PHILADELPHIA'S SOUTHERN INDUSTRIAL CONVENTION.

Governor Aycock's appointment of a delegate to attend the Southern Industrial Convention, which is to be held at Philadelphia, beginning June 11th, proves that North Carolina is interested in this movement, which has for its purpose, better commercial relations between the south and north.

In this convention, and what it proposes to do, Eastern Carolina is deeply interested, especially so far as its business relations with Philadelphia are concerned.

The JOURNAL has already shown that any commercial dealings between this section and Philadelphia are practically prohibitory, as the rate by rail is excessively high, while by water and rail, shipments have been subjected to delays, beyond the endurance of those who wanted to do business within a specified time.

There is plenty of field for new business for Philadelphia in Eastern Carolina, and other Southern sections, and its success in securing this trade will be by opening up communications, water or rail, or a combination of both, at rates which are competitive with other Northern cities, and with a delivery of goods within a time equally competitive with other commercial points in the North.

This industrial convention can work wonders for Philadelphia, commercially, and what is more important it can develop commercial lines of trade with the South which will prove of vast benefit both present and future, for this South land.

An Altruistic Deed.

Some time ago a follower of one of the city aldermen cast covetous glances upon a desirable new-found under the elevated railroad stairs. Straight he went to his friend, the alderman, and made known his wishes, which were that the news dealer should be evicted from the locality. "All right, my boy; leave it to me," said the city father and began to pull wires. Finally he got an order directing the newsdealer to show cause why he should not get out, but that obstinate individual still remained. Then he drew up a formal complaint, which was duly laid before one of the judges. The complaint, after telling how the newsdealer had been ordered to leave and had not done so, concludes: "And now we have to complain, your honor, that not only in this same stand still there, but the defendant has replaced it by a bigger one."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

The late Sir Frederick Gore-Ouseley, professor of music at Oxford, was once going to call on a friend in London and asked a fellow musician the number in which he lived in a certain street. "I don't know his number," answered the other, "but the note of his door scraper is C sharp."

Sir Frederick went off, contentedly kicking the door scrapers all down the street until he came to the right one, when he rang the bell and went in.—London Standard.

CAME IN TO BE HANGED.

A Story Told of Abel Erasmus, the Boer, and Lord Wolsley.

A good story in fact of the old Boer, Sir Garnet Wolsley, and Lord Wolsley, then Sir Garnet Wolsley, in connection with the part Erasmus took in Wolsley's campaign in 1879 against Sekukuni, the chief of the Bapeda, on the borders of Swaziland. After the capture of Sekukuni he was immediately brought before Sir Garnet Wolsley, who asked him how he, a miserable Kaffir, living in a cave, dared to defy the great queen of England. The chief replied that he had been instigated to do so by Abel Erasmus. Sir Garnet in describing the scene at a public dinner given to him at Pretoria on his return from the campaign said that he wished there and then to let Abel Erasmus know that if ever he found that Erasmus had been inciting any chief to levy war against England and he was able to lay hands on him Abel Erasmus would hang as high as Haman.

A few days after the dinner Sir Henry Brackenbury, Sir Garnet's military secretary, was sitting in his office when a tall, bearded Boer entered and asked permission to speak with him. "I am Abel Erasmus," he said, "and I have very important business to do here." He explained that he had come to see Sir Garnet Wolsley, for he had heard that Sir Garnet had said that if he could lay hold of him he would hang him, and so he had come to be hanged. Sir Garnet was in the next room, and Sir Henry Brackenbury thought it would be advisable to consult him on the subject. Sir Garnet, however, happened to be too busy at the moment to see anybody, and Sir Henry after reflection persuaded his angry visitor to take his leave and allow the hanging to stand over for the time.

The New Preaching.

Has the Christian pulpit ceased to preach the gospel? Are the clergy-men of the various denominations laboring under the delusion that they must get away from the teachings of the lowly Nazarene in their pulpits discourses in order to hold their congregations? Look over the subjects of the various Chicago sermons as reported in the other day's Chicago Herald Record. Here they are: "Professor Heron's Teachings," "Mrs. Humphry Ward's 'Kleaner,'" "The Almighty Dollar," "Tragedy of Human Greatness," "Doctrine of Spiritualism," "The Card Playing Habit," "The Religious Situation," "The Churches and Bigotry," "Three-fourths or Four-fifths of a Man," "Review of the Trial of Dr. Thomas For Heresy," "The Southern Negro."

Not Anxious.

"You have quite a number of the poets," said Goodby, who was inspecting Woody's library. "Ah, there's Browning. Do you understand him?" "No, I don't," said Woody. "Ah," said Goodby, continuing his examination, "have you Præd?" "Certainly not. What's the use of praying? I ain't anxious to understand him."—Philadelphia Record.

FLORENCE, R. C., Nov. 30, 1900.

I was first advised by our family physician in Charleston to use TEETHINA with our baby when she was but a very young infant, as a preventive of colic and to warm and sweeten the stomach. Later it was useful in teething troubles, and its effect has been found to be so very beneficial and so free from the dangers that are consequent upon the use of drugs and soothing syrups, that we have come to regard it, after use with three children, as one of the necessities when there is a new baby in the house and we take pleasure in recommending it to our friends instead of the horrid stuff that so many people use to keep their babies quiet.

TROUBLE IN GERMANY.

The Ministerial Crisis and What It Means.
The closing of the Prussian diet the other night and the retirement of three members of the ministry mark a serious crisis for the kingdom and possibly for the whole German empire, for a recent special cable dispatch from Berlin to the New York Herald refers to the Kaiser's action as a declaration of war upon the agrarian party.

It is suggestive that a rousing cheer on the boerse greeted the news of the downfall of Dr. von Miquel, the Prussian minister of finance, and the poisoned Parthian arrow shot at the imperial chancellier, Count von Bulow, will doubtless fall short of its mark. The situation perhaps marks the final lining up of forces for the battle between the old land holding classes and the new industrial and commercial forces in Germany.

Germany has developed almost at a bound from an agricultural into an industrial and exporting nation. The suddenness with which the economic change has occurred makes the clash more fierce, and it is intensified by the even greater political change, stimulated by the Kaiser's restless ambition for a big war for colonial schemes and for forcing an erstwhile quiescent and in a political sense isolated people into the vortex of world politics.

The Kaiser's absurdly autocratic domestic policy no less than his schemes of foreign expansion made it inevitable that he would at last come to open hostility with the agrarians. His posing as a medieval despot in a modern constitutional state and his leze majesty imprisonments for offenses similar to those at which his ancestor, Frederick the Great, used to merely laugh have excited the resentment of a vast number of the intelligent German people, and the manner in which the ricketing last summer held up his naval programme was a galling demonstration that his "thus I will, thus I command" assumption was not accepted. The very play of one party against another and the final winning over the Center were a demonstration of the growing authority of the people's representatives.

An alliance of the Center with the conservatives in the Prussian diet has now blocked his Majesty's canal programme and shows that in its own kingdom no more than in the empire is he will accepted as law. Recent agrarian events impart a special interest to the important special cable dispatch from Berlin to the above mentioned paper, an interview with one of the highest statesmen in the empire, whose identity was but thinly veiled, although the use of his name was necessarily withheld in view of the frankness with which, through an American journal, he discussed the views and intentions of his government. His excellency disavowed any ambition of obtaining a port in the Philippines, asserted the sincerest friendship for the United States and attributed the trouble over the admission of our meats solely to the agrarians. The underlying cause of the struggle in which the Kaiser is now engaged is the belief of this party that the canals he desires would facilitate the importation and distribution of foreign foodstuffs in competition with those produced on their own lands. But the men of the forge and the loom, who are back of Germany's commercial expansion, must have cheap food, and the growing power of the capitalists, trading and manufacturing classes insures their ultimate victory.

THE DISCOVERER OF Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound The Great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

No other medicine in the world has received such widespread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles or such hosts of grateful friends. Do not be persuaded that any other medicine is just as good. Any dealer who asks you to buy something else when you go into his store purposely to buy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has no interest in your case. He is merely trying to sell you something on which he can make a larger profit. He does not care whether you get well or not, so long as he can make a little more money out of your sickness. If he wished you well he would without hesitation hand you the medicine you ask for, and which he knows is the best woman's medicine in the world.

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, The Great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills. Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want—a cure. Moral—Stick to the medicine that you know is best.

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health more than a million women, you cannot well say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, do not hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice. It is free and helpful.
