What the President Says on Important Subjects.

TRUSTS AND RECIPROCITY

How He Would Deal With These Problems.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The pre

The congress assembles this year un-der the shadow of a great calamity. On the 6th of September President Mc-Kinley was shot by an anarchist while attending the Pan-American exposi-tion at Buffalo and died in that city on the 14th of that month.

Of the last seven elected presidents he is the third who has been murdered, and the bare recital of this fact is sufficient to justify grave alarm among all loyal American citizens. Moreover, the circumstances of this, the third as sassination of an American president, Garfield were killed by assassins of types unfortunately not uncommon in bistory, President Lincoln falling a victim to the terrible passions aroused by four years of civil war and Presi-dent Gardeld to the regengeful vanity of a disappointed office seeker. Presi-dent McKinley was killed by an utterly depraved criminal belonging to that body of criminals who object to all governments, good and bad altke, who are against any form of popular lib-erty if it is guaranteed by even the most just and liberal laws and who are as hostile to the upright exponent of a free people's soler will as to the tyrannical and irresponsible despot.

Annroby and Aparchists. The president continues with a culogy of Mr. McKinley, then turns to the subject of anarchy, denouncing its I carnestly recommend to the congress that in the exercise of its wise discrethe coming to this country of anarchists or persons professing principles ists or persons professing principles hostile to all government and justifying the murder of those placed in authority. Such individuals as those who not long ago gathered in open meeting to glorify the murder of King Humbert of Italy perpetrate a crime, and the law should insure their rigorous punishment. They and those like them is should be kept out of this country, and if found here they should be promptly if found here they should be promptly in interstate business. Publicity is the interest of the great corporations engaged in interstate business. Publicity is the deported to the country whence they came, and farreaching provision should be made for the punishment of those who stay. No matter calls more urgently for the wisest thought of the jurisdiction over any man who kills or attempts to kill the president or any man who by the constitution or by law is in line of succession for the presidency, while the punishment for an unsuccessful attempt should be proportioned to the enorthity of the offense against our institutions.

Anarchy is a crime against the whole human race, and all mankind should band against the anarchist. His crime should be made an offense against the men almost inevitably endangers the interests of all. The fundamental rule in our national life—the rule which underlies all others—is that, on the whole and in the long run, we shall go up or down together.

The mechanism of modern business is so delicate that extreme care must be taken not to interfere with it in a spirit of rashness or ignorance. In dealing with business interests, for the government to undertake by crude and ill considered legislation to do what may turn out to be bad, would be to incur the risk of such farreaching national disaster that it would be preferable to undertake nothing at all. The men who demand the impossible of the forces with which they are nominally at war, for they hamper those who would endeavor to find out in rational fashion what the wrongs really are and to what extent and in what manner it is practicable to apply rememanner it is practicable to apply remedies.

All this is true, and yet it is also true that there are real and grave evils, one of the chief being overcapitaliza-tion because of its many baleful con-sequences, and a resolute and practical

It is no limitation upon property rights or freedom of contract to require that when men receive from government the privilege of doing bust ness under corporate form, which frees them from individual responsibility and enables them to call into their en terprises the capital of the public, they shall do so upon absolutely truthful representations as to the value of the property in which the capital is to be invested. Corporations engaged in inerstate commerce should be regulated if they are found to exercise a license working to the public injury. It should be as much the aim of those who seek for social betterment to rid the business world of crimes of cunning as to rid the entire body politic of crimes of violence. Great corporations exist only because they are created and safe-

Artificial bodies, such as corporations and joint stock or other associations, depending upon any statutory law for their existence or privileges should be subject to proper governmental supervision, and full and accurate information as to their operations should be made public regularly at reasonable intervals.

The large corporations, common called trusts, though organized is state, always do business in states, often doing very little busin the state where they are increased. There is utter lack of uni-

The Tariff and Reciprocity. The president declares that nothing ould be more unwise than to disturb the business interests of the country by any general tariff change at this time

Yet it is not only possible, but emi ently desirable, to combine with the tability of our economic system a sup plementary system of reciprocal benefit and obligation with other nations Such reciprocity is an incident and result of the firm establishment and preservation of our present econom policy. It was specially provided for in the present tariff law. . Reciprocity must be treated as the handmalden of protection. Our first duty is to see that the protection granted by the tariff in every case where it is needed is maintained, and that reciprocity be sought for so far as it can safely be done without injury to our home industries. Just how far this is individual case, remembering always that every application of our tariff polley to meet our shifting national needs just be conditioned upon the cardinal fact that the duties must never be reduced below the point that will cover the difference between the labor cos here and abroad. The well being of see that they work in harmony with the wageworker is a prime consider tion of our entire policy of economi of marked benefit to us. It is most important that we should maintain the high level of our present prospectry. We have now reached the point in the development of our in-terests where we are not only able to supply our own markets, but to prosupply our own markets, but to pro-duce a constantly growing surplus for which we must find markets abroad. To secure these markets we can util-ize existing duties in any case where they are no longer needed for the pur-pose of protection, or in any case where the article is not produced here and the duty is no longer necessaries and the duty is no longer necessary for revenue, as giving us something to offer in exchange for what we ask.
