The material for this handsome street costume is a fancy sulting, but it will also be quite chic if developed of smoot finished cloth. Some of the newest features in tailor-mades, the basque or skirt combined in this smart gown. The long rolling collar and the straps over the shoulder and around the bottom of the skirt are of moire. The revers and the extension yest are of white moire stitched with several rows of Corticelli silk; small buttons are set down the center of the vest as well as on the fronts, and clusters of buttons are placed on the shoulder straps and sleeves. The latter are oulte novel, the fitted undersleeves of moire being completed with cloth oversleeves flaring at the bottom. The skirt is laid in wide tucks and spreads out into a very full flare at the hem.

As the season advances the preference for mixed and fancy suitings becomes more and more distinct and it seems almost as if the latter would in a very short time be used entirely instead of the smooth-finished cloths; although the cloth is by far the most dressy in appear ance, it is of more compact and closes weave than the mixed sultings and homespuns, which, together with Scotch tweed and covert cloth are in the lead at
