RALEIGH.

Death of Col. H. A. Dowd at Rex Hospital.

Plans for Methodist Orphanage Arrived. Meeting of the Trustees of the Blind and Deaf and Dumb Asylum Good Crops.

RALEIGH, May 13.—Col. H. A. Dowd died in Rex Hospital here last evening. During the greater part of the civil war he was the State's assistant quartermaster here. He was a native of Tarboro but had lived here some years. His body was taken to Tarboro for burial this morning.

To the great satisfaction of the trustees of the Methodist Orphanage here, who met today, the plans for the $35,000 main building arrived today, after six months delay. There will be at once a call for proposals. It is the desire to have work begin by June 1, if possible.

The trustees of the institution for the white blind and the negro deaf-mute and blind institutions met today and re-elected the officers. Superintendent John E. Ray's reelection is for 3 years. All the crops in this section except small grain look particularly well. The State Undertakers and Embalmers' Association met here today, Mr. Vogler of Salem presiding. The State convention of King's Daughters began here at noon today, Mrs. W. H. S. Burgwyn of Weldon presiding. All other circles in the State are represented.

Today the State issued eight warrants for free libraries for rural public schools, bringing the number up to 575.

Three convicts from Hyde county arrived at the penitentiary today; one to serve 19 years.

Among today's arrivals were C. M. Cooke, Louisville; O. C. Evans, Mantoloking; J. L. Lister, South Mills; W. H. Weatherly, W. H. Zolla, Elizabeth City; H. W. Simpson, New Bern. Mrs. Isabella Davis, one of the chief officers of the National convention of King's Daughters, was to have attended today's convention, but severe illness prevented her from being present.

A Rare Drug.

"The price of many drugs used in medicine is astonishing to those who are not acquainted with the subject," remarked a druggist to a Philadelphia Times representative. "There are several that are worth their weight in gold (about $20 an ounce), while $2, $3 and $5 an ounce are quite common prices in pharmacy. But there is one drug that I can recall which is worth more than its weight in gold. This is pseudo-phosphogin. I don't think that it has a popular name. It is too rich for that. In the pharmacist's list it is quoted at $1 a grain, or $457.50 an ounce. The seed from which the drug is made grows in India and Brazil, as well as in parts of South Africa. The seed, tradition says, was once used by native chiefs as an ordeal. The ordeal generally resulted in the death of the man upon whom it was tried and he was considered as a great truth finder. The prepared drug is sometimes used now in prescriptions for the treatment of heart disease."

MEAT QUESTION SETTLED.

Right Food to Take Its Place.

"The shortness of the meat supply and the high price of steak is not an unmitigated evil. On the contrary it is a probable blessing," says the Brooklyn Eagle. "If meat could be raised to a price that would make it prohibitory, it might still be of good result, because it would teach those who depend almost entirely upon it to widen their dietary and learn to enjoy many good things of which they are now ignorant. To many, especially in the cities, there are but three foods; meat, potatoes and bread. The very monotony of this program, the unsatisfied but indefinite longings for a widening of it, affect appetite and surely affect spirits and temper. "The laborer goes to his work filled with meat, potatoes and bread. At noon he finds cold meat and bread in his 'dinner-pail' and at night he is confronted by meat and potatoes, sometimes separate, sometimes combined into a greasy stew, sometimes chopped into hash. "This kind of thing fills him, but in a few hours it can hardly be said to feed him. Physicians have discovered that a limited and unchanging diet lowers vitality and health. "Such a line as this gives every one an opportunity to test the value of Grape-Nuts as a food and prove to themselves that it more than takes the place of meat and really furnishes more nourishment for the body and greater strength and vitality for the brain and nervous system. It is also an economical food that reduces the cost of living to the minimum. "Grape-Nuts are probably entitled to the claim to be the most perfectly adapted food for human needs now extant. The most enterprising and the most healthful with its crisp taste and the delicate flavor of grape sugar and the sweetest honeydew is extracted by the fact that there are fourteen portions to a 1 1/2 packages.

Decline on local long selling as weekly Government report considered favorable. R. J. Johnson & Co.

FRUITS AND FLOWERS.

A very good fertilizer for house plants is coffee grounds. It is usually best to set stakes by the side of the gladiolus plants and fill them up.

It is an advantage in gathering the fruit to have the trees with low spreading heads. Dwarf peonies and grapes are two fruits especially adapted to small places where little can be spared.

The greater portion of the roots of a grapevine grow near the surface, and for this reason the cultivation should be shallow. Fertilizers also should be applied near the surface.

The longer an orchard is kept in cultivation and crops taken off the greater becomes the necessity for liberal manuring. Apply it broadcast under trees at least as far as the branches extend.

PITH AND POINT.

How many people hate you without knowing it? You have the right to set the foot of course, but why insist upon it?

Offer an article for sale that other people want, and you will have no trouble in getting rich.

Probably no one can look up from his work and see a white horse go by and return to his duties with the same energy.
