THE PASSING OF THE CIGAR-ETTE.

It is not surprising that the figures show that there is a continual heavy falling off in the consumption, and consequently in the manufacture, of the ready made cigarette.

No doubt this falling off is due to auti-cigarette legislation, and to date twelve States forbid the sale of cigarettes to minors, legislation looking to the same is pending in thirteen other States, while seven States are discussing the prohibition of the cigarette from within their boundaries.

Thus in thirty-two States the cigarette is actively opposed, and the law is sought to drive it away or extermi-

In addition to the law working against the clearette, and a more potent factor for its passing away, is the action of employers of labor who refuse to hire users of the cigarette. That this action will be followed by will find its influence rapidly taken away as being in demand by consumers of tobacco in its seductive and dangerous

This failure to protect those who were in peril by using the cigarette has made the feeling that the cigarette should be made to go altogether.

And with this public sentiment being more fully aroused the end of the ready made cigarette cannot be distant.

And outside of the manufacturers, it is doubtful if there will be any sorrow over the passing of the cigarette. Even users of the cigarette are making no great protest against the legislation

A FAMOUS BANK NOTE.

The One That Crutkellank Drew and the Crowds It Drew.

One day about the year 1818 George Ornikshank was passing Newgate or his way to the exchange, when, seeing a crowd collected, he went forward to learn what was the matter and saw that it was the execution of several mén and women. He was horrified at the spectacle and on inquiring tearned that the woman was being hanged for passing counterfeit f1 notes. He learn ed also that this punishment was quite a common thing, even though the poor wretches often sinned in ignorance, being the dopes of men who sent them to buy some triffe and return the change to them. Wrung with pity and with shame. Cruikshank went home and immediately, under the inspiration of his feeling, sketched a grotesque caricature of a bank note. He called it a bank restriction note-not to be imitated. He represented on it a place of execution, with spaces about filled in with balters and manacles, a figure of Britannia devouring her children and transport ships bearing the lucky or unlucky ones who had escaped death to Van Diemen's Land or Australia, while in place of the well known signature of Abraham Newland was that of "J. Ketch."

He had just finished this, when his publisher Hone entered, and seeing it. begged to have it for publication. So Cruikshank etched it and gave it to Hone, who exhibited it for sale in his window with startling effect. Crowds quickly began to gather and purchased so eagerly that the issue was soon exhausted.

Crulkshank was kept hard at work making more etchings, the crowds grew so great that the street was blocked, and the mayor had to send soldiers to clear it. Hone realized over £700 in a few days.-Good Words.

"O, if my mother were only alive."

How frequently young mothers use this expression! All through her life she has known a mother's watchful

She is now a mother herself and gains in strength but

She would give worlds to do everything for her precious babe, but cannot. That tiny babe has unfolded in the young mother's heart new emotions; she has a living responsibility, and requires strength to enable her to perform a loving duty. At such a time too much care cannot be taken, and the greatest assistant that nature can have is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

The birth of the first child is an especially trying experience and nature needs all the help it can get. A happy, healthy young mother is a delight to herself and all who know her, and Mrs. Pinkham's medicine will build her up as nothing else can.

Read Mrs. Johnson's Letter for Proof.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:-For some time I have thought of writing to you to let you know of the great benefit I have received from the use of Lydin E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Soon after the birth of my first child I commenced to have trouble. Every month I grew worse, and at last became so had that I found I was gradually losing my mind. The doctors treated me for fe-male troubles, but I got no better. One doctor told me that I would be insane. I was sevised by a friend to give your medicine a trial, and before I had taken all of the first bottle my neighbors noticed the change in me. I have now taken five bottles and cannot find words sufficient to praise It. Indvise any woman who is suffering from any female weakness to give it a fair trial. I thank you for your good medicine."—MRS. GERTRUDE M. JOHNSON, 503 E. Walnut St., Hillsboro, Tex.
