HINTS FOR FARMERS

Planting Potatoes in Autumn.
The bulletin from the Montana experiment station gives a list of 14 species of plants which are known as strongly suspected of poisoning animals. Among them are the lupines, which killed 100 out of 200 hucks fed on hay and in 1898 some 2,000 sheep from eating ripe lupines on the range. The trouble seems to be in the tips or nearly ripe seed. The purple and tall larkspur killed 40 cattle in the Gallatin valley when other plants were covered with snow. Acute, water hemlock and nightshade have proved poisonous to both man and beast. All these are more or less frequent in certain parts of New England, says American Cultivator. The death causes we do not know and think it is not to be found here. In 1898 a dairyman had a field of oats so badly smitten that he cut them for hay instead of letting the grain ripen. Out of 80 acres which were given one feed of it died within 12 hours, having both gastric and cerebral trouble. Ergot on native grasses is claimed to have killed a number of horses in from six to eight hours, the muscles of the throat being paralyzed first, and then the whole body paralyzed. Strichnine and whiskey seems to be the only remedy having effect. It is better to avoid feeding ergot or smut on any grass or grain.

Use of Lime on Sour Land.
The chief aim of the farm and agricultural standpoint is to sweeten the soil and to act upon latent plant food, breaking down organic matter and setting it free so that plants can utilize it. Lime in itself contains little or no elements which plants require and is not properly classified as a fertilizer. It is used commonly in preparing land for wheat or rye, but may also be sown broadcast on meadows. The presence of red soil in any quantity indicates that the land is sour and acid and is a sign that an application of lime would be beneficial. Wood ashes in a less degree serve the same purpose, as they contain a considerable proportion of lime. They also have the additional value of adding potash and phosphoric acid to the soil.

Grub in Head of Sheep.
In Scotland where they have reason to think the sheep have a grub in the head the sheep usually takes each one and blows tobacco smoke up the nostrils almost to the point of stupefying the sheep and the grubs, too; then gives each a pinch of yellow snuff to start them sneezing, which dislodges the grub, so that it is discharged. We never tried this because the putting out a little pine tar on boards and scattering a little salt oil usually tared the nose of the sheep so that the fly did not trouble them, or for a small flock we took them as they went out of the yard and with a wooden paddle dabbed the nose of each one as we let them through the gate.

Male Versus Horse.
Mules are preferred for farm work in the south because they require less feed, are less liable to disease, harder every way and will do more work than horses 20 per cent heavier, says Farm and Ranch. They are more reliable and have fewer colics. They are not as fast as horses, but get there sooner because their gait is more uniform and persistent. A pair of good males makes the best farm team on earth. Under the saddle the male does not show off like a horse, but there is far more footed and in critical junctures find a way out far more readily than a horse.

Modern Poultry Houses.
Substantial poultry houses are the most durable, warmest and in the end the cheapest. A neat, handsome and low cost building is made by joining or matching inch boards nailed on two by four studding, covered with building paper and then shingled. Practical poultry keepers are putting up such buildings as fast as their means allow, and those who make a specialty of pure bred stock favor small houses scattered about the place rather than long houses with continuous runs.

Stop the Leaks.
No man can expect to conduct a farm successfully who is behind the times in enlightenment. A farm can no longer be run at a profit without brain work in the business. There is so much on earth that could be made to pay a profit, if you wish to succeed, stop the leaks that your own carelessness and ignorance are leaving on you, and you will be amply rewarded, and success will crown your efforts.

Stands For the Herd.
Hens suffer from heat and will not do well in a hot, smoky yard. They do best in a cool, airy enclosure. Put up an old door in an airy corner if you have nothing better. Renew their water several times a day and keep their drinking vessels clean.

Millet For Hens.
Millet is a good food for young chicks as well as for laying hens. As the seed is so small it keeps the fow's stomach for a long time and is not enough to satisfy them, and the exercise is just what they need to make healthy hens and good layers.

Prevent the Woodpecker.
Do not destroy the woodpecker. It is a bird which does you good and it is not to be destroyed. It eats as well as colonies of ants on apple and other trees. Both of these insects are injurious.

Care of the Orchard.
During a dry summer and autumn the orchard soil should be kept in till until the crop of fruit and wood are matured or until rain comes.

A Good Medicine.
Many thousands have been restored to health and happiness by the use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is sold with any druggist or by mail, giving a trial for it is certainly to prove beneficial. Coughs that have continued all winter and that have returned after treatment for years, have yielded to this remedy and perfect health has returned. Check the name of the remedy and the name of the manufacturer, Chamberlain Medicine Co., Lowell, Mass., on the wrapper, and you will be sure to get the original.

Mr. Knox Taken For a Boy.
Attorney General Knox to the most youthful looking man that has occupied a cabinet portfolio in recent years, says the Philadelphia North American, in reality Mr. Knox is not an old man by any means, only 42 years, but he looks more like a boy of 12 or 13 than he does like a man of middle age. The other day he was taken for a boy by an old gentleman who was at the department of justice to see the attorney general on business. Mr. Knox's office is on the first floor of the building. The waiting room is on the opposite side of the hall. The old gentleman had been sitting there for an hour or more to see the attorney general. At last Mr. Knox emerged from his office to go to some other part of the building. The old gentleman mistook him for the office boy and, stepping up to him, said: "Say, sonny, what kind of a fellow is your boss? I see you coming out of his office and presume you know all about him. I have a little business to transact with the attorney general and would like to get a line on Mr. Knox before tackling him."

Mr. Knox's cherubic face brightened and, with a merry twinkle in his eye, said: "Oh, he's all right. Walk right in and sit down until I return. I will then hear what you have to say."
The old gentleman would have then and there sold himself for 80 cents.

His Mistake.
Mr. Straits—It may seem a strange thing for me to do on such a short acquaintance, Miss Slasher, but I have called to pledge you my love.
Miss Slasher—You have made a mistake, Mr. Straits. Miss Eisenbecker, the pawnbroker's daughter, lives in the next block.—Boston Courier.

There is nothing like ATHMALENE. It brings instant relief, even in the worst cases. It cures when all else fails.

The Rev. O. F. WELLES, of Villa Ridge, Ill., says: "Your trial bottle of Asthmalene received in good condition. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I cannot tell you how thankful I feel for the good derived from it. I was a slave chained with my third throats and asthma for ten years. I despaired of ever being cured. I saw your advertisement for the cure of this dreadful and tormenting disease, Asthma, and thought you had over-spoken yourselves, but resolved to give it a trial. To my astonishment, the trial acted like a charm. Send me a full size bottle."

REV. DR. MORRIS WECHSLER,
AVON SPRINGS, N. Y., February 1st, 1901.

Gentlemen—I write this testimonial from a sense of duty, having tested the wonderful effect of your Asthmalene, for the cure of Asthma. My wife has been afflicted with spasmodic Asthma for the past 12 years. Having exhausted my own skill as well as many others, I changed to see your sign upon your windows on 129th street, New York. I at once obtained a bottle of Asthmalene. My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. Very soon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,
O. D. EHELPS, M. D.

I am now in the best of health and am doing business every day. This testimony you can make such use of as you see fit.

Start Girls Right!
Many beautiful girls become invalids for life because at the crucial period of puberty they pay no attention to the laws of health. Mothers should protect their daughters' health by giving them necessary information and proper treatment. When the menses come on a girl unaware in her inexperience she is either frightened into convulsions, or scared into trying to check the flow. Many girls have checked the flow and it has never started again. As a result they have grown pale-faced, with "crows-feet" on their cheeks, and dark halos around their eyes. A dose of taken every morning after a girl is twelve years old will bring the menses on properly and keep them regular. It will help her to develop into attractive womanhood and equip her for the duties of wife and motherhood. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

The Hollywood, Aubrey Park, N. J., February 5, 1901.
I read your advertisement in regard to Wine of Cardui in the American, and it so favorably impressed me that on my visit to Baltimore during the holidays I purchased a bottle of it for my adopted daughter, who was suffering with female troubles. She had been under the doctor's care for some time, and when her periods would come on her suffering was something terrible. I induced her to try it and the first dose brought on her menses. She took it regularly according to the directions, and was greatly relieved. To use her own words, "it saved my life."
Respectfully, The Cheatem Medical Company, Baltimore, Md.

TRY IT

Women suffering from female troubles and weakness, and from irregular or painful menses, ought not to lose hope if doctors cannot help them. Physicians are so busy with other diseases that they do not understand fully the peculiar ailments and the sufferer ought to do is to give a fair trial to which is the true cure provided by Nature for all female troubles. It is the formula of a physician of the highest standing, who devoted his whole life to the study of the distinct ailments peculiar to our mothers, wives and daughters. It is made of soothing, healing, strengthening herbs and vegetables, which have been provided by a kindly Nature to cure irregularity in the menses, Lemnorrhoea, Falling of the Womb, Nervousness, Headache and Backache. In fairness to herself and to Bradfield's Female Regulator, every suffering woman ought to give it a trial. A large bottle will do a wonderful amount of good. Sold by druggists.

BRADFIELD'S Female Regulator

Send us a wholly blanked free book on the subject.
