A MONTH OF DISASTROUS STORMS.

The month of May, 1901, must go down in the history of North Carolina as a record breaker in the way of disastrous torms.

There have been mouths and seasons when storms have visited sections of this State with frightful results, in the way of loss to property, and injury to people. But in the month just ended the people of every section of the State have had to combat with the elements, and have endured losses which were bevond mortal effort to prevent.

Eastern, Central and Western Carolina, each section has come in for it

With the practical wining out of the early truck crops in the Eastern section; with the destruction of crops and property in the Central section, and the devastation of farms and property in the Western section, the people have been called upon to suffer pecuniarily, many millions of dollars, today, with losses which cannot be estimated that are to be carried forward for several years, in those sections where the lands were washed away.

And with all these losses, with day after day passing, and no let up, but some | Duffy & Co. new disastrous storms in some section to report, the people have steadily faced these loses without complaint, bravely taking up their work, whenever the weather permitted.

Naturally, the storms have proven disastrous to the farmers, and yet every merchant, every mercantile and business interest in the State will be subject to loss, from the storms,

From Bakersville, in the west there came a call for assistance, which has been responded to by North Caroffnians, and these people have asked aid only that they might be in position to get to work again and repair their damages.

The trials came upon the people, and yet they were met with courage, and in section of the State is here a sign of giving up, but lustend every where work is being resumed, and the people are grappling with the new problems occasioned by the storms, and will soon successfully master these problems, and work out of their present troubles into days without worry, and full of the peace coming from success.

PILGRIMS TO SUMATRA.

The total eclipse of the sun on May 28, 1900, was observed by many parties of astronomers from all over the United States and from foreign countries as well, and the results have been given in various publications. Among these parties was one from the Market of the Ma parties was one from the Mas setts Institute of Technology, logy, which onerved the eclipse at Washington. Go. The same party from this institution, with its personnel but little Monthly, by carrier in the city .... .50 changed, sailed recently for Sumatra to observe the eclipse of May 17 in company with the expeditions from the United States Naval observatory and the Lick observatory in California. This party, which is in charge of Professor Alfred E. Burton, sailed from Boston to Genoa, where they took pas-sage on the Dutch steamer Koningen Regentes for the East Indies. On the steamer were also parties of astronomers sent out by the governments of Great Britain and Holland.

Sumatra, which is directly in the path of the shadow of the eclipse, is situated near the island of Borneo and. although it has been a Dutch posses sion for several centuries, is said still to contain tribes of cannibals. At any rate, the Boston party was well supplied with paste diamonds and quantities of cheap jewelry for barter with the natives, and one member laughingly promised to give a dinner to the cannibals if the observation of the eclipse should prove successful. The astronomical transit which this party took to Sumatra is one which was used in driving the famous tunnel through Hoosac mountain, in western Massachusetts. It was presented to the Institute of Technology after that great fent in ratiroad engineering had been accomplished. The equipment of the expedition also included a valuable set of instruments furnished by the United States coast and geodetic survey for making gravity observations by means of a pendulum and thus helping to ascertain the exact shape of the earth.

THE PORT OF LONDON.

It Is Picturesque, but Its Comme

That the port of London is the most picturesque port in the world is undeniable. Far out at sea you may behold the shipping of the world all converging toward the entrance to the narrow channel that makes the lower reaches of the Thames navigable to ocean going vessels. Wonderful as the sight is by day, its beauty and its impressiveness are multiplied tenfold in the ruddy afterglow of a summer's evening or the velvety luminous darkness of a frosty winter's night. But unfortunately for the artist the picturesque is of little avail in the utilitarian days, and the port of London has for years been falling from its proud position as the facile princeps of the shipping cen ters of the world.

Years ago, in its heydey, the port of London was far and away the prosperous in the world. Judged by tonnage or number of vessels or value of cargo, the shipping passing through the port was not merely far ahead of all the other ports, but was more than double that of any other port of the world. Two years ago New York equal-ed and this year bids fair to surpass the old marine capital of the world. Other ports are rapidly creeping up. Even in our own country Glasgow and Liverpool are becoming formidable rivals. Hamburg, Baltimore, Marseilles abroad are all gaining on the British capital. These indications of feebleness demanded immediate attention. Last year a royal commission was appointed to inquire into the causes of this decline in supremacy. It has held many sittings, and all witnesses have borne out the obvious fact that naturally the lower Thames is utterly unsuited to the requirements of a modern shipping center.-Black and White.

Astronomical Photography. One of the direct results of astronomical photography has been its application to searching the space be tween the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, in which several hundreds of minor planets are known to be moving about the sun in distinct orbits of their own. The former method of searching for these tiny bodies, with the eye fixed on the sight piece of the telescope, was painful and discouraging. The new way is to make a photographic exposure of two or three hours' duration, when the moving body appears on the plate as a short curved line of light. The minor planet Bros was discovered in this manner.

ns, Gates and Artistic Pene The use of the Iron fence, with stone ations and brick pillars and impressive gates, has long been a favorite device of architects to tie together groups of buildings of different types or to bring out the unity in a go plan. Harvard university has had for several years a few handsome gates, the gifts of individual alumni, but this year the various classes are uniting to build a fence completely round the prounds and to put up new gates and a lodge house on Massachusetts avenue near the library building, where hereafter the main entrance to the campus, or "yard," as it is called, will be.

At Soldiers' field, the spacious athletic grounds of the college across the Charles river, in Boston, but only a few minutes' walk from the college yard, another fence has been built to include the baseball diamond, football gridiron, running track and locker buildings. Here the central feature is a noble gate erected in memory of Marshall Newell, the young graduate whose death several years ago caused such deep grief among all the more recent classes.

The class of 1860, instead of contrib uting a section to the fence around the yard, has decided to put up a fountain to take the place of the old pump where in more primitive days the students used themselves to draw water for their rooms and which has been a landmark at the university for a longer period probably than even the ancient Stoughton, Massachusetts and Harvard halls which look down upon it. though these were used by the American troops under Washington during the slege of Boston.

Amusing Story Told of an Officer I the Philippines. A Louisville boy, an officer in the Philippines, tells a story on one of his brother officers which will bear repeating, says the Louisville Courier-Journal. The officer in question, a captain, stutters badly. He had been on recruiting duty in the United States and while at his work had enlisted for his regiment a man who stuttered as badly as, if not worse than, the captain bimself.

Some time later be was ordered back to his company, and a few days afterward was on duty as officer of the day. As it happened, the stutterer that he had enlisted was without his knowledge put on guard duty that night When the captain went around to inspect the guard, he came to the new sentry and was challenged. "Hub-hubb-halt, who-who-who c-c-comes there?" The captain answered, "O o o of ofof-of-fleer of the did-dad-day."

Then the sentry said, "A-n-n-ndyance of-f-of-of-officer of the d-d-day, to b-bibbab-be recognized."

By this time the captain was mad all ever, for he thought the man was mocking him. He did not know the recruit, although the recruit knew him The captain went bouncing up to the sentry and yelled at him, "W-w-whwh-what did didn't fif fool enlisted y y y you?" and the sentry said, "Y-yy-you did, str."

"I suppose," said the stonecutter, "vou'll want 'Regulescat in pace' a the bottom of your wife's monument?" "No," replied the bereaved Mr. Peck; "make it 'llegulesco in pace."

"That means 'I rest in peace,' doesn't "Yes, and I want you to sign that 'Husband.' "-Catholic Standard and

REPLACING THE OLD PUMP.

The School Girl

School days are danger days for American girls.

Often physical collapse follows, and it takes years to re-cover the lost vitality. Sometimes it is never recovered. Perhaps she is not over-careful about keeping her feet dry; through carelessness in this respect the monthly sickness is usually rendered very severe. Then begin ailments which should be removed at once, or they will produce constant suffering. Headache, faint-ness, slight vertigo, pains in the back and loins, irregularity, loss of sleep and appetite, a tendency to avoid the society of others are symptoms all indicating that woman's arch-enemy

This need not be so if mothers would have a thought for the physical condition of their daughters, and see to it that they have proper assistance.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many a young girl over this critical period. With it they have gone through their trials with courage and safety. With its proper use the young girl is safe from the peculiar dangers of school years and prepared for hearty womanhood.

Mrs. Camp writes about her Daughter's Health.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It gives me great plea-sure to tell you of the benefit my daughter has received from Lydin E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. She was in a ve state; the doctor did her no good. After ning the use of your medicine she began to mend, and is now able to be at her work. I feel very thankful to you, and expect always to keep your Vegetable Compound in my house. It is the best medicine I ever knew. You have my permission to publish this letter, if you wish. It may be the means of doing others good. "—MRS. MATILDA A.
