Spion Kop were six thousand men.
Spion Kop, which is regarded as the key to the Boer position, is the highest part of a rocky plateau. Eastward for eight miles are the Boer positions along the Tugela. Northwestward from Spion Kop the plateau runs gradually up to great spur of the Drakensburg. Gen eral Warren's infantry, to reach the sum mit of Spion Kop had to cross an epoi plain three quarters of a mile wide and climb 500 lest up a steep slope.

The attack on Spien Kop, it is believed here, was simultaneously delivered on in conflict with the constitution of the two sides, from Trichard's drift and United States or of a State. The many letters from all parts of the State British force directly available for the assault was about 20,000 men. All these would not likely be put into action at S. Lucas, Wilson, N. C. once. Probably the assailing line would not be stronger than 5,000 men to be followed by strong supports. The Daily Mail said in anticipation of the attack: "As to the probability of success we cannot speak.
