PENALTY OF ELECTING FREAKS TO OFFICE.

To municipal, county and State offices, there are at times men elected, whose reason for being elected is due to some personal idiosyncrasy.

This Individual trait, whatever it may be, gives its possessor some peculiar fascination, and men will work to secure such a man's election to office, regardless of every other qualification necessary to be possessed by an executive in such office.

Extreme frankness in manner, blunt outspokeness, a rugged honesty of expression, have often, carried men into public office, who had no qualifications for administering the duties of the office, neither had they executive ability in the smallest degree.

It is this individual frankness, which will cause a community to force into public service a man, whose official career will cause every voter to curse the day they voted for such a man.

The people of Michigan, today, are experieccing this reactionary feeling of electing a freak to office, in getting by actual results forced upon them, and feeling the force of these results, through the public actions of their Governor.

As a potato grower, Governor Pingree of Michigan, seems to have established himself firmly in the affections of the voters of his community and State, going by casy stages, as the affection of the potato lovers increased, from one public office to another, until he reached the Chief Executiveship of Michigan.

It is not specially noted that Governor Pingree had other genius, except the ability to get good and large potato CTOP:

This however seems to have been all sufficient, to elevate him, through the voter.

The special freakish trait developed in Governor Pingree, has been his free and unrestrained pardons and paroles to riminals, under power of his office,

NOT THE STRENUOUS LIFE. Unbroken Screnity of Men Who Si In Front of Livery Stables. "I have always envied those men who sit in front of livery stables," said a cit-izen who admits that he is constitution ally lazy. "That seems to me a beautiful life. It must be one long, sweet song, as the poet puts it. I have never known any of them personally," he continued, sighing, "but I have watched them all my life, and they fill me with a yearning to be a livery stable man. When I was a boy, I had to pass a large livery stable on my way to school. It had an immense double door, which was never closed, and inside was a cool, dim vista of stalls and bugges in rows. Four men were always seated at the threshold, tilted back in cane bottomed chairs. They were large, well fed, contented looking men, and what im-pressed me particularly was their dir of placid abstraction. They never said any-thing to one another, but sat there calm-ly gazing into space and chewing straws. I remember distinctly that the sight of them always filled me with rebellion against work and made my school tasks seem all the more abhorrent. I had an almost irresistible inclination to chuck my books into the gutter, seize a cane bottomed chair and a straw and become a livery stable man myself. "I have never got rid of that feeling," the lazy citizen went on, lighting his

Proctor once delivered a lecture in Phila-delphia on the 'Mathematics of Chance' and proved conclusively there was no such thing as luck. Afterward he took a dice box and attempted to demonstrate the fact to some skeptical sports and went broke in eight minutes by the watch. There is absolutely no reason why people should have streaks of good or bad luck. I can demonstrate to you on paper that the thing is impossible,

To illustrate: Suppose red turns up three times in succession. Ac-cording to the system, the chance of it appearing again is greatly diminished and appearing again is greatly diminished and grows less with each repetition. Conse-quently the player bets on black. The other is the 'system of runs.' Its votaries hold that a color which has once 'repeat-ed' is apt to keep on, at least five or six times in succession.
