NEGRO SOCIETIES.

HE SOUTHERN COLORED MAN'S LOVE OF POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE.

Wenderfully Ramed Organizations to Provide For Numbers' Sick Henc-fits and Funeral Expenses—How They Flourish in Charleston.

The southern negro's love of pomp and circumstance is nowhere exempli-fied more forcibly than in the manner in which he multiplies his charitable organizations. Inordinately fond of company, he has few societies founded with the sole view of promoting social enjoyment. For the most part, whatever foundations be makes have a semireligious trend, the dues entitling members to sick benefits and funeral expenses. There is usually an elaborate regalin and an intricate ritual. Not a few negroes of a southern city, such as Charleston, belong to no less than a score of these orders, the names of which are oftentimes curiously and of which are oftentimes curiously and wonderfully made. What, for instance, would the ordinary patron of secret or-ganisations think of possessing mem-bership in the Sons and Daughters of the Seven Golden Candlesticks In Charity or in the Sons and Daughters of J Will Aries? of I Will Arise?

The sons and daughters idea is worked to the limit of endurance. There is scarcely a well known name in Biblical history that is not tacked on to it. There are in Charleston alone no less than seventy-five of these societies with charters from the state of South Carolina, and how many there are that have no legal status no man may say

Dues are paid weekly, and, strange ns it may seem when the great poverty of the negro of the south is considered, the arrears list is a brief one indeed Of course the charges are small, usual ly about 25 cents a month, but when it is remembered that many individuals belong to six or eight or even more orders it is little short of marvelor how the funds necessary to meet the demands of the collectors are found, and yet it is so deep a disgrace to be expelled that instances of the kind are very rare. To hold membership in a number of societies is regarded as a badge of honor.

Meetings are held monthly in private residences, in public halls or, more frequently still, in churches. These gatherings begin at the fashionable hour of 10 p. m. and continue not infrequently throughout the night. Refreshments are to be had for a small consideration, and as these are for the most part of a liquid nature the sons and daughters are prone to be conspicuous by their absence from their several places of employment next morning. Often the police have to interfere to restore that harmony in which brothers and sisters should ever dwell together. Among the societies in Charleston are the Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims, the Sons and Daughters of the Twelve Disciples, the Sons and Daughters of the Bearer of the Cross, the Sons and Daughters of the Evening Star, the Sons and Daughters of the Seventh Star, the Sons and Daughters of the Celestial Travelers, the Sons and Daughters of the Good Samaritan, the Sons and Daughters of the East, the Sons and Daughters of Lazarus, the Sons and Daughters of Christian Love, and there might be added to these fully twoscore of others. The devotion of the negroes to these or ganizations and their loyalty to their fellow members are absolute.

The funeral of a colored man woman who holds membership in a half dozen of these orders is a spects cle worth witnessing. Occasionally bitter feuds arise between rival so cieties for the possession of a corpse for the negro's love of a funeral is not second even to his love of melons. The coremonies usually begin the night be-fore the actual interment is to take place. There are sermons, prayers and personal experiences interspiced with wild bursts of incoherent melody, which arouses religious fervor to fever beight. Men and women faint in the course of the exercises many others fall into trances and talk of visions of their dead friends enthroned in glory.

The ceremonies culminate in a formal procession. It is forming for an hour before the residence of the late hmented son or daughter. Negroes from the uttermost parts of the city gather in the streets. The occasion is festive one. They run and shout and caper. The members of the organiza-tions to which the dead person belong-ed stand in solemn order, clad in elab-orate uniforms and bearing the banorate uniforms and bearing the ban-ners and other insignia of their re-spective-orders, and when the cortege finally moves, wending its way at times through miles of the city's streets, it is followed by a mad rush of men, women and children, who block the thoroughfares, and traffic for the time being has to be suspended. The hope of such a funeral is the in-spiration of many a negro's whole life. He slaves and deprives himself of netual necessities for years to meet the demands of the collectors of the societies in order that he may go to speciation of the collectors of the speciation in order that he may go to his has resting place in the midst of such strangely weird pageantry.— Charleston Letter in New York Trib-

MARMFUL BATHING.

The Much Soap and Water is Not Good For the Shin.

It is a familiar boast of English people that we are above all cohers a washing aution. Soap and water is 4 anning dish'in Greet Britain, but he little were we disposed to credif, the babitual cleanliness of foreigners that a piece of soap in the valies was till recently the habitual companion of an Englishman on his travels. All kinds of theories have been raised to account for this national tendency to ablution, and most diverse qualities have been attributed to its possession.

The familiarity of islanders with water and the use of it occasioned by the national custom that led the ancient Britons to paint their bodies are solemnly urged as the foundation of the English proneness to washing, and the fresh complexions and smooth skins of young Englishmen are held to replace young Englishmen are held to replace the more dusky and hirsute counte-nances of the Latin races because of their closer and more frequent acquaintance with the articles of the washatand.

It is quite obvious that even in England there are people who wash too little. It is not so generally recognized that some people wash too much. The skin is not well adapted to frequent applications of water accompanied by even the least irritating of scaps. A tendency arises to maceration of the superficial part of the epidermis, which is too frequently removed and occa-sions probably too rapid a proliferation of the cells of the Malpighian layer.

There is no doubt that many cases of roughness of the skin of the face come from the frequent applications of water. It is a good thing to rub the face with a soft, clean, dry towel two or three times a day. If, in addition, water is used in the morning and at night, the skin will be kept in a sounder, smoother and healthier state than if, as is often the case, soap and water are used three or four times a day.

Men are not often offenders in this respect, most men sparing little time for the refinements of the toilet. Women and children, whose skins are the most easily affected by superfluous ablution, are the very persons in whom such excess is too common. They should be taught that there are dry methods of cleanliness as well as wet ones.-Lancet.

A Dangerous Tree. The fruit of the umganu tree of South Africa yields a strong intoxicating drink for the natives. Elephants are fond of it, becoming quite tipsy, staggering about, playing antics, screaming so as to be heard for miles and having tremendous fights. When in this state the natives leave them alone.

My wife commenced taking it about the first of November. I very scon noticed a radical improvement. After using one bottle her Asthma has disappeared and she is entirely free from all symptoms. I feel that I can consistently recommend the medicine to all who are afflicted with this distressing disease.

Yours respectfully,

O. D. PHELPS, M. D.

DR. TAFT BROS. MEDICINE COMPANY,
Gentlemen:—I was troubled with Asthma for 22 years. I have tried numerous remedies, but they have all failed. I ran across your advertisement and started with a trial bottle. I found relief at once. I have since purchased your full size bottle, and I am ever grateful. I have a family of four children, and for six years was unable to work. I am now in the best of health and am doing business every was unable to work. I am now in the such use of as you see fit.
