Scenery in Quo Vadis.

The scenery displayed in the production of R. J. Carpenter's production of "Quo Vadis" consists principally of the Peristyle in the House of Petronius, the Statue Scene, the Garden of Aulus Plautius, Nero's Palace, Rome; interfer of the Marmertine Prison, the Coliscum; the Roman Amphitheatre and Arena; the forning and Destruction of Rome, and the Death of Mero, the fligs of the Crossand the Dawn of Christian'ty. While the theme of the play deals principally with a number subject, the wit of Petro slus and Chilo, the Greek philosopher ogether with the overweening vanity of Nero, cause much amusement. This remarkable play will be seen at the Opera House, Tuesday April ninth and a packed

Real Estate Sale.

A lot on George street, just above South Front street, has been sold by Mrs Susan Richardson to Alfred Gaskins for $825. The lot is 20 feet front, and 99 feet deep. The ground once tormed part of the old palace square, of Governor Tryon when George the Third was King. Mr. Gaskine, will have a dwelling built on his purchased lot.

The late sale of the Francis Taylo roperty. 22 lots in all, has had the effect of stimulating real estate values, as the sale showed that there is a demand for property. In several instances a higher price has been offered the purchasers, but so far as known no one has accepted offers. The prices then obtained were considered good, but the market show an advancing tendency.
