THE KING'S CHAIR.

She had a husband who had been a king, and she was a queen. She was a queen in the eyes of the people, but she was a queen in the eyes of her husband. She was a queen in the eyes of her husband, but she was a queen in the eyes of the people.

SHE GOT THE MONEY.

A shrewd wife submitted a most peculiar husband.

"I know a woman," said a man of large acquaintance, "who had a husband of a kind which I honestly believe to be the very largest minority among husbands, and I am glad to say that he is, or was, because he is now dead. She was good looking, young, and loved all the better things of life, and he was neither young nor good looking, but he had a bushel of money. I am sorry to say, too, that if he had not been rich the woman would not have married him. But that is neither here nor there, and we can't always blame women who marry men for their money. Notwithstanding this, the chap had plenty of money he was mean with his wife and gave her just as little as he could possibly get of it. They had a good social position, and he was compelled to spend something extra on her, but he did it grudgingly, though he had a fine wardrobe and expensive jewelry himself. It wasn't so much that he was stingy as that he just wanted to be ugly with his wife.

"Well, one day she evaded up with him in the morning. She had been invited to a house party, and it was necessary for her to have some new dresses, and she figured on $1,000 worth as about right and told him of it. He refused flatly to permit any such expenditure. She simply told him she would have to do it, and she went off and ordered what she wanted. They were to be done on the Thursday of her departure, and she so notified her husband on the evening of the day she gave the order. Each morning thereafter she had her maid come to her room before she went down town to business and told him she expected a check for $1,000 on Thursday morning, and each time he told her to go to the hot place or words to that effect. He did the same on the morning the goods were to be delivered and paid for, and as soon as he had left the house she sent out for a furniture van, and into that she had the servants put all her husband's clothes and other effects, and sent the van to a pawnshop of high repute. She followed it there with his jewelry in a hand bag and had the whole lot piled up on the floor of the shop.

"I want $1,000 on that," she said briefly to the astonished pawnbroker, and he demurred because, as he assured her, he never loaned money on clothes. She told him he might think differently when he had looked the lot over, and when she told him who she was he concluded to look the lot over. The result of the negotiation was $1,000 in money and a pawn ticket, and she was ready to pay the bills when the dresses came. That afternoon she went away merrily to the house party, but before she left she wrote a pretty little note to her husband, including the ticket. She came home after a pleasant week in the country, and her husband never said a word to her about the tickets—never a word, but she noticed that during her absence her maid had brought a good lot of new clothes. Now, that was the kind of a woman that kind of a man should have had for a wife, wasn't it?"—Detroit Free Press.

THE AMENDED AMENDMENT.

Changes Made in the Constitutional Amendment At the Recent Session of the Legislature.

An Act Supplemental to an Act Entitled "An Act to Amend the Constitution of North Carolina," ratified February 21st, 1899, the same being Chapter Two Hundred and Eighteen of the Public Laws of 1899.

The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact:

Section I. That chapter 218, public laws of 1899, entitled, "An Act to amend the Constitution of North Carolina," be amended so as to make said act read as follows:

"That article 6 of the constitution of North Carolina be, and the same is hereby, amended, and in lieu thereof shall be substituted the following article of said constitution as an entire and indivisible plan of suffrage."

ARTICLE VI.
Suffrage and Eligibility to Office.

Section 1. Every male person born in the United States, and every male person who has been naturalized, twenty-one years of age, and possessing the qualifications set out in this article, shall be entitled to vote at any election by the people in the State, except as herein otherwise provided.

Section 2. He shall have resided in the State of North Carolina for two years, in the county six months, and in the precinct, ward or other election district in which he offers to vote four months next preceding the election. Provided, that removal from one precinct ward or other election district to another in the same county, shall not operate to deprive any person of the right to vote in the precinct, ward or other election district from which he has been removed until four months after such removal. No person who has been convicted, or who has confessed his guilt in open court, upon indictment, of any crime, the punishment of which now is, or may hereafter be, imprisonment in the State's prison, shall be permitted to vote unless the said person shall be first restored to citizenship in the manner prescribed by law.

Section 3. Every person offering to vote shall be at the time a legally registered voter as herein prescribed and in the manner hereafter provided by law, and the General Assembly of North Carolina shall enact general registration laws to carry into effect the provisions of this article.

Section 4. Every person presenting himself for registration shall be able to read and write any section of the constitution in the English language; and, before he shall be entitled to vote, he shall have paid on or before the first day of May of the year in which he proposes to vote, his poll tax for the previous year as prescribed by article 9, section 1, of the constitution. But no male person who was, on January 1st, 1867, or at any time prior thereto, entitled to vote under the laws of any State in the United States wherein he then resided, and no lineal descendant of any such person shall be denied the right to register and vote at any election in this State by reason of his failure to possess the educational qualifications herein described: Provided, he shall have registered in accordance with the terms of this section prior to December 1, 1903.

The General Assembly shall provide for the registration of all persons entitled to vote without the educational qualifications herein prescribed, and shall, on or before November 1st, 1899, provide for the making of a permanent record of such registration, and all persons so registered, shall forever thereafter have the right to vote in all elections by the people in this State, unless disqualified under section 3 of this article. Provided, such person shall have his poll tax as above required.

Section 5. That this amendment to the constitution is presented and adopted as one indivisible plan for the regulation of the suffrage, with the intent and purpose to so connect the different parts, and to make them so dependent upon each other, that the whole shall stand or fall together.

Section 6. All elections by the people shall be by ballot, and all elections by the General Assembly shall be viva voce.

Section 7. Every voter in North Carolina, except as in this article disqualified, shall be eligible to office, but before entering upon the duties of the office he shall take and subscribe the following oath: "I, _____, do solemnly swear (or affirm), that I will support and maintain the constitution and laws of the United States and the constitution of North Carolina, not inconsistent therewith, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of my office as _____, so help me God."

Section 8. The following classes of persons shall be disqualified for office: First, all persons who shall deny the being of Almighty God. Second, all persons who shall have been convicted, or confessed their guilt on indictment pending, and whether sentenced or not, or under judgment suspended, of any treason or felony, or any other crime for which the punishment may be imprisonment in the penitentiary, unless before receiving the pardon, or unless each person shall be restored to the rights of citizenship in a manner prescribed by law.

Section 9. That this amendment to the constitution shall go into effect on the first day of July, 1903, if a majority of the votes cast at the next general election shall be in favor of this suffrage amendment.

Section 10. This amendment to the constitution shall be submitted to the next general election to the qualified voters of the State in the same manner and under the same rules and regulations as are provided by the law regulating general elections in this State, and at said election the persons entitled to vote shall be divided into two classes, to-wit: one class shall be entitled to vote for the amendment to the constitution, and the other class shall be entitled to vote for the constitution as it now stands.

Searchlights at Fire.

By means of electric lights the interior of a burning building is made as plain as daylight and firemen can tell at a glance from the windows ledge whether their presence is needed inside. The lights are made detachable, so they can be taken from the engine and set up on standards. They are also provided with 200 feet of flexible conducting cables, which enables the firemen to run the searchlights out on a pole, or even into a building.

One of the great fields for usefulness of this apparatus is in lighting up the interior of boats when on fire. When a ship at the pier gets on fire the darkness in the hold makes it difficult for the firemen to control the flames. Dense volumes of smoke further obscure the point where the fire is burning, and sometimes ship and cargo are lost simply because the firemen are unable to locate the exact place of the fire.—Harper's Weekly.

No Need to Cross.

Booker T. Washington told the following story of a member of the "po' white trash" who endeavored to cross a stream by means of a ferry owned by a black man:

"Uncle Moss," said the white man, "I want to cross, but I ain't got no money."

Uncle Moss scratched his head. "Doan you got no money 't all?" he queried.

"No," said the wayfaring stranger. "I haven't a cent."

"But it dose cost you but 8 cents," insisted Uncle Moss. "Ter cross de ferry."

"I know," said the white man, "but I haven't got de 8 cents."

Uncle Moss was in a quandary. "Boss," he said, "I dose telt you what. De man what's got 8 cents can jes' go on de side or de river as de odder."—Cleveland Leader.

Bank of England Note.

It is not every one who is aware that a Bank of England note is not of the same thickness all through. The paper is thicker in the left hand corner, so enable it to retain a keener impression of the vignette there, and it is also considerably thicker in the left-hand corner of the center letters and beneath the figure at the end. Counterfeit notes are invariably of one thickness only throughout.—London Telegraph.

Answered.

Village Minister to crofter's wife—Well, Kirstin, how's your husband today?

"Kirstin—He's just the yarest. He has plenty to do, but he wins't do it.—London Answer.

The plan known as the Abolition is a cross between a Japanese plan and the American wild plan.

The life of an American seems equally empty.

A gentleman recently wrote of his people from the following standpoint: "The number of things which are being done here have not advanced for me, and some have even said that I am not yet out of the hospital. I am sure that you will find this proposition will give you what you want. I have not yet written you, but I have not yet written you."
