How Bookes T. Washington Quali-Bed to Enter Hampton.

"As soon as possible after reaching the grounds of the Hampton institute," said Booker T. Washington, "I presented my-self before the head teacher for assign-ment to a class. Having been so long without proper food, a bath and change of clothing, I did not, of course, make a very favorable impression upon her, and I could see at once that there were doubts in her mind about the wisdom of admit-ting me as a student. I felt that I could hardly blame her if she got the idea that I was a worthless lonfer or tramp. For hardly blame her if she got the idea that I was a worthless loafer or tramp. For some time she did not refuse to admit me, neither did she decide in my favor, and I continued to linger about her and to impress her in all the ways I could with my worthless. In the meantime I saw her admitting other students, and that added greatly to my discomfort, for I felt deep down in my heart that I could do as well as they if I could only get a chance to show what was in me.

"After some hours had passed the head teacher said to me: "The adjoining recitation room needs aweeping. Take this broom and sweep it."

HIS ENTRANCE EXAMINATION.

broom and sweep it.'
"It occurred to me at once that here was my chance. Never did I receive an order with more delight. I knew that I could sweep, for Mrs. Ruffner had thorewas the state when I could sweep, for Mrs. Ruffner had thoroughly taught me how to do that when I lived with her.

"I swept the recitation room three times. Then I got a dusting cloth and dusted it four times. All the woodwork around the walls, every bench, table and desk I went over four times with my dusting cloth. Besides, every piece of furbiliture—had been moved and every closet and corner in the room had been closet and corner in the room had been thoroughly cleaned. I had the feeling thoroughly cleaned. I had the feeling that, in a large measure, my future depended upon the impression I made upon the teacher in the cleaning of that room. When I was through, I reported to the head teacher. She was a Yankee woman who knew where to look for dirt. She went into the room and inspected the floor and closets. Then she took her handkerchief and rubbed it on the woodwork about the walls and over the table work about the walls and over the table and benches. When she was unable to find one bit of dirt on the floor or a particle of dust on any of the furniture, she quietly remarked:
"I guess you will do to enter this in-

"I was one of the happiest souls on earth. The sweeping of that room was my college examination, and never did my college examination, and revet any youth pass an examination for entrance into Harvard or Yale that gave him more genuine satisfaction. I have passed several examinations since then, but I have always felt that this was the best one I ever passed."-Outlook. Street Needlewomen.

If it is a novelty it must sometimes be convenience to be able to have one's garments mended on the street while one waits. In nearly all the principal cities of China native sewing women are to be seen scatted on low stools or perhaps on the sidewalk mending articles of mascue wearing apparel.

The accomplishments of these street seamstresses are somewhat limited, their efforts with the needle being confined, as a rule, to "running." Other branches of needlework are practically unknown to them. As a consequence, their efforts are bester appreciated by natives than by American or English travelers.

They are never short of patrons among the Chinese tradesmen, for these are often natives of other districts and, having come to the city to engage in business, have no one to mend a rent for them. Their wives being left at home, they are glad to employ the street needle-women. For this class of customers the skill of the linerant sewing woman answers every purpose.

The Ledger Monthly has a good word to say for these Chinese sewing women.

As a rule, they bear an excellent reputation. They are usually the wives of boatmen and laborers who live in the house-boats which line the creeks, and their needles are a great help in solving the problem of maintenance in a crowded Sumner's Lack of Humor.

Charles Sumner in most matters was quick enough of apprehension, yet even e lacked the sense of humor. It is said that one day after tidings had arrived from Washington of the suicide of Prov ost l'aradol, the brilliant French embas-sador, Sumner was giving his theories as to the cause of the act when Lowell asked, "Did you see the embassador often before his death?"

"Yes," was the reply; "I saw him ev-ery day."
"Did you converse with him in English

"Oh, I talked nothing but French." "Gentlemen," said Lowell, "we do not need to seek any further reason for his death. This fully explains the suicide."
The explosion which followed, we are told, Summer was never able to under-

The Medimual Archdencon

The Mediawal Archdeacon.

Episcopial jakes, says a London paper, are usually as cryptic as the jests of Aristophanes over which Mr. Verdant Green's studious neighbor used to chuckle when made painfully apparent by the help of Liddell and Scott. At Bristol Dr. Browne has sadly bewildered his assembled clergy and "faithful laity" by complaining that he is only "a monocular bishop."

His lordship was, of course, making sly His lordship was, of course, making sty-reference to the fact that an archdraicen was torserrly termed 'oculus episcopi,' and the discose of Bristol contains only one archdescopry.

But in the middle ages the archdescop was not only "the bishop's syr," but a spy, who used to blackmail the clergy and perpetrate such to blackmail the clergy and perpetrate such torrible enormities that a mediaval schoolman seriously propounded the question, "Can an archdeanum be eared?"

An instance of the humor which the civil war called forth is found in a story told of old Parson Helton, a Baptist preacher of Tennessee.

He had 18 sons, 10 of whom were in the Union army and 2 in the Confederwhen the old minister had reached his eighty-eighth year, some one, who asked blm where his sympathies in during the war. "My sympathies were with the Union by 14 majority," said the old man.

Scrofula THE OFFSPRING OF HEREDITARY

BLOOD TAINT.

Scrofula is but a modified form of Blood Poison and Consumption. The parent who is tainted by either will see in the child the same disease manifesting itself in the form of swollen glands of the neck and throat, catarrh, weak eyes, offensive sores and abscesses and oftentimes white swelling—sure signs of Scrofula. There may be no external signs for a long time, for the disease develops slowly in some cases, but the poison is in the blood and will break out at the first favorable opportunity. S. S. S. cures this wasting, d structive disease by first purifying and building up the blood and stimulating and invigorating the whole system. and invigorating the whole system.

J. M. Seals, 1:5 Public Square, Nashville, Tenn., says: "Ten years ago my daughter fell and cut her forchead. From this wound the glands on the side of her face became swollen and bursted. Some of the best doctors here and elsewhere attended her without any benefit. We decided to try 8. S. S., and a few bottles cured her entirely."

makes new and pure blood to nourish and strengthen the body, and is a positive and safe cure for Scrofula. It overcomes all forms of blood poison, whether inherited or acquired, and no remedy so thoroughly and effectively cleanses the blood. If you have any blood trouble, or your child has inherited some blood taint, take S. S. S. and get the blood ir good condition and prevent the disease noing further damage.

Nature, in her efforts to correct mistakes, which mistakes have come from careless living, or it may be from ancestors, shoots out pimples, blotches and other imperfections on the skin, as a warning that more serious troubles (perhaps tumors, cancers, cryapelas or pulmonary diseases) are certain to follow if you neglect to heed the warning and correct the mistakes.

Many a lingering, painful disease and many an early death has been avoided simply because these notes of warning have been heeded and the blood kept pure by a right use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA.

Miss Abbie J. Rande, of Marshall, Mich., writes:

"I was cured of a bad humor after suffering with it for five years. The doctors and my friends said it was sait rheum. It came out on my head, neck and ears, and then on my whole body. I was perfectly raw with it. What I suffered during those five years, is no use telling. Nobody would believe me if I did. I tried every medicine that was advertised to cure it. I spent money enough to buy a house. I heard JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA highly praised. I tried a bottle of it. I began to improve right away, and when I had finished the third bottle I was completely cured. I have never had a touch of it since. I never got any thing to do me the least good till I tried JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. I would heartily advise all who are suffering from humors or skin disease of any kind to try it at once. I had also a good deal of stomach trouble, and was run down and miserable, but JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA made me all right."
