WINE OF CARDUL Woman Knows Woman.

Ecuton, Kan., Jan. 31. I used Wine of Cardul for nor-younness and weakness in the womb. After taking one bottle I was well again. I am a midwife and always recommend Wine of Cardul to my lady friends during pregnancy and after birth as a tomic. Every lady who takes it floth that it does even more than is claimed for it. MRS. V. M. BOISVERT.

MIELBER'S Wine Gardu

Nobody knows woman like woman. Men go to medical colleges, study books and listen to lectures. They learn indirectly of the diseases of women, but they are men and can never fully understand the aliments, the sufferings, the agonies of mothers, wives and sisters. A woman knows. Mrs. Boisvert knows. She has passed through the trials and tribulations of her sex. She has been near by when her sisters suffered. She has seen them relieved and crited with Wine of Cardul. Is it any wonder that thousands of other women recommend it.

A CONFIDENTIAL CASE.

"A good many years ago t ind a case that set me to thinking, and I haven't yet determined what my duty was in the matter. At that time I had a small practice in a little town in the western part of the state. Upon my return to the town one day, after having been away a few days on a matter of business. I was called upon to defend a worthless character who had been arrested for hog stealing.

"At that time every one kept at least one hog to be killed in the fall and saited down for use in the winter. One of my neighbors and buschered a hog a few days before, and the party that I was called upon to defend had been charged with their of it.

"The case was about to be called when I arrived, and I asked for a little time in which to consult with my client. This was granted, and taking him to one side I said:

"Now, see here, the best thing that

"Now, see here, the best thing that you can do is to make a clean breast of the affair to me, and then I will know just where I stand. Whatever you may confess to me I will treat as sacredly confidential, and I will do my best to clear you.

"'I didn't steal his hog, Protested the prisouer.

"Then where did you get the carcass that was found in your possession?' I demanded.

"Even your back peach boar' he

"'From your back porch, boss,' he answered with a grin.
"Then I remembered that just before going away I had left orders to have my hog killed, and I could only gasp.
However, I went to work and clearful my client of the charge he was under and took the carcass of my own hog as payment for services rendered, but had hard work treating what he told ne as sucred and confidential."-Detrolt Free Press. ___

ELASTIC APPOINTMENTS.

Original Way in Which an M. Pleases Ills Constituents.
A noted M. C., familiarly known as Joe, is one of the thriftiest men in congress, and the patronage at his disposal gress, and the patrouage at his disposal is made to do effective work in his home district. Not long ago he requested of a certain chief in the interior department an appointment as laborer for one of his constituents. The request was promptly compiled with, but, much to the surprise of the chief, as promptly declined. The member was sent for

"What does this mean?" demanded the official. "The man you were so urgent to have named as a laborer de-"Yes, I know," replied the M. C. "I dvised him to. "You advised him to," echoed the you exactly what you asked for, didn't 1?" didn't 17"

"Yes," responded Joe. "I have no fault to find with the appointment. The case is like this: My constituents to get soft berths in the government service. There are a dozen here new and not places enough to go around. I secure the appointment for one, he asks my advice, and I tell bim to decline; his job at home is better, so he goes back satisfied. I appoint another. He declines at my advice, but he has been paid, he is flattered and content, and so on through the

Holding the Ladder.

A workman in Cooper institute, having occasion to ascend a ladder to do some repairing in one of the public rooms, called to an old man whom he happened to see standing by watching him, "Here, old fellow, hold the ladder for me, won't you?" The "old fellow" started forward and held the ladder for the workman while he climbed up and did his work."

"That unpretentious and willing old man," says The independent, "was Peter Cooper." It was just like him. Peter Cooper a him in life and in the beneficent institution founded by him might well be characterized by the words "holding the ladder." Thousands of rightly sublitious men and women owe the possibility of their advancement to Peter Cooper. He has held, and still holds, the ladder, and hundreds upon hundreds of successful and grateful climbers as they rise bless his memory. We cannot all build such piles as Cooper Union, but we can hold the ladder somewhere, somehow, for somebody.

fore 23 years of age when he made his appearance.

Astley Cooper, the famous physician, was among the throng who poured into the building in which Searst received those who were analous to see him, and in writing of him he gaid:

"Searnt is without doubt the most mysterious being I have encountered. His face is that of an ordinary man, somewhat emaciated perhaps, but not remarkably so. His eyes are bright and his voice is pleasing. Seen in the ordinary costume of the day, he in no way differs from the average foreigner, but stripped of his padded clothing he presents an astounding spectacle.

"His arms are mere bones, covered by parchmentilike skin and muscle, and flesh he appears to have uone. He is therefore scarcely shie to move his arms and legs, and walks, though without apparent effort, with extreme difficulty. On measuring him and weighing him I found that his chest measurement was 30% inches, which is feire that his weight was not more.

weighing him I found that his chest measurement was 30% inches, which is fair; that his weight was not more than 45 pounds, the bones being much smaller than those of an ordinary man of his stature, who might weigh 150 pounds. In appearance, indeed, he so much resembled a skelvton that a shortsighted person might easily mistake him for one."

Scurat's food consisted of two or three ounces of bread and meat daily, and sometimes he took a little wine. He was remarkably intelligent and well read and picked up English rapidly. On arriving at places where he was not known he was accustomed to walk out in his pudded clothes and did not attract any particular atten-tion. He said that until the age of 10 years he resembled any ordinary boy, but that he suddenly wasted away He died in 1849, aged 52 years.-Chica

NEWS TRAVELS FAST.

The Mysterious Way In Which I Spreads Through an Audience. "You cannot keep news, especially war news, out of any public building, be it theater, concert room or lectur half, no matter how deeply engrossing the entertainment may be, and from one man, who perhaps knows only one soul in the pines, coming in with the news of a statesman's death, of a great victory, or what not, the whole audience of a couple of thousand people will know the news in five minutes." The gentleman who thus spoke is one of the most experienced theatrical man-agers in the world, and he went on: "I could give you some most striking h stances from my own experience of what I say. I have seen a big audler convulsed with laughter at 9 o'clock, say, but through a bare whisper of a great outside calamity that circulated through the house with almost the rapidity of telegraphy, that same audience has been restless, universally grave of face and absolutely matter tive to the very culminating point of fun on the stage. And the singular thing is that actors who have never left the stage have, through the me-dium of whispers among the band or from the stalls, known all that the original messenger of evil had to tell.

"The late Rest C. H. Spurgeon once told me that he had known this same thing precisely to occur during the course of a religious service, and when a rast congregation were on their knees. He gave me the time and place and explained how, from the whisper list. You see, a man learns a thing or two after 20 years in Washington, and I have learned to make one appointment do for a dozen supporters."—Saturday Evening Post.

Thinks They Need Editing.

The blue pencil apparently did not exist in olden times. We have read ten pages of Marcus Aurelius at a stretch without understanding a word of it. Epictetus in equally hard to read. Marcus Aurelius and Epictetus are philosophers without doubt, but they have a style that gives you a headache. Both need editing. The man with the blue pencil should get after Marcus Aurelius and Epictetus. Emeraon's books also clansor for the blue pencil. Carlyle is mother clumsy writer greatly to need of the blue pencil of a good editor. A wise saying is not a matter of faith. Unless you can see it and onderstand it it is not a wise saying.—Atchison Globe.

MOST WONDERFUL CURE.

A MOST WONDERFUL CURE.

A Grand old Lady Gives Her Experience.

Mira Thankful Ocilla Hard lives in the beautiful, village of Brighton Livingston Co., Mich. This venerable and highly respected lady was born he the year 1812, the year of the great war, in Hebron, Washington Co., Nea York. She came to Michigan in 1850, the year of Tippecance and Tyles too." All her faculties are excellently preserved, and possessing a very retentive memory, her mind is full of interesting reminiscences of her early life, of the early days of the State of Michigan and the interesting and remarkable people she had met, and the stirring events of which she was a witness. But nothing in her veried and manifold recollections are more marvelous and worthy of attention than are her experiences in the use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. Mrs. Hurd inherited a tendency and predisposition to accordin, that terribly destructive blood taint which has cursed and is cursing the lives of thousands and marking thousands more as victims of the death angel. Transmitted from generation to generation, it is found in neary every family in one form or another. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in masibily swellings in the neck or goltre, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may be known as catarry in the head, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause or consumption.

Spenking of her case, Mrs. Hurd says: "I was troubled for many years with a bad akin disease. My arms and limbs would break out in a mass of sores, discharging yellow matter. My neck began to swell and became very masightly in appearance. My body was covered with scrothous cruptions. My eyas were also greatly inflamed and weakened, and they pained me very masightly in appearance. My body was covered with scrothous eruptions. I was in a very bad condition and my head acked severely at frequent intervals, and I had no appetite. I had sores also in my ears. I was in a miserable condition. I had tried every remedy that had
