AN EXPOSITION OF THE SOUTH'S DE-

The recent trip of a staff correspon dent of the Baltimore News through several of the Southern States, and his write up of the places he has visited, is a notable piece of journalistic enterprise on the part of the Baltimore newspaper

It is this kind of exposition of the South's resources and development; of the splendid industrial progress and cial activity shown in cities of North and South Carolina, and Georgia all written up and fully described by such a paper as the Baltimore News, which is of incalculable value to the ctions and cities described.

However much these places be written up at home, there is a distinct difference between these home write ups, and the write ups by an outsider for an outside

Local industrial issues, pictorial and descriptive, possess great value when well done, in presenting the claims of such places to the settler or investor.

But as before noted, such write upe coming from an outside source, through practically disinterested channels, pos-

In this particular the Baltimore News in its descriptions, showing the wonder-ful development in the South, gives these descriptions and readings of the progress in the South, to a class of readers that would not be reached by the ordinary local industrial issue.

That the sections and cities des by the News correspondent will be greatly benefitted, there can be no doubt. The Baltimore News, also, cannot fall to be materially benefitted by its enter-

To begin with he's "a good fellow."
That's a phrase casier understood by men than by women. It generally means—well, it means he's an all round good sort in the male line.

Saturday afternoon he was feeling prefty good. He had been quite thirsty if what he had taken was to be judged as a criterion. And the libations left him in a thoroughly good humor, and he felt at peace with the world.

In this delightful mental and physical state he bethought him of a friend of his in Providence, and he further thought that he would call up that particular friend on the telephone.

So he went to a Broad street hotel, told the yorkig woman there who had charge of the telephone that he wanted to speak to Mr. So and-so in Providence and wouldn't she kindly call up the party.

The girl did as she was bade.

"Party's on the 'phrone," she said,

"Party's on the 'pirone," she said, and the man went into the telephone box, sat down and put the receiver to And then he calmly and sweetly

And then he calling and sweet, dropped off to sleep.
