Professor Coulter, the distinguished botanist in the University of Chicago speaking of Dr. Stevens says: "He is the best available man in the country for such a position. He is far better trained than the majority of botanists at Agricultural colleges, and his training has been especially in the direction of plant diseases, etc. He is an experienced teacher and a good lecturer. It is alto gether a rare opportunity for Presiden Winston; the only reason why he has a chance at him is that Stevens' year in Europe has cut him loose from all ties here, and he must hitch on again some where."
