THE LEGISLATURE.

Bills in Plenty Seeking Passage at This Session.

Amendment and Election Law to Have First Hearing. No telling length of present meeting. Populists and Republicans Watching Matters Closely.

Special to Journal.

RALEIGH, June 12—The expected happened when it was found that innumerable bills were carried in the pockets of the members of the Legislature, only awaiting permission to be put upon passage. This question was the first to come up in the caucus last night and it had to be settled first, but it required several hours to agree upon it. Opinions varied from that of the member who wanted the Amendment amended and then adjournment, to the member who was willing to stay until July in order to pass all the bills that were presented.

The matter was settled by two resolutions, the first required that the Amendment and the Election Law had the right of way and no other bills could be introduced or acted upon until they were out of the way. The second resolution authorized the chairman of the caucus, Mr. Skinner, to appoint a committee of five, three from the House and two from the Senate, to whom all bills should be referred and of these bills none should be submitted to the Legislature except "political bills," that is such as had bearing on the Amendment or were considered necessary and for the good of the party. This committee is composed of Justice and Travis of the Senate, and Allen, Osburn and Gorman of the House. Several of these bills were mentioned, such as the Currier county ester bill and the Durham county criminal court bill and the bill to reimburse Mr. Heddingford for the loss incurred by him by the decision of the Supreme Court. The caucus held until after 11 o'clock and there was a large attendance. By special privilege a number not members were allowed to remain in the Hall their Democracy being vouchsafed for.

The Senate met today at 12 o'clock. Gov. Reynolds was in the chair, all the heavy weights were in the chamber and when the clerk called the roll there were found to be 47 out of a possible 50 present. The reading of the Journal was dispensed with and after some unimportant business the Senate adjourned until 4 o'clock.

The House met at 12 o'clock and there were present 55 members out of a possible 120, if there had been no deaths. Prayer was made by Rev. Dr. Eugene Daniels, Reading clerk Wilson called the roll and Speaker Connor announced a quorum present and the House ready for business.

A resolution was introduced by Allen of Wayne to appoint a committee of two to wait on the State Treasurer and find out whether money had been paid to Theophilus White, the shell-fish commissioner, and to report same to the House.

Craig of Bancroft introduced a resolution endorsing the proposed Appalachian Park, which was referred to the committee. The House then adjourned until 4 o'clock in honor of the deceased members, Hart, Trotman and Wall.

Under the arrangement that the Amendment and Election Law should be first acted on, the committees having to do matters in charge were required to report to the caucus which was called after the morning adjournment. This caucus was a short one with a few short speeches. The committee on the Amendment has been at work some days and all the principal points were agreed upon. The committee of five, to whom all bills will be referred, is made of a caucus committee, but it will take the place of all the regular standing committees and is designed to simplify matters and save much valuable time.

Although the Legislature is in session Raleigh does not present the usual legislative time appearance. There is a large crowd and the Yarbrough does not differ much from the usual mid-summer appearance. The meeting of the Legislature was like old friends, an making of new acquaintances being required. One of the members remarked that "if the laws are in force" and all sorts of bills allowed to be introduced, things would change. There would possibly be a lobby, it is known that 500 people would be down from his county. Probably he had in mind a dispensary bill, but all such bills will get a cold shoulder.

The question of how long this session will last has not been touched at all, it all depends. If the committee are liberal on their interpretation of the bill and longer, it may take time. It is well known that these particular are members for a short session and the belief that the party spirit will be at the main issue which is the Amendment. There are a steady number of bills in room and they probably realize that it is all going to be in a hurry. It would give a fair opportunity to consider the committee of advice, the man with the pen. That man's business is to present amendments and the better you know the law the better you know the law. The A. J. Smith, has announced that he will be a member of the committee on the subject of the amendment.

AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

Static Base Ball League. $24,000 Appropriation for State Guard Per Year. 170 Legislators Present.

Special to Journal.
RALEIGH, June 12—This afternoon the board of agriculture met in semi-annual session. All its members are present. Baseball devotees, representing Raleigh, Wilmington, Charlotte, Statesville, Durham and Tarboro met here this afternoon to form a State league. The six clubs ought to make a strong league. Quartermaster-General Mason was here today. The regulations on the war department for the ordnance and quartermasters stores for State Guard are being prepared. The regimental regulations are in hand. The annual allowance by the government under the new law is $84,000 a year. Besides the set carries with it a provision that the States are to be reimbursed for all the stores which the government used in equipping the volunteers in 1898. All these regulations will be completely equipped with summer and winter clothing. This will include light weight blue serge blouses and Khaki trousers. There will also be overcoats, blankets, hats and caps, leggings, flannel shirts, and all ordnance supplies necessary to equip all the troops for field service. An ample supply of tentage for two regiments will be requisitioned. It is the plan to encamp two regiments, the 2d and 3d at Wrightsville at the same time, in August, and to have them break camp and come to Raleigh and participate in the ceremonies at the unveiling of the Vance statue in the capital square here August 13. The 1st regiment will make a practice march somewhere in the western part of the State. Next week the Inspector general and the quartermaster general will go to Wrightsville to see what sort of a site they can obtain for the camp. They are naturally very desirous of obtaining Seaside Park in which the troops were encamped several years.

More legislators arrived late last night. Among them were D. A. Lowe, Frank C. Harrison, J. F. Reinhardt, R. G. Gray, J. L. Davis, J. K. Abbott, J. H. (inflam), J. B. Leigh. Others came in today. There are in all 170 members. Three-fifths are necessary to do business or 102. There were present at the Democratic caucus last night 113. Since the legislature was in session last year 3 members have died and three have resigned upon election to other offices.

Work for the State Fair next October is going on quite actively. Many applications for space are coming in.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

RALEIGH, June 12.—The Weekly Crop Bulletin for the week ending Monday, June 11, 1900, is as follows:

In consequence of beneficial rains which occurred over a large portion of the State during the week ending Monday, June 11, 1900, a majority of the reports of crop correspondents were very favorable and indicated much improvement in the general condition of crops. Over the northern tier of counties, however, and most of the central district, the showers were light, poorly distributed, and did not penetrate the soil to a sufficient depth to be of more than temporary benefit. Over most of the counties lying between lines drawn from Cabarrus northeast to Warren and north to Barry, crops are still suffering considerably from drought, and gardens have been much injured. Elsewhere the rainfall was abundant and especially beneficial on account of the thorough state of cultivation in which crops had been placed. In some western counties rain fell every day of the week and farm work was interrupted. Many correspondents state that a good soaking rain is still necessary. The temperature during the entire week was moderately high, and there was sufficient sunshine to encourage growth.

Nearly all of the remaining tobacco plants and sweet potato slips were transplanted this week, except in those counties where the rainfall was deficient. Harvest is underway, cutting wheat, oats, and rye has become general under favorable conditions for curing; reports indicate an exceptionally fine wheat crop, but a very poor yield of oats, which headed very low. Cotton is doing fairly well, but is small and will require a long season of maturity; chopping will probably not be finished before June 15th, as it is much behind in the west; good stands have generally been secured. Early corns coming into silk and tassels and some has been laid by; corn generally looks well, and damage by cut worms seems to be confined to lowlands. Owing to dry weather in north-central portions all of the tobacco plants have not yet been set. Minor crops continue to do well; peanuts are spreading rapidly; sweet potatoes are promising; tomatoes are blooming freely. New Irish potatoes are being shipped in large quantities. The peach crop will undoubtedly be very large, but other fruit has dropped so much that less than half a crop is anticipated; apples will be very short. Prospects for grapes good.
