WEEKLY FASHION HINTS.
The Proper Style of Skirts. A Decidedly Novel Sleeve.
This gown combines all the new features of the current mode. The Skirt has loose fronts that open over a vest embroidered with beige and a pale blue Corticelli Filo silk, similar embroidery adorning the deep pelerine collar. The skirt is decidedly novel and deserves special mention. It is cut with a point edged with a band of stitched voile and is completed with a kind of under sleeve of cream liberty silk formed into puffs with straps of beige velvet. Beige velvet ribbon in a darker shade adorns both the jacket and skirt. The latter shows the fashionable sheath effect and in addition to the velvet a trimming of straps in inverted scallops stitched with Corticelli silk.

The new skirts are fitted closely at the hips but flare very much indeed below the knees. A great many skirts with hip yokes are shown, either of shirring, tucking or tiny bands, joined with a fancy open stitch. Some very attractive skirt models in sheer materials are laid in narrow box-plaits from the waist to the knees and below that there is a prettily shaped flounce with insertions of cream lace and a garniture of narrow gathered ribbon.

RALEIGH.
New Elk's Home For Winston-Salem.
State Charters. Public Schools. Looking After Bright Tobacco. Labor Scarce in Wake County. High Prices for Food.

RALEIGH, May 4.—The State charters the Elk's Home and Auditorium Co., of Winston-Salem, capital $35,000; R. J. Reynolds and others stockholders. The object is to build an auditorium. A charter is also granted the Roberstonville High School Co., of Martin county, capital $10,000.

Another charter is granted the Tax-away Tannery Co., of Transylvania county, capital $100,000.

A Japanese named Hata was here today conferring with the commissioner of agriculture regarding North Carolina's bright tobacco. He will visit various sections. He came with an introduction from Milton Whitney of the United States Agricultural department.

In response to a question asked by your correspondent, commissioner of agriculture Patterson said he thought this State's tobacco crop this year would reach 100,000,000 pounds.

In accordance with calls for and to keep their public schools open 4 months in the year, the State today sent $1,508 to Madison county and $388 to Pamlico. Hertford is now the only county not heard from.

The plans for the new building at the Methodist Orphanage should have been in hand by February 1, but the architect makes only promises.

The delegates from this State to the Charleston Exposition on the "West Indian Days", W. S. Chadwick, W. B. Blades, B. F. Montague, G. W. Watts and W. R. Odell, are all expected to attend. There is a desire for the development of trade between the Southeastern parts and the West Indies.

The high price of various foods excites much remark. Sweet potatoes being $9 a bushel. For two small chickens 35 cents is asked. Eggs have retailed at 35 cents but are now 15¢.

The sheriff of this county says farm labor, white and black is very scarce. For two years this has been the case. The scarcity increases. He says that after last year's crop failure in this county 100 white families moved to Durham to work in cotton mills. A good deal of the labor is of poor type, declining to work regularly, and merely doing odd jobs. The sheriff says this remark applies to both white and black.

The State charters the T. R. Fowle memorial hospital at Washington, James L. Fowle and others trustees. It will receive the sick and injured and train nurses. A charter is also granted the Salem Parlor Furniture Co., of Winston-Salem, capital $100,000 F. H. Fries and others stockholders.

King Edward Said to Favor Christian Science.
Boston Herald April 31.
London, April 31, 1902.—Just when his imperial nephew was fulminating against the Christian Scientists in Germany, it appears that King Edward was manifesting especial interest in this peculiar doctrine, which is now spreading with surprising rapidity England.
Information reached me on what appeared to be good authority, several weeks ago, that his majesty had become seriously interested in Christian Science but the news was so much at variance with the King's known tastes, that it was not advisable to print it until it could be confirmed from another source. The confirmation is quite convincing.
Lord and Lady Dunmore, who were in America not long ago, in consultation with Mary Baker Eddy, the chief prophetess of this cult, are largely responsible for the King's conversion. They and the young Marchioness of Bath are the social leaders of the movement in England. They have been of late on terms of personal intimacy with the King, who, it is said, sent for Lord Dunmore, after hearing of one of that nobleman's alleged achievements in healing a fashionable sufferer whose case had baffled the College of Physicians and Surgeons.
There is no evidence that the King has attended any of the Christian Science meetings, but it is understood, that both he and Queen Alexandra are taking the treatment, and that in consequence their professional advisers are having their hands full with orders from the smart set.
This new departure has only widened the breach between the King and the ecclesiastical authorities of the Church of England, of which he is nominally the head. His geyatism and his persistent abstention from communion since he was confirmed, in the days of his youth, began the trouble, and his recent appointments of comparatively young men as bishops, over the heads of aged scholars who had been standing in line for years, increased it. His repeated determination not to partake of communion at the coronation, added to this new found interest in Christian Science, has brought about a rather serious feeling of irritation. His majesty even refused at first to be anointed, and submitted to the ancient programme only after it had been considerably modified, instead of removing his water robes, according to custom, the archbishop of Canterbury will have to apply the oil through a slit in the King's garments.
As a result, the King's orthodoxy has been called in question in unobscured terms, but a close examination of one of the most prominent Methodists in England takes a more charitable view. He said yesterday to the writer "I think we may attribute the King's refusal to take communion more to the fact that he has always abhorred long ceremonies, than to his lack of orthodoxy. The ceremony, if carried out according to custom, would consist on four knees. The King would not do this. He has always been a simple man, and he has always abhorred long ceremonies. It will now show how much it is."
