THE STATE FIREMEN'S TOURNAMENT.

The annual tournament of the Volunteer Firemen of North Carolina, which was held last week, in Wilmington, reyealed the superiority of the New Bern Department over all other departments in the State.

This is a matter of congratulation to New Bern and its Volunteer Firemen.

That New Bern continues to lead the State in the tournaments, is no surprise to those who have visited this city, and have seen the work of the Department at fires, or who have seen the inventive genius displayed here, in employing the latest up-to-date methods, and experimenting in fire apparatus to save time and labor, and to gain in quickness in getting to fires.

It is this creative faculty, the nerve and enthusiasm of the New Bern Fire Department members which makes the State tournaments what they are today.

Take away New Bern and these tournaments would prove stale and upprofitable and would lack in these elements, inventive genius and skill, which are the true motive powers which should be encouraged, for to be profitable, these tourdaments should be progressive.

The disposition on some sides to check this New Bern progressiveness, and it is this progressiveness which has led the Volunteer Piremen of the State for years, carnot fall to work injury, if allowed to gain any headway.

New Been has been rule abiding, and it has demanded the pelce when won.

If skill wins, then skill is entitled to ons of even every prize secured, and it has not been the Championship Bels or the money prizes, which makes New Bern strive to win, but this desire to prove the finences, succellence and especialty of her Department.

It is this very desire to limit, to cat off competition, which means failure in the very object sought by the Association, namely, the incentive to experiment and improve over the five reaching and five extinguishing methods that now may be employed.

Progression and improvement should be the motto of the Association, not prescription and restriction for compales seeking to win contests by better methods than were formerly in use and known to all.

When the day of a common hose reel, or any other fire apparatus becomes the rule, then New Bern is out of such an Pays Every Day.

One New York millionairs who earned his fortune by his own efforts under rather disadvantageous circumstances conducts his business in a way that is highly original in many particulars. One of the most striking of these is his method of dealing with his employees. They are paid every night, and at the close of every husiness day all the ex-They are paid every hight, and at the close of every business day all the expenses of running the business have been met, and the manager knows just how his affairs stand as far as that Teature of his business is concerned.

But that is not his object in paying salaries every day instead of following the usual custom and waither method.

the usual custom and waiting until the end of the week or mouth. He employs many men who have lost former situations through intemperance, although they were all men of ability in their field. If they severed their connection practically with the establishment at the close of every business day, it made no difference to the employer what happened to the man after he left his establishment. By this means the millionaire is able to get the services of good men at a small salary and have no responsibility as to their conduct after they have received their pay for one day's work.—New York Sun.

A Single One Recaped.

Rev. Cyrus Townsend Brady, in narrating the experiences of "A Missionary in the Great West," recalls in The Ladies' Home Journal his visit to a town which had been more or less abandon ed for 12 years.
"I could not," he says, "find a single member of the church left except one old lady who had been bedridden for a number of years. 'Yes,' she said in answer to my inquiry, 'I am still a mem-ber of the Episcopal church, I reckon. We did have about a dozen members once. There was'— And she called over a number of names. I interrupted her in each case by asking what had become of them. 'She's joined the Latter Day Sainta,' was the answer when the object of my question had neither removed nor died. 'It seems to me everybody has joined the Latter replied; most every one. They had a revival here and got them all except me.' "Why didn't they get you?" I asked. "I reckon because I was bedridden, and they could not get at me," she said trankly."

Log Greek For Women.

The costume of the Pu Yuan Pen-jen women in the Shan states is very striking, consisting of a cloth hood, an open jacket and a pair of short white troujacket and a pair of short white trousers reaching barely to the knes. But the most important, though the least noticeable, part of their costume is their colored cloth gatters. These the women are obliged to wear, as without them it is believed they would be able to fly away, leaving their busbands and sweethearts sorrowful. This legend recalls a custom of ancient Carthage, where the unmarried women wore metal leg gyves, which were severed only during the marriage ceremony. The Akkas, also a Woni tribe, wear similar gatters, though I do not think the same importance is attached to them. It is probably an emblem of some old custom of which the true significance has been forgotten. — Geographical Journal.
