HORAL EFFECT OF LOCAL BENEFACTIONS.

The citizen of a community who entablishes an institution for the publi use, be it a hospital, school, church, an building or park, becomes a benefaci of the community.

One of two motives, or a combination of the two, may be said to inapire such public benefactions.

The first for the pleasure of ine accialm, the second, through the pure love of assisting others, or it may be that the wish of both praise and doing service to others may prompt the

The community which can exhibit to ests are at stake.

The selfish community will be found without any local distinguishing landmarks in the shape of public institutions given for the free use of the people. In the community without these pub lic benefactions, them will be found a local spirit of intense selfishness.

There may be development and progress, but it will be of the soudid kind, the striving of the individual against the individual, with an utter absence of charity so far as helping the community interests. There can be no meral gain in the community thus solely implied by individual selfishness.

The effect of public benefactions upon the people where such are bestowed, is two fold.

These benefaction improve local physi cal conditions, and also work be upon the moral state of the con In the moral basefit of local condition is where the greatest good is secelyed which enriches the community more than the betterment of physical conditions, although the physical may be greatly increased by the benefaction.

It is the spirit shown in the true pubic benefaction that is so valuable moral-

How to Learn to Sing.

Lung power and capacity may be erfully increased and strengther ed by a constant repetition of the syllable "ah" on the three or four note in the middle register of the voice that is, the three or four notes which one sings most naturally and with the least effort. Let the pupil get one note clear cut, round, full and musical; then from that note as a starting point let him go up and down, gradually working out the huskiness from the adjacent notes and sounding them until they become pure and resonant and be delivered without strain or efcan fort.

Let him work systematically and, above all, avoid the pernicious trick of learning "pieces" by rote or by ear. His first effort should be to increase the purity and range of his voice, and to that end he should, as suggested above, use the broad syllable "ah" only for a time, and on no account should he try to sing an air until he can do so understandingly, with a full knowledge of musical notation and a perfect command of his vocal re-

Postoffees and Addresses.

One of the rules of the postoffice de partment which often provokes dissat-isfaction is that which prohibits a postmaster or any member of his family from giving out the addresses of pa trons of the office. A person may be looking for some one whose address has been lost or misplaced. What is more natural than to go to the post-office and ask for the information? But the postmaster, if he obeys the regulations, will not give it. The government acts on the theory that it is not its bustness to disclose the whereabouts of the patrons of the postoffice. Debtors may be pursued by importunate creditors; young women may be subjected to unpleasant attentions; hundreds of people for various reasons, good and bad, may lesire to concent from somebody their place of residence. It is not the busi-ness of the government to expose them to annovance.-Youth's Companion.

You have the most convincing evidence of this fact every day. Otherwise beautiful faces marred with black heads, blotches and pimples, muddy or sallow complexions, and red, rough or oily skins are some of the most common and conspicuous symptoms of bad blood.

• You can hide these ugly and humiliating blemishes by glazing them over with face powders and rouge, and the rough and discolored skin is made white and smooth by a lavish use of cosmetics, but these artificial complexions and false skins only last for a day, when the eruptions and spots stand out as bare and brazen as ever. The natural beauty and smoothness of the skin cannot be permanently restored by the use of external applications for the reason that these skin diseases are due to some poison or humor in the blood that must be antidoted and eliminated before the skin can or will return to a healthy state.

Under the purifying and tonic effects of S. S. S. all impurities are expelled from the blood, the general health is invigorated, and all disfiguring and annoying eruptions promptly and permanently disappear from the skin, and it becomes as soft and smooth as ever.

Bad blood tells in many other ways. Itching and burning eruptions, rashes and sores, boils and carbuncles show the presence of some irritating poison or unhealthy matter in the blood, and these aggravating troubles will continue until the dreadful disease has ever returned. weak and slow circulation has been quickened and the deteriorated blood made rich and strong again. Some are born with bad blood, and it begins to tell in infancy; scrofulous affections, sore eyes, scalp diseases, nasal catarrh, stunted growth, brittle bones and soft, flabby muscles are some of the early manifestations of bad blood by inheritance. These symptoms, if neglected, may develop into some deep-seated and serious blood trouble later on in life, but the timely use of S. S. S. will check the disease in its incipiency, remove all taint from the circulation, and the little sufferers grow into healthy manhood and womanhood. When the blood is healthy and pure it tells a
