Official Paper of New Bern and Craves County.

New Born, N. C. June 25, 1902.

DOES IT PRESAGE DEMOCRATIC SUCCESS?

If the dispatches report correctly, there is on foot the most important national Democratic party movement. This movement is the union of, the David Bennett Hill and the Grover Cleveland followers, with the purpos of getting control of the Democratic State Convention of New York. With the control of the New York State Democracy, the fight will be made with the Republicans for the political control of New York State.

The importance of the success of this movement, cannot be lightly estimated In its effect upon the National Democratic party, throughout the country. Political success for the Democratic party in the great State of New York, means a change in the National scope of the Democratic party, an adjustment of not merely party differences, but also an alignment of the party to meet the issues of today, upon a sound and practical platform, which will appeal fully as strongly to the country and its voters, on account of its common sense, as upon any party sentiment that might be employed to arouse the voters.

This movement also clearly indicates that those Democrats who have given their efforts and brought success to the Democratic party during the last twenty years, are again aroused, and do not propose, if they can help it, to let the Democratic party follow along lines that mean for it, defeat, in State and

There is character and strength in this movement, with such leaders as Hill and Cleveland, which cannot but have a good effect upon Democrats throughout the country, and it also indicates a desire to throw aside individual likes and dislikes which have existed among New York Democrats and to cooperate for the success of Democracy in place of

The poet put his head out of the window of his garret and, espy-ing a carriage encorted by gendarmes, concluded that the boldness of his re-marks with regard to a universal peace had been budly received by the em-peror and that they had come to arrest him. Prompted by his fear, Dubols considered it must predent to hide undered it most prudent to hide unher his bed. The poet was got out and was sent to Elba as com general of police. It was some time re Fouche and Pauline met, and the princess had difficulty in remembering "Does not your highness recollect a letter sent to me about three months ago, most pressingly recom-mending a M. Dubois, a man of letters, in whom your highness took the greatest interest?" "One moment." ald the princess, and then a smile overspread her beautiful features. "My protege, M. le Duc, was a poor poet, a relative of one of my maids, who sent me an ode. What have you done with him? Have you given him a stool in one of your departments?" The minister, nettled at having been duped in that way, took particular care to suppress the fact of his having made a grand functionary of Dubois. Unfortunately Fouche's friends at court got wind of the thing, and there was an end of the secret. Napoleon himself was vastly amused at it and ban tered his minister.
