NOW FOR MORE BUSINESS!

The Fall months are here, the summ with its heat and desire for rest and case has passed, and it should be the desire and purpose of every merchant, every business man, and every citizen, to wake up and do everything possible to increase, each his own business, and that of this city, generally, for with the proper individual effort, not only is individual benefit gained, but community

The greatly increased tobacco receipts, are already being felt, in their stimulating effect on local trade.

Cotton has commenced to be marketed as yet but slowly, but it will soon be arriving in quantity to be appreciably felt, and the local trade will be greatly increased through the sales of cotton during the next few months.

These are but two products, but with good crops of other kinds, the local trade outlook is most promising, and it can be greatly increased if each and every citizen will assist by word and effort, to encourage the marketing of products in this city, by proving to the outsider and the farmer the advantages of the local market.

The time to promote and increase Fall and Winter business and trade in New Bern, is now!

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive care now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment, Hall's Catarrh Cure is inken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foun-dation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one Hundred Dollars for any case that it falls to cure. Send for list of tea-

THE HUMAN STOMACH.

How It Is Overworked by Three Sig Daily Meals.

It requires about five hours for the stomach to work on an ordinary meal and pass it out of fracil, when it falls into a state of repose; hence if a man eats three times a day his stomach must work fifteen hours out of twentyfour. After a night's sleep we wake up with a certain amount of bodily vigor which is faithfully portioned out to every muscle of the system and every set of muscles, each its rightful share, the stomach among others.
When the external body gets weary, after a long day's work, the stomach bears its share of the fatigue, but if bears its share of the fatigue, but if pulses the body is weary with the day's tell we put it to bed, giving the stomach meanwhile a sye hours' task which must be performed, we impose upon theoryey, best friend we have—the months gives us one of the largest amounts of earthly enjoyment—and if this overtaning is continued it must as certainly wear out prematurely, as the body itself will it it is overworked every, day.

And if parsons at between meals them the stomach has so rest from breakfast in the morning until 1, 2, 3 and 6 o'clock next day; hence it is that so many persons have dyspepsis. The stomach is so critical to the stomach is so much and so constantly, ghat it becomes too year to grant at all.

ENTIRELY TOO, CLEVER.

an old patient who was atraid she was taking scarlet fover. I responded at once. The patient was one of two elderly sisters whom I had attended for many years. I greated her in the atting room and noted her pulse while in the act of shaking hands with her. By some witty remark I contrived to make her laugh, which enabled me to see her tongue. Then I said in a play-tuittone: 'If you will get me a glass I will treat you to some of my patent sods water.' She did so. I put a tablet in the water and she drank it. let in the water and she drank it.

"I want you to know that I take pride in my original methods. Litry to educate my patients to like, and not to dread, the visits of the doctor. In this case all of my work had been done without the direct knowledge of the patient and I felt very good over it. So I bade my patient goodby with ex-

'Why,' she 'Give het my respects,' 'Why,' she said, looking mystified and startled, how strangely you talk! 'Strangely?' I echoed. 'Why?' Because I sent for you to prescribe for my sister and you decline to see her.' It flashed over my mind in an instant. I had pre-scribed for the wrong sister. I was tirely too clever."

Beware of the Knife.

No profession has advanced more ra-pidly of late than surgery, but it should not be used except where absolutely necessary. In cases of piles for example, it seldom needed. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures quickly and permamently Unequalled for cuts, burns, bruises, wounds, skin diseases. Accept no counterfeits. "I was so troubled with eleeding piles that I lost much blood and strength," says, J. C. Phillips, Paris, Ill. "Bewitt's Witch Hazel cured me in a short time," Soothes and heals. F. S. Duffy.

Onick Justice at Ascot.

Not only the horses, but the powers of the law, says the London Chronicle, are swift at Ascot, for the course has a special tribunal for the punishment of evildoers. No sooner is the pick pocket, weisher or ticket snatcher ar-rested than he is standing in a little room in the royal stand, where the evidence is heard and the verdict and sentence pronounced before the offend-er fully realises that he is caught. Nowhere else does punishment so swiftly follow crime as at this court, which is decreed by clause 31 of the indictable offenses act of 1848.

This race course tribunal arose curiously in the eighteenth century from an assault upon a royal personage. In his indignation at the impossibility of instant punishment of the assailant he ordered that in future a magistrate should always attend the royal race meeting. This has ever since been done, and by the above mentioned act the chief magistrate of Bow street was constituted ex officio a justice of the peace of the county of Berks in order to enable him to hold this court at

Encourage the Happiness Habit. The art of laughter should surely be cultivated—in fact, all and everything that leads to joy. The wish to be happy, the love of gladness and beauty, in I am sure, a thing to be desired Consequently it is worth a little culti-vation. Play is as essential a factor tell us that no man lives his own life until he plays. Work comes from the exigencies of life, from the "musts" of this world, which often push a man along very different paths from those he would choose to travel by, fromlinclination or capacity. Play is, however, his recreation, and here at his letsure time comes out his whole soul, his power of and choice of play, his greater or lesser necessity for it, to requeste mind and body from the strain of daily work.—Chaperone.

An amusing story is told of the crowning of a rose queen of a country, district near Paris. The selected queen, as one of the formalities of awarding their dower, was asked by awarding their dower, was asked by, the mayor for the name of her finnce. "I have none," she replied. Notified that a sweetheart was indispensable, the young lady added timidly, "I thought the municipality provided overything necessary." Straightway, a young swain presented himself as an aspirant, and, being as promptly secupted, all things became regular and in order.

"Golden Medical Discovery" also increases the activity of the blood-making glands, thus increasing the supply of pure blood, rich in the red corpuscies of health.

"It gives me much pleasure to testify to the undidly that it is the grandest modicine ever ounded for purifying the blood. Where Smoking Is a Sin. Palgrave, in his interesting book describing his journey to the sacred city of Mecca, gives an amusing account of his conversation with a mollah.

On asking the reverend gentleman which he considered the most deadly of all sins the holy man replied: "Smoking the shameful."

"And next, O son of the prophet?" "Are these the two greatest sins, father?"

"Verily, my son." "And murder?"
"Ah, that's nothing-nothing. It's forgivable. "And stealing?"

"Ah, that's forgivable too." "But smoking?" "It is the unforgivable crime," replied the mollah sternly and looking keenly at the fictitious Mohammedan.

who was very intimate with Miss Anderson and her family, insisted upon derson and her family, insisted upon assuming the part of one of the supers, who was dressed as a very old man with a venerable beard and locks that fell upon his shoulders. When Black went upon the stage in this disguise, he walked about among his fellow supers with uncersing restlesspess and, judging by the wild motion of his arms, seemed to be addressing to each arms, seemed to be addressing to each in turn an impressioned harangue. The audience began to wonder who the new actor was and what on earth he was doing in a play in which neither Shakespeare nor the stage managers ever intended him to appear. Presently came the time when it was the business of Perdita to distribute flowers among the peasants, among whom Black had his place. Miss Anderson, carrying on the practical jokes of the family circle, had prepared a surprise for this moment, and, having distributed flowers among the less fa-vored supers, she handed to Black a large cake crowned with a wreath of laurel, saying as she did so, "You take it," in allusion to his triumphs in the intests of wits at the supper table. To her consternation, Black showed that he was quite prepared to carry, out the jest, for, taking the cake from the hands of Perdita, he immediately distributed it in substantial portions to his hungry fellow supers, who, finding it to be of excellent quality, began to nunch it greedily under the eyes of the house.-Exchange.

Take Care of the Stomach.

The man or woman whose digestion s perfect and whose stomach performs ts every function is never sick. Kodo cleanses, purifies and sweetens the stomach and cures positively and permanently all stomach troubles, indigestion and dyspepsia. It is the wonderful reconstructive tonic that is making so many sick people well and weak people strong by conveying to their bodies all of the nourishment in the food they est. Rev. J. H. Holladay, of Holladay, Miss., writes: Kodol has cured me. I consider it the best remedy I ever used for dyspensia and atomach troubles. I was given up by physicians. Kodol saved my life. The Butcher Bird's Larder. It is possible that the butcher bird's 'curious and cruel habit" of impaling various creatures upon hedge thorn is his way of supporting his wife during her period of seclusion. Of many species the female is fed by the male on the nest, but the butcher bird's prey consists often of creatures which are too large to be caten at a mouthful. Even if the male could always drag these carcasses to the nest it is obvious that the female could not eat them there; so the "larder" may have been hit upon as a happy device to get over the difficulty, the female flitting thither to help herself whenever she is hungry.-Country Life.

A Boy's Wild Ride For Life.

With family around expecting him to die, and a son riding for life, 18 miles, to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, W. H. Brown of Leesvill, Ind , endured death's agonies from asthma, but this wonder ful medicine gave instant relief and soon cured him. He writes: "I now sleen soundly every night." Like marvelous cures of Consumption, Pneumonia, Rev. U. J. Budleng, of Ashaway, B. I., Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and Grip prove its matchless merit for all Throat and Lung troubles. > The Man With the Fiddle, The little old man fiddled very hard as he stood near the curbstone in Twenty-third street. The passersby looked at him curiously. Some of them smiled. No one gave him a penny Presently he was seen to totter and then to fall, but he kept on fiddling just the same, even when he lay pronupon his back. A man helped him to his feet. He never missed a note. A little boy who had been regarding him with keen interest went up to him. Suddenly the bow hung polsed and motionless. The little old man had run down. The boy bought him for a marter, however. The yender showed him how to start the fiddle up again and the two went off together, happy and contented.-New York Press.

tortured by an eating and painful sore. It is truly discouraging to find after months of diligent and faithful use of external remedies that the place remains as defant, angry and offensive as ever. Every chronic sore, no matter on what part of the body it comes, is an evidence of some previous constitutional or organic trouble, and that the dregs of these diseases remain in the system; or, it may be that some long hidden poison—perhaps Canes has come to the surface and begun its destructive work.

The blood must be purified before the sore will fill up with healthy flesh and the skin regains its natural color. It is through the circulation that the acid, corroding finids are carried to the sore or ulcer and keep it irritated and inflamed. S. S. S. will purify and invigorate the sugment blood when all sediment or other hurful materials are washed out, fresh rich blood is carried to the diseased patts, new tissues form, and the decaying flesh begins to have a healthy and natural look; the discharge ceases and the sore heals.
