NON-COMMUNITY SUPPORTERS.

Every individual in a community is under a mutual obligation to be a supporter of the best interests of that community,

The public office holder before he becomes one is required to subscribe to an oath to support his country and its constitution

Every citizen before permission is given him to vote at any local, State or national election must awear to support these interests, State and National.

But the citizen living in a community, while not compelled to give oath binding himself to protect every local interest, yet is in honor and duty bound to give his unqualified support to every just interest in the community, where he lives and enjoys the local benefits of protection given by the power of local government.

And yet in honor and duty bound to give true and perfect allegiance, there are citizens in every community who willfully ignore their obligations, and enjoying all local benefits, refuse to support local interests that need and should receive their support.

There are constantly demands made upon the purse, in order that some local charity may be helped, some religious or educational institution given needed aid, all calling upon the citizen who has sufficient of goods, and can give to othors.

There are the duties of citizenship, which really demand of every citizen his attention, such as a knowledge of the conduct of his city's affairs, and his county's, while a greater knowledge would include his State and country.

There is the local merchant, the local industry or enterprise of every kind, which should find in every citizen a patron and supporter.

The local newspaper, read by every one in the place, receives the actual pecuniary support too frequently of the few good citizens who are honest in suband in paying their sub Norway.

The population of Norway is about 2,000,000 souls. It was 2,110,000 in 1891, with a probability that 15,000 seamen and fishermen were absent from home on the day that the census was taken and that there has been a net increase of 75,000 since. This is an average of 16.80 inhabitants to the square mile, showing Norway to be the most thinly settled of all European countries.

She explained that she had a cold and had taken some medicine which had been recomnended for the children. "How much did you take?" asked her mistress. "Well, mum, I went by the directions on the bottle. They said, 'Ten drops for an infant, thirty drops for an adult and a tablespoonful for an emetic.' The "Extra Horse,"

A lover of horses recently noticed a rustom in France which he thinks ought to be adopted in this country. On every street in France which has a steep grade there is stationed an "extra horse." The law compels draymen and others to make use of this horse until the summit or the hill is reached, and there is a heavy fine for refusing to hire the extra borse at a small fixed rate. Placards by the roadside indicate the point where the extra horse should be taken on and also where he may be dispensed with.
