Reception to Col. Cunningham.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bryan gave a quiet but elegant reception at their residence on Middle street last night, in honor of Col. John S. Cunningham, who has been their guest during the week.
 While there were a few ladies present, the occasion was one in which an opportunity was given Col. Cunningham to meet in a social way the business and professional men of New Bern.
 A report was served, at which a number of happy and appropriate toasts were offered. The occasion in every way was most enjoyable.

CUNNINGHAM'S SPEECH.

insect troubles, grazing land is reasonable in price, and markets are daily more accessible. The dairy farmer is always improving his lands better, especially, does not take away any mineral constituents from the soil. Good stock, as you well know, must accompany good husbandry.

It gives me pleasure to note that this Association also recognizes the importance of encouraging manufacturers, and the handwork of household skill. The saw mills in and near New Bern have an annual output of nearly one hundred million feet of lumber. It is stated that no less than eighty varieties of woods dressed and undressed have been exhibited at your Fair; and about the same number as of the food fishes from fresh and salt water. This is indeed phenomenal, as great as the variety of the flora of our State is known to be.

Your founders, and factories for fertilizers, barrels, boxes, carriages, ice and the like form the picket line for the harmony of the future, in enterprise.

The visitor who looks upon the specimens of the handwork of your fair women in the household and needlework and art departments is vividly reminded again of the old adage, however, from whom I have quoted; for he says in his description of the ancestors of our dear countrywoman:

"The women are the most industrious sex in that place, and by their good housewifery, make a great deal of cloth of their own cotton, wool, and flax." Nor did the gallant scribe fail to use his eyes, much as is the fashion with us, his followers of today, for he ends thus: "They are often very fair, and as well featured as you shall see anywhere; and have very brisk charming eyes, which sets them off to advantage."

That the daughters possess the heritage of their far away mothers, with the aided graces of their own, there is no Tar Heel tree that will not maintain, in the homage of its life and affections.

With all the gifts bestowed upon New Bern, her pleasant climate and genial society, it is not surprising that many northern friends seek it as a winter home. With an average in the great cities of 38 per one thousand of annual mortality, she has but fifteen, or about one half, and well deserves to be a health resort.

I trust it is no violation of the proprieties of the occasion to say, that although progress has been made that is gratifying, yet ever since the paralysis of the war, there has been a cloud over its brightest days, due to the possibilities, more perhaps than to actual occurrences, of the large illegitimate and uncontrolled vote of the negro. It must be natural to suppose that streams of prosperity were diverted to other regions, by the sensitiveness of property and enterprise, with the future dependent upon the more or less prudent management of that vote, capable if directed in vicious channels of wrecking the substantial welfare of the whole people.

It must be for the lasting good of all parties, that such an unnatural state of affairs should be swept away and the conservative rights of all from the highest to the most humble, placed in the hands of those whom God and Nature endowed with the attributes of the ruling power; so that order, peace, and absolute security for person and property might be ensured forever.

This magnificent exhibition is the earnest of thirteen years enterprise, and the freshening of the future. With good government, you have everything to hope, for the days that are to come, as you have everything to be proud of in the days that are past.

The ties that unite all these sections of our grand Old North State are stronger than ever. To the hallowed recollections of the Gaston that come to us in the hills, are added now the memories of Vance, to you of the seashore.

It has been a land of trials and labors; the supreme test of patriotism was rudely applied in four years of bloody war, but her star was in the forefront. And always have our people worked and ploughed, fought and died in the fear of God, in all their ways. Slow to resolve, and anxious in regard to duty, they are immutable when convinced of its demands. To them the faith of their fathers is dear, and to their God they commit the guidance of destiny. Nothing in all the history of our State is more typical, than the last words spoken by the great jurist and statesman who sleeps in the soil that gave him birth:

"A belief in an all ruling Providence who shapes our ends and will reward us according to our deeds is necessary. We must believe and feel that there is a God All-wise and Almighty."

Spoken with the dying breath of William Gaston, it is the heritage of our people. With that faith as the corner stone of our liberties, our laws, our institutions, we may take up with serene confidence, the march of the coming century in our progress, with every element of greatness from the hands of that mighty Power. And as we go, from the same great leaders, we will chant:

"Then let all who love us, love the land that we live in,
 As happy a region as on this side of Heaven,
 Where Plenty and Freedom, Love and Peace smile before us,
 Have stood, raise together, the heart-thrilling chorus
 Hurrah, Hurrah, The Old North State forever,
 Hurrah, Hurrah, The good Old North State!"

J. J. Carson, Presbyterian, Washington, Pa., says, "I have found Kodol Dyspepsia Cure an excellent remedy in case of indigestion, and have cured great numbers of my own family with it. It is a good and safe medicine, and will cure all cases of indigestion."

DILL-WILLIAMS.

Beautiful Wedding Last Night at Centenary Church. A Happy Wedding Party and a Western Trip.

Last night at Centenary Methodist Church, was celebrated one of the most brilliant weddings that has occurred in New Bern. Mr. Samuel Leffers Dill, Jr. and Miss Elizabeth Temple Williams, daughter of Mr. R. P. Williams were united in marriage. Both the young people are of this city and have many friends here and elsewhere.

The church was beautifully decorated, the altar and space around the pulpit being a mass of flowers. A lovely flower arch with a wedding bell of flowers suspended was at the head of the main aisle. There were two hearts formed of white flowers and suspended with white satin ribbon back of the pulpit. On the arch and elsewhere were many lighted candles which shed a mellow radiance over all.

At seven o'clock Miss Sarah Louise Meadows, maid of honor, entered, then the bridesmaids and ushers. They were Miss Mamie Chandler Daniels, Miss Mary Elshaw of Winston, Miss Corinne Franklin Chadwick of Beaufort, Miss Julia Bailey Howell of Goldsboro. Mr. E. Ellis Williams, brother of the bride, Mr. Edward H. Stevenson of Kinston, Mr. George W. Dill, Mr. David Farrow Foy. In a moment the groom accompanied by his brother, Mr. Alonzo Thomas Dill, his best man, came to the altar where he awaited the approach of the bride who came up the aisle leaning on her father's arm, while the organ gave forth the Lohengrin Wedding march.

The ceremony, which occupied but a few minutes, was performed by Rev. R. B. John. The wedding ring was used and while the words were spoken, "Love's Old Sweet Song," came softly from the organ, under the skillful hand of Mrs. J. A. Meadows. At the conclusion as the bridal party left the church, the Mendelssohn March was played.

The bride wore a white satin gown, trimmed with Duchesse lace, pearl trimmings, the veil held to the coflure by a diamond pin ornament, a present of the groom. She carried a great bunch of Bride roses, handed her by Miss Elshaw.

The maid of honor wore a dress of pink crepe de chene, hat of pink muslin, and carried pink roses. The bridesmaids wore white point de esprit over pink tulle, wore aigrettes in the hair, and carried pink roses.

The church was completely filled with the friends and relatives. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Dill were driven to the home of Mr. Williams where the bride donned a gray travelling suit and was then driven to the A. & N. C. Railroad station where the rest of the party awaited in the elegant new parlor car "Vance." A special train carried the party to Goldsboro to connect with the Atlantic Coast Line, where a final farewell was taken, the rest of the party returning to this city, with the exception of Miss Howell. The young couple left for a California trip, going by way of New Orleans and returning by Chicago, when they will return to this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Dill were the fortunate recipients of many presents. Elegant china and silver and various other articles, a beautiful set of silver from Mr. and Mrs. Williams and other things really "too numerous to mention." Mrs. J. A. Meadows entertained the bridal party last Monday night. The handsome young couple start in life under happy auspices and with the good wishes of all.
