WILL THE OUTCOME BE SOCIALISM?

The "community of interests" term so glibly spoken of by the promoters of great combinations, and given as an excuse for the formation of the immense trusts in tobacco, steel, iron, and lastly in Dry Goods, cannot mean longer, by the excuse for Trust combines.

Already the multiplicity of great trusts is bewildering, and the average person is unable to readily grasp the enormity of them.

Most plausible are the reasons advanced for these combines, and yet the question can be most seriously asked, what is the end to be, not for the few who may be singly fixed in some trust syndicate, but for the millions outside, whose means of livelihood will be practically closed up by these combinations on every available article to eat or wear, or use in life.

Trust combines mean the shutting off of the individual, the elimination of competition, and with it all the end of personal enterprise and industry.

But before this complete elimination of the individual takes place, the probability is that there will be a most violent protest from the millions of people who are outside of the trusts, whose very means of existence are being slowly cut off.

In what form this protest will come, remains to be seen, but that it will come, that there will be a shattering of these "community of interests," there can be no doubt.

For these overwhelming trusts are a deadly menace to the welfare of the masses, and yet the masses seem unable or are unwilling to offer their protest, before the protest may get beyond bounds, and find expression in violence, for this piling up of trust upon trust, and formation of combines after combines cannot but bring about socialism in this country, and perchance a socialism of the most ultra kind, which shall mean an upheaval in all commercial interests, with frightful consequences attending the upheaval.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remediation. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give one Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & Co., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

Captured Forty Thousand Dollars. Manila, April 10.—Lieutenant Rogers of the Twenty-third Infantry has captured $40,000 of insurgent funds and three officers of General Callan's staff.

As the hot weather of summer is approaching, this paper will constantly keep before its readers Typhoid, a deadly ailment, all we know, is being universally used to prevent and counteract the effects of warm weather upon small children, and it is hoped that all mothers of this community will keep their children in a healthy condition by giving it, for it costs only 25 cents at druggists, or by mail 30 cents. Dr. J. M. Carter, N. D., N. York, N. C.

VALUABLE SECRET.

One Family Has Purchased Stamp Collectors For Millions Years. Since 1853 all the postmarks by which postage stamps are cancelled and cancelled stamps marked with the name of the postoffice, the date, etc., have been made by one family. In the year named the postmaster general entered into a contract with Benjamin Chambers, a citizen of Washington, to furnish a device by which postage stamps might be cancelled so that they could not be used again, and, although there have been a multitude of competitors on several occasions, that contract has been renewed year after year for 45 years with Mr. Chambers, his son and his grandson, who have a secret process by which the dies are made of malleable iron and carbonized into steel at a cost of from 50 cents to $2.75 each. It is certainly the only government contract and probably the only contract in the United States that has been renewed so often and continued so long. The department buys about $200,000 worth of new cancellers every year. Bids are advertised for annually, and every now and then some ambitious manufacturer who thinks he has a good thing offers a proposal, but the Chambers family are invincible. They have improved the device until it is now almost perfect.

The stamper is a circular cast steel box with a screw thread, one end of which is closed, and is provided on the outside with a square shank to secure it to the hard wood handle. The cover of the box is a disk of steel. A portion of its thickness enters the box by means of a screw thread around its periphery of almost 20 threads to the inch. This permits of a space between the inner face of the die and the bottom of the box, while the remaining thickness of the disk forms a flange with the edge, which is coarse milled, so that the disk may be turned with the hand or a wrench. On the outer face of the disk are characters of the body of the cylindrical die. These combine the marking and the cancelling devices, one being on one side of the disk, including the name of the postoffice in a circle. There are three slots for removable type, for months, dates, hour and half hour. Diametrically opposite the circle is the cancelling device, the side of which is parallel with the edge of the disk. Any required number or letter is cut in relief in the center, while three grooves are cut into the removable types are cut into the faces projections from their outer edges, so that when inserted in the slots the projections can be clamped and held in place.

Until 1890 Captain Chambers manufactured the cancellers here in Washington, and he is still required to maintain a repair shop in the neighborhood of the postoffice department, but he moved his factory to Northumberland county, Va., on a leg of land at the mouth of the Potomac, where he has a little village composed exclusively of his employees and their families. No one can enter his grounds without permission, and those who have been there say it is quite an ideal little village, safe from the spies of competitors who would like to get the secret away from him.—Washington Cor. New York Tribune.

never than making a note. "Just before Radman was sent to prison he bought a set of books to be paid for in installments." "What did he do that for?" "He said it would make the time seem shorter."—Chicago Tribune.

"Last winter I was confined to my bed with a very bad cold on the lungs. Nothing gave me relief. Finally my wife bought a bottle of One Minute Cough Cure that effected a speedy cure. I cannot speak too highly of that excellent remedy." Mr. T. K. Houseman, Manufacturer, Pa. F. S. Duffy & Co.

Falling Vision. As a person grows older their sight goes from them, and as soon as the Crystalline lens or the eye focuses so far away as to cause diffusion circles on the retina at the same time giving a correspondingly small retinal image your eye is laboring under a serious strain. This change, or defect is inevitable unless a person happens to be somewhat myopic, it is caused by age, a hardening of the lens and the muscles losing their strength; every eye has a very strong lens which in health has the power to focus for close and far objects, their power is given to it by circular and radiating muscles (sphincter muscles) called the ciliary muscles, thus when we look at a close object the circular muscles contract thereby making the lens more convex and giving it a shorter focus, and when we look away the radiating muscles contract giving the lens by its own spring, like elasticity, a longer focus. If the eye has not this power it has to be supplied by means of the shape of lens adjusted so only to give the eye a proper focusing power to relieve that discomfort.

ENGLISH MONARCHS.

Death Often Caused in the Manner of Their Taking Off. Of the monarchs who have reigned over England since the days of the Norman conquest nearly one-quarter of the number have met violent death. William I was killed by a fall from his horse. William II was shot while hunting, whether by accident or design is still one of the unsolved problems of history; Richard I was killed by a shaft from a crossbow while besieging the city of Chalus in France; Richard II was murdered in Pontefract castle, Edward II was murdered in Berkeley castle, and Edward V in the Tower of London. Richard III was killed on the battlefield of Bosworth and Charles I had his head cut off in London.

Elizabeth's death was hastened by remorse that she had ordered the execution of Essex, and her sister Mary sickened and died soon after the loss of Calais, declaring that the name of the city would be found after death written on her heart. The death of Edward III's son, the Black Prince, caused the aged monarch to die of grief. So, after the loss of his son in the White Ship, Henry I was never again to smile and lived only a short time. Henry VI and George III were insane during the latter years of their reigns and finally died of what in these days would be called paresis. Charles II, Henry VIII, Edward IV and George IV hastened their deaths by the dissipated and sensual lives they lived. Only two monarchs died of that great national scourge, consumption; they were Edward VI and Henry VII. Queen Anne's death was due as much as anything else to overfeeding. Only two monarchs, Henry VI and George III, died after long illnesses.

The Happy Medium. A clergyman relates that a worthy Irishman with an impediment in his speech brought him a child to be baptized. While making a record of it he was in some doubt as to the correct spelling of the family name given to him and asked the man how he wrote it.

"Indeed and I don't write at all," was the reply. "I just want to know," said Father Boyle, "whether the name is McGrath or Magrath—whether the second part of it is spelled with a big 'G' or a little 'g'?"

After scratching his head hopelessly the puzzled parent saw his way out of the difficulty. "Well, father, just spell it with a middle sized 'g'."—Exchange.
