The amendment which was adopted

The biggest stir in the legislature thus far was carried by the adoption yesterday evening of this amendment to the revenue bill. It imposed a mileage tax on railway earnings. It is said that two men in the State have for months been working in various ways to get this step taken, in the face of the tax compromise effected by the State and the railways, which has the endorsement of the corporation commission, the Governor, etc. One man in the legislature figures as the special champion of such a tax. The vote was reconsidered as soon as the more conservative Democrats found what had been so hastily done with a light house, for but little more than half the members were pres-
