When he arose out of the water, the deacon greeted him as "brother" and cordially congratulated him in that he had buried the "old man" and put on the "new." The deacon, now feeling that the long lost man! was as good as returned, went on his way rejaicing. Next day the "new man" saillied into the deacon's grocery store. As usual the place was crowded with brethren, discussing the merits of Sunday's seemon. When they had all congratulated him upon his baptismat regueration, the deacon, believing the golden opportunity had come, addressed him with the utmost confidence:

"Well, my brother, now I am sure you will return the man' you took out of the mill last summer."

The reclaimed wanderer hesitated and then useskly replied: "I am sorry, deacon, but you've got the wrong man. The 'old man' who stole the man! went down into the water resterday and was buried."—Pittsburg Press.

His idea of Humor.

A janitrees living on Washington square had an adventure one day which she will not soon forget. It seems that the building which she has under her care was at one time used by a trust company, and afterward it was turned into an apartment house. When this was done, the vaults were left intact, and they were very seldom opened. The janitrees was showing a party of gentlemen through the building and pointed out the desirability of the vaults as refrigerators. When she opened the vault and stepped in one of the party, who has a rare idea of humor, shut the door suddenly and imprisoned the janitrees. That was all right so far as if went, but the lock was a spring affair, and the janitrees had the keya on the inside. The room hunters were throroughly frightened, and one of them ran for a locksmith in haste. Luckly a neighbor, who is an expert locksmith, came into the place and in a few minutes succeeded in releasing the woman, who was in anything but a pleasant frame of mind. The room hunters made themselves very scarce before the enraged janitrees came forth.—Philadelphia Berord.

the convex from thin, viriated blood and an underted body, vanish as it by a magic pell. The weariness, lassitude and nervous prestration which accompany the spring-time and the heat of summer, are conquered and bathished at once. For every form of neurathoms, and all allocate of the brain and nerves, the commis, hysteria and nervous generally, it is almost a specific. It furnishes the very elements to rebuild work out nerve times. It tests brain, nerve canters and nerves, calming and equaliting their action; it makes rich, red honest blood. New less of life, new hope, new strength follow its faithful use. It makes the weak strong, and the old young again.

It was the antiquated (but now happily exploded) method in the good old times, to treat Sait Rheum, Scrafula, Cancer and other troublesone disorders arising from BLOOD TAINT with powerful alteratives, such as mercury, arsenic and other mineral agents. It was expected by this treatment that the poison could be killed while the blood was left to course through its channels holding in its circulation the specific garms of the disease. But in this way, every part of the body became more or less diseased. Nothing can be more terrible than a horribly destructive blood taint. It not only attacks virulently the different structures of the body, but many times the bones are honey-combod and destroyed, it often neeks out the nerves and apinal cord, and again it will bring decay and death to some vital organ, as the kidneys, liver of stomach. There is only one solentific method for the cure of blood taint. That is, PURIFICATION1 Every particle of the blood must be removed through the executory channels, the lungs, hidneys, howels, of the blood must be removed through the executory channels, the lungs, kidneys, howels, liver and skin. "First pure, then peaceable." The great restorative, reconstructive and vitalizer of the blood, JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA, not only radically and exhaustively removes the raint, but also removes all mercury, calomal and other minerals, and fills the voins and arteries with the ruby, glowing current of vitality. "The blood is the life." Good health means pure blood. The old and reliable remedy, JQHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA, is universally regarded as the greatest Blood Purifier ever discovered. This fact is now established beyond question or cavil.
