THE COST OF POPULARITY.

The cost of individual success must be measured by the personal effort demanded to win, and its after effect for good or evil, upon the individual.

It is this self examination which usually the successful man or woman seeks to avoid, lest the inward inspection shall reveal something that may change the glow of satisfaction which the accomplishment of the aim sought has aroused.

"To be popular," how have men and women striven to gain the point in their every day life, so that there might appear no sign of irritation between themselves and their neighbors.

It is this seeking to avoid criticizing the acts of others, that seems to win popularity, the attempt to shun all treading on the other person's toes, which too often gains the applause of the unthinking crowd.

The wish and endeavor to meet the approval of one's associates should animate every one, and this can be accomplished by the practice of self denial in those things which every person must mutually share in some part with another.

In the great world, where the public becomes the neighbor, to be numbered not by the dozen or score, but by hundreds and thousands, this approval passes into the ambition to win popularity, to be in the business, the social, the educational, or the religious circle, until there seems to be the need of practicing something that may be termed "policy," until policy becomes the controlling motive to inspire every action.

Shall popularity be sought and won at the cost of the loss of self-respect? And no one can question but that self-respect of the honest, inward searching kind, cannot be kept where policy, alone shall govern. This would mean to the man or woman in public life the constant practice of hypocrisy.

And yet there must arise times and occasions when it is impossible to be "all things to all men," where the individual opinion would be forced to assert itself, and policy could not control.

It is possible to grow beyond this point, to be so coward, morally, that self assertion is impossible, and weak acquiescence in every thing is the course followed to keep popular.

The cost of such popularity upon the individual can only be for evil, for selfishness dictates the policy that governs every deed and word.

She was disappointed and wanted to know what cough preparation I could recommend. I said to her I could freely recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and that she could take a bottle of the remedy and after giving it a fair trial if she did not find it worth the money to bring back the bottle and I would refund the price paid. In the course of a day or two the lady came back in company with a friend in need of a cough medicine and advised her to buy a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Why His Cuff Was Slow.

There is an Italian fruit dealer, with a well stocked store near one of the suburban railway stations, who has adopted a unique device, and one which shows a deep knowledge of human nature, to hold his own in competition with another dealer, whose stand is some fifty yards nearer the station than his own. A commuter was leisurely peeling a banana in his store the other day when the Italian remarked:

"You gotta be' repulle before your train." "No; twenty," replied the commuter, glancing at a big clock on the wall. "Thata clock fifteen minute slow," said the Italian. "I keep it slow. Peep'd used come in a-here, look at clock, getta excise, go way, not buy. Time to buy at Pedro's stand, noty here. Now keepa clock slow, get mucha trade. No, I not letta peep's miss train. Champagne Puzzles Arabs.

A Vienna newspaper contains a long description of the expedition led by the Austrian explorers Muesl and Mielich into the north Arabian deserts, where they collected many scientific and historical treasures. The explorers were attacked on six different occasions by hostile Arabs. Five times they drove off their assailants, but on the sixth they were overcome and robbed of everything. Then explanations took place. The explorers informed the Arabs that they were not traders, but scientific men. The Arabs then restored the plunder, and friendly relations were established. A few bottles of champagne which were among the stores were presented to the Arabs, who were delighted with the beverage. Of course they did not know they were transgressing the Mohammedan law regarding wine. What puzzled them in a good deal was how champagne could boil and still keep cool.

DISCOVERED BY ACCIDENT.

How the Paving Value of Asphalt Was Brought to Notice. All forms of bituminous pavements, whether manufactured from natural or artificial asphalt, are in fact artificial stone pavements. The industry started with the use of the natural rock asphalt from the mines in the Val de Travers, Canton, Switzerland, Switzerland. The mines were discovered in 1721, but it was 1840 that its utility as a road covering was first noticed. The rock was then being mined for the purpose of extracting the bitumen contained in it for use in medicine and arts. It is a limestone found impregnated with bitumen, of which it yields on analysis from 8 to 14 per cent.

It was observed that pieces of rock which fell from the wagon were crushed by the weight of wheels, and under the combined influence of the traffic and heat of the sun a good road surface was produced. A macadam road of asphalt rock was then made which gave very good results, and finally in 1854 a portion of the Rue Bergere was laid in Paris of compressed asphalt on a concrete foundation. In 1868 a still larger sample was laid, and from that time it has been laid year by year in Paris. From Paris it extended to London, being laid on Threadneedle street in 1869 and Cheapside in 1870 and in successive years on other streets.—Municipal Journal and Engineer.

No Limit to New Ideas.

There never has been a time when the individual has stood for so much as he does at present. There has never been a time when individuality and personal initiative brought such amazing rewards. There never has been a time when the individual could or did exert so much influence as at present. There is no individual today so insignificant that, if he became the medium of a new or potent ideal, he would be prevented by uncontrollable conditions from expressing his idea and reaping his just reward.

In all ages up to this man has been, owing to his limitations of physical force, a plaything of conditions, a slave of his environment. Skill and intelligence were but two of the factors in his progress, bounded and restrained by limitations to their employment. Now, however, with universal energy at the disposal of each individual, this terrestrial sphere scarce puts bounds to his field of influence.—Cassier's Magazine.

Fruit Acids Kill Germs.

A writer in a scientific periodical states that it is not generally known that fruit acids are germicidal. "The juice," he says, "of lemons and lemons is as deadly to cholera germs as corrosive sublimate or sulphur fumes or formaldehyde or any other disinfectant. It is so powerful a germicide that if the juice of one lime or lemon be squeezed into a glass of water that is then left standing for ten or fifteen minutes the water will be disinfected. It makes little difference where the water has been obtained or whether it has been boiled or filtered." As boiled or filtered water is not always obtainable this is worth remembering.

Chronic Ulcers Eating Sores

An old sore or ulcer is not only a source of great bodily discomfort and pain, but the constant care, worry and anxiety over one of these malignant festering places produces an unhealthy state of the nervous system and the patient becomes morbidly sensitive, miserable and gloomy. No one could be otherwise when haunted by the presence of an inflamed, angry-looking sore, with a continual discharge, carrying with it the life fluids, thus robbing the body of strength and vitality. An eating, lingering ulcer naturally fills the sufferer with fear while noting the daily growth of the sore, from which there is a slow but perpetual discharge of yellow or greenish watery matter, and feeling the dull, throbbing or sharp shooting pains as the poison penetrates the tender tissues and reaches the bone.

All slow-healing, stubborn sores are dangerous. The same germ-producing, cancer-tainted blood is back of every sore or ulcer, large or small, that does not promptly and permanently heal; the little blister upon the lip or tongue, the warty growth or mole upon the cheek, and other parts of the body, and the almost imperceptible tumor or lump upon the breast, as often result in Cancer as the deeper and more frightful-looking ulcers. They feed upon the same morbid and destructive materials that are generated within the blood, and inflammation and destruction of tissue will continue just so long as this impure matter is carried through the circulation to these old sores and ulcers.

Washes, salves, nor anything else applied directly to the sore can do any permanent good; neither does the use of the knife or flesh destroying plaster cure, for local causes have nothing to do with these germ-breeding plague spots. You might cut out every particle of the diseased flesh and scrape the bone, but another sore would come. The germs or poison in the blood must be destroyed, the stream of sluggish, polluted blood purified and made strong before the healing process begins and the sore or ulcer can get well. S. S. S. is the only remedy known that can and does accomplish this. It cleanses and purifies the circulation, and when new, rich blood is carried through the little veins and arteries to the sore, it brings about a healthy healing around the edges, and a permanent and thorough cure is soon effected. S. S. S. not only expels all impurities, but works a complete and radical change in the entire system by stimulating inactive organs, toning up the nerves, increasing the appetite, and aiding the digestion and assimilation of food, thus building up the weak and wasted constitution. S. S. S. is strictly and entirely a vegetable medicine, and no bad effects follow its use, and for this reason it is better than Mercury and Potash or other minerals, which not only ruin the stomach, but often produce most stubborn and offensive sores themselves.

Prompt treatment should be given a sore or ulcer, no matter how small it may be, whether external or internal, for what you think a simple sore, may, in reality, be an undeveloped Cancer. Our physicians will gladly advise all who need their services, and those who write us will receive valuable suggestions regarding the treatment of their case free of charge.

That Breed and Foster the Germs of Cancer—Plague Spots the Outgrowth of Diseased Blood, and a Constant Drain upon the System.

Six years ago my leg from the knee to the foot was one solid sore and very offensive. I spent over $1,000 on two trips to Hot Springs. Local physicians treated me to no purpose. I had about come to the conclusion to have my leg amputated when a friend induced me to try S. S. S. I began to take your medicine, and in seven months it completely cured me. I consider S. S. S. the greatest medicine the world has ever known. My case is a witness today as to what S. S. S. will do when taken regularly. I have gained 50 pounds. I write this to show the company my appreciation of their wonderful medicine, and I am ready to write a letter at any time to any one wishing further information. J. B. TALBERT, Winona, Minn.
