concerned it can only have a deserved contempt for Reberts, not as a bigamist, but for his miserable shirking of the home duties which he promised to keep, and his denial of those women whom he promised to honor and protect;

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. In one of the local newspaper offices came rushing brough the editor's room one day, her proofs flying like ribbons from both hands, which she held up in horror. She was a new member on the staff. Plainly she was accited. "See there," she said to the editor in chief, "Just look at that."

She threw the curls of paper upon his desk, put her finger on a spot and

Har Pathetic Contr

Her Pathetic Contrast. It is not in the saying of pungent things or even witty things that chil-drem become interesting, and this is why yoo often the glimpees of children we have given usare so unsatisfactory. It is the atterance of things that have a heart of pathes that makes the talk of little ones so wonderful. A lady standing between two heds at a children's hospital not long ago upon the occasion of a small feast opened con-peration with one of the patients by maving:

aying: "What have you had, dear?" "The pleurisy, ma'am," came the

"And what has this little girl had?"

"And what has this little girl had?" "She's had cake, ma'am." This may be the sort of thing you emfle at while your throat tightens, but if you are a woman the heart of love in you is taken captive.--New York Led-ner.

Reason For Shortness.

"Do you know that a man is three eights of an inch shorter at night than he is in the merning ?" demanded Dinsmore.

"The last time stocks took a tumble replied Mullins, "I was $3,000 shorter a night than in the morning."

> Dyspepsia can be, and is cured by the use of PAIN-KILLER. This is the most wonderful and valuable medicine ever known for this disease; its action upon the system is entirely different from any other preparation ever known. The patient while taking this medicine may eat anything the appetite craves. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer. Perry Davis'. Price 25c and 60c.

Gentility Passing Away.

Gentility Pasing Away. A fundances that is almost brutal seems to pass current in society for up to date smartuces, and the language shat is now used by certain fashionable people among themselves is sometimes only a little short of tillingspate, while "swear words" seem to have lost their awfulness and are used almost as freely by women as by men. It is curions how "gentility" both as a word and a quality has disappeared. Pashionable people are distinctly no longer "gen-ted." They may on occasions be high-bred, but the mincing propriety of the balles and beaus of yore has entirely disappeared. In a well known society norel written 15 or 30 years ago, which was a presumably corroct delineation of the manners and habits of the fash-ionable life of that time, two hereines of the manners and habits of the fash-ionable life of that time, two heroines play their role-one a Vere de Vere, with the correct speech and manners of her caste, and the other a suddenly ex-alted bourgeoise, who goes through the social fires of criticism and experience before she emerges true gold from the ordeal. Oddly enough today the types might be reversed; it is the bourgeoise who is "high toned" and the Vere de Vere who is a alangy holden.-New York Trihune. York Tribune,
