MADE MONEY ON ROUND BALES.

Patrons of Roundlap Gla Plants Tell Of Their Big Profits.

The past ginning season again demonstrated the incomparable superiority of The American Gotton Company's Round lap bale. Not only were farmers benefited who had their cotton put up in Roundisp bales, but even the patrons of old-style gins profited by the presence of written letters to the owners of Round-isp plants telling of the profit that has come to them from having their cotton put up in Roundlap bales. Mr W P Hartley, Sr., who patronized the Greenvilla, Ala., plant, wrote Peb. 3, 1900: "The mest imperiant point in the Roundlap bale's favor to the farmer is the advance in price above that of the square hale. It has averaged the entire past season The change in date meets the favor of svery one, and the only thing the people More than $5,000 has been placed in circuit that the A C. Mr F M Rogers also wrote from Greenville, Ala: "I have received from Hyman Supply Co. Enlarged Store.

In order to accommodate its greatly increased business, the Hyman Supply Roundlap bale is a Godsend to the farm-company, has enlarged its store on ers, and has saved them thousands of dollars in a few months."

Mr. J. D. Reily, Centreville, Miss., wrote Dec. 4 1889: "Another advantage to the farmers is that Roundlap cott brings such a good price that the buyers of square cotton have been forced to put their prices up. Thus all the farmers are benefited in a town where there is a

Mr. F. B. Simonton, Temple, Tex., Nov. 12, 1809: "I have received from $1.50 to $3.50 per bale more for my cotton than if I had ginned and said in the square bale. Benides I know that the prices The American Cotton Company has paid for seed cotton have been the cause of those buying the square bale paying from 10 to 50 points more for it."

Mr. J. L. Wood, of Venus, Tex , Dec 2, 1809, wrote: "I sold to the America Cotten Company at its East Wace plant the first bale of cotton that was ever ginned by the Roundlap bale system in Wace, and have been selling my cotton in the seed to you shoot that time.
