THE LAW AND BUSINESS IN-TERESTS.

It is announced that the Charlest exposition will be well provided by the State dispensary with liquid refresh-ment. Legal formelities will be ignored ment. Legal formalities with ne ignor-to a large extent at the exposition rest rants in order that the exposition restu-rants in order that the patrons from other States may find everything home-like. The arrangements to be made are said to be in violation of the dispen-sary law, but it is understood that, for the sake of the exposition, no one in South Carolina is to protest.

The above from an exchange, if true, and there is not much to question it will not create in advance a very favorable opinion of the Charleston Exposition and its ways and and a second

The fact that an Exposition cannot be held in Charleston, S. C., and prove success without violating the State laws. ought to have proved sufficient in itself to have prevented any attempt at holding the coming Exposition

But it is plain to be seen that the Charlestonians have no scruples in this Exposition matter.

The Exposition is to be held for the "business interests" of the city, and to let any mere question of law interfere, and injure its financial results will not be permitted.

The very open manner in which the outside public is notified to come along and not be afraid of the law, "everything homelike" for liquor drinkers, ought to prove that every kind of "a good time" will be offered the visitor at the Charleston Exposition.

This plain declaration so much in adbe greatly appreciated by those who feared to stiend because of the South Carolina dispensary law, and the trouble and discomfort this law gives every one in making it necessary to buy drunks by the wholesale instead of getting drunk in the customary retail style, prevalent in every State outside of South Care-

The "business interests" of Charleston are to be congratulated on the successful plan adopted of avoiding the law, and thereby ensuring the Exposition's success, and the comfort of those attend-and while all other nationalities seemed to be represented in the reports of deaths and heat victims the Celestial alone seemed to possess immunity.

His coolness is due to the fact that he has an antidote for the heat in the shape of the from his native land, and he knows how to take it. The botter the day the warmer will be the tea the day the warmer will be the tea which he drinks in unstinted quantiwhich he drinks in unstituted quantities.

One of the followers of Confucius who has an extended reputation for his dexterity in mixing chop seep for the cultivated taste of actors and people with Thespian tastes explained the reason why none of his people ever safet with heat. He also said that during the hot weather none of his people ever tat any meat, and even the odder of yokomal has no temptation for him. The philosophy of the Chinaman is that the abstinence from meat and the indulgence in the boiling tee act in conjunction to keep him from feeling the heat. The tas is supposed not only to relieve all thirst, but to induce a perspiration that in turn brings about a lower temperature.

The Chinaman also eachews any attempt at bathing during the heated season and declares that this also contributes to his general chilly temperature. He never hampers himself with extra clothes and above all has never learned to read a thermometer. Cleveland Plain Declar.

Impertinent. It is said that Sarah, duchess of Mariborough, one day remarked to her grandsón, Jack Spencer: "Jack, you must marry, and I will give you a list of the ladies you may propose to."

"Very well, grannie," he said, and he proposed to the first on the list. When he came back with his wife from their wedding tour, they went to pay their respects to the old lady. "Well, now," she said, "I am the root, and you are only the branches, and therefore you must always pay me s great deal of deference." "That is all very well," said Jack Impertmently, "but I think the branches vould flourish a great deal better in the root was under ground."

Stood Death Off.

E. B. Munday, a lawyer of Henrietta, Tex., once fooled a grave-digger. He says: "My brother was very low with malarial fever and jaundice. I persuaded him to try Electric Bitters, and he was soon much better, but continued their use until he was wholly cured. I am sure Electric Bitters saved his life." This remedy expels malaria, kills disease germs and purities the blood; aids diges tion, regulates liver, kidneys and bowels, cures constipation, dyspepsia, nervous diseases, kidney troubles, female com plaints; gives perfect health.
