POLITICAL DANGER FROM WITHIN.

From all parts of the State the local newspapers are telling of the many candidates seeking nomination, and how the nomination for each office has a host of seekers.

The JOURNAL sees no signs on the part of its friends, the enemy on the other side of politics, to cause the Democratic candidates real concern in this year's elections in North Carolina.

But there is a worse fear than that which comes from an assured political enemy and that is the dissension bred among friends of the same political faith.

With all that is needed to secure of, namely a nomination, there is going to be a fierce struggle among Democrats in this State to get the much coveted nomination.

Towards each other to be filled, there is now going on some sharp work, in order to secure nominations, and those candidates centering about each nomination are already becoming known, with the result of a feeling of rivalry being created.

There is no friendship among the contestants for a political nomination, any more than there is among the candidates for a woman's favor.

It is animosity, trickery and war, and the successful man is not going to be a very much hated man.

It is the opinion of the field, the one-sidedness of the election, which is going to ultimately bring bad results to Democracy.

The political danger for North Carolina Democrats this year of 1902, is within its own ranks, not from attacks on the part of political enemies without.

"Why?" "I was afraid you meant to accept me." - Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Which Candidate? "You told Charlie Chubbins you thought he sent that beautiful valentine?"

"Yes, Charlie is a very nice young man, with good prospects." "But you know well enough that he didn't send it?"

"Of course; but it didn't do any harm to let him know that I shouldn't have been a bit angry if he had." - Washington Star.

Curious Tree Combination. There is a curious growth of trees at Tilden's Point, Me. Three yellow birch trees are growing on a pine stump. The tree, which was about two and a half feet in diameter, is thought to have been cut down some fifty years ago, leaving a stump three and a half feet high. The seeds of the birch must have lodged on this stump, and as they grew they sent their roots down its sides to reach the ground. The three trees are, respectively, five, six and seven inches in diameter.

Wellington's Custodian. The Duke of Wellington was one day sitting at his library table when the door opened and without any announcement stalked a figure of singularly ill omen.

"Who are you?" asked the duke in his short and dry manner, looking up without the slightest change of countenance upon the intruder. "I am Apollon. I am sent here to kill you."

"Kill me? Very odd." "I am Apollon and must put you to death." "Bliged to do it today?" "I am not told the day or the hour, but I must do my mission."

"Very inconvenient; very busy; grant many letters to write. Call again or write me word. I'll be ready for you." The duke then went on with his correspondence. The mantle, applied probably by the stern, immovable old gentleman, backed out of the room and in half an hour was in an asylum.

A Blind Man's Perception. One of the pious of St. Francis Xavier's church devoted himself to work among the blind and the deaf and dumb. He says that, contrary to the general impression, the blind are peculiarly happy and fond of jobs.

Illustrative of this, not long since a blind acquaintance of his whose residence was in the city of all blind, was exceptionally seen, was in a room where were some lady visitors. Pleasantly one of the ladies said: "What remarkably white and perfect teeth that lady has! Incredibly so!" "Why, how do you know?" asked Father Blindman. "Because for the last half hour she has been coughing but laughing!" - New York Times.
