Typhoid Fever—Rules For Its Prevention.
Typhoid Fever is present in seventy-five of the ninety counties reporting for July. It is therefore widely prevalent in our State. It is a communicable disease, spreading from one case to another, though generally in a roundabout fashion. Its extension can be prevented by the careful observance of certain simple rules. For the information of the people we give these rules, preceded by a statement of the reasons upon which they are based. If read and heeded by even a few some lives would be saved and much sickness would be prevented. Read them and tell about them.
The active agency in the causation of typhoid fever is a bacterium, the bacillus typhosus, which attacks and causes the ulceration of certain glands in the small intestine, developing therein by myriads. They are therefore to be found chiefly in the bowel discharges, although present also in the excretion of the kidneys and to some extent in the expectoration of a person sick with the disease. From one of these sources, nearly always the first named, the bacteria are transferred to the intestinal tract of a healthy person. The poison is always swallowed. The most common agencies of transfer are the drinking water, including milk infected from washing cans in polluted water, and the common house fly, although it may be conveyed directly to the nose by her own soiled hands, and sometimes in dust. The most important rules therefore for the prevention of the extension of the disease may be briefly stated as follows:
1. Cover immediately upon their passage the body discharges—to prevent access of flies.
2. As soon as possible thorough y disinfect the discharges by mixing in equal quantity with them one of the following (a) freshly made milk of lime or "white-wash" (unsalted lime); (b) a five per cent. solution of carbolic acid; (c) a 1 to 1,000 solution of corrosive sublimate; (d) a 1 per cent. solution of formaldehyde. After standing a half-hour (covered all the time) the mixture should be buried (never thrown on the surface of the ground) at a distance from the well of not less than 150 feet.
3. Provide in the sick-room a wooden tub one-third full of either of the three last named solutions, and drop therein as soon as removed everything in the way of body or bed-clothing, handkerchiefs, towels, etc., that have come in contact with the patient, and keep them submerged until they can be boiled, washed and dried in the sun.
4. All remnants of food that may for any reason be carried into the sick-room must be burned.
5. The nurse should wash her hands and dip them into one of the solutions, preferably corrosive sublimate, after every "changing" of the patient. She should never draw water from the family well unless a pump is used. In case it should be absolutely necessary she should disinfect her hands as above before doing so.
6. The soiled linen of the patient should never be washed at or near the well or spring. The greatest care should be observed, to prevent drainage or seepage through the soil into the well or spring from accumulation of filth of all kinds. As soon as a case of typhoid fever appears in a family all drinking water should be boiled until a report on the same can be obtained from the State Biologist, the family physician, making special care as to the drinking water; scrupulous cleanliness.
7. As the germ is present in the intestines in the preliminary stages and for several weeks after convalescence it is established and the patient, especially well, extra care of surface privies should be observed. Every evacuation should be immediately and completely covered with lime or dry powdered earth.
Summary—Prompt disinfection of all discharges from the body of the patient; protection of the same against flies; special care as to the drinking water; scrupulous cleanliness.
To the Profession—As the people cannot be reached except through the medical attendant we earnestly beg all physicians having cases of typhoid fever under their care to insist upon the strict observance of the above simple rules. Printed copies of the same will be furnished in quantity upon request.—State Bulletin Health.

PREACHER'S CHILDREN Same as Others.
The wife of a prominent divine tried the food cure with her little daughter. She says, "I feel sure that our experience with Grape-Nuts food would be useful to many mothers. Our little daughter, eight years old, was subject to bowel trouble which we did not then understand and which the doctor's prescriptions failed to cure.
We had been using different cereals for breakfast, and finally becoming discouraged I said, "I will try an experiment, I will give our little girl Grape-Nuts for breakfast." The three children all liked it better than any thing else and are so fond of it that I hardly let them have all they want. In a short time I could see an improvement in the bowel trouble.
We began using Grape-Nuts five months ago and now not only has the bowel trouble disappeared but the child has grown so plump and well—in fact was never so healthy before—that all our friends notice and remark about it. We think we have an ideal breakfast which consists of whole wheat bread with butter, Postum Cereal Coffee and Grape-Nuts. This is all we care for and I think it would be hard to find many families so invariably healthy as is ours." Name given by the Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

INDEPENDENT GROWTH

Causing Concern Among Democratic Leaders.

Income Tax Matter. Electric Lights Removed From Confederate Monument. Students Arriving. State Fair. Loss From Drought.

RALPH, September 2.—The greater part of the talk among Democrats now is regarding the independent movement. Most of them minimize, but others recognize it as a very unfavorable sign. A gentleman from Halifax says it is worse there than is admitted. Of course the promoters of this movement are delighted. They base their hopes also upon the independent convention or mass meeting for this county (Wake) which is to be held here next Saturday. The Republicans also have their eyes upon the movement. Some of their leaders admit that this is their hope—to divide the white vote and let the negro stay outside the lines.

The need for rain is certainly as great now in most of North Carolina as at any time during the year; perhaps greater. This is saying a great deal, but the best farmers hold this view. It is really a critical position. The loss to farmers by the drought and the cold nights during the last half of August reaches far into the millions.
The State tax commission today took up the matter of the listing of income tax in this county. It is said that the same course will be pursued in various other counties, in each case the tax-listers being summoned with their books. The hearing today was the first of the kind ever held, and was of particular interest because it brought up the question whether the salaries of federal officials are liable to this income tax.
The tax listers for Raleigh township cited to appear before the commission did so. E. J. Best appeared as attorney for Judge Funnell and other Federal officers. He argued Funnell was exempt from the income tax under article 8 of the constitution of the United States, which says the salary of a United States Judge shall not be diminished during his term of office. He further took ground, that this applied to all Federal office holders.
The commission this evening decided that any and all persons are liable for tax on incomes in excess of a thousand dollars, except such as are derived from property taxed, this including Judge Funnell and all other Federal officials.
The unsightly electric lamps which since 1900 have stood at the base of the Confederate monument in capitol square were today removed. They were never lighted and the rust of the iron was fast staining the fine granite of the base of the monument.
Yesterday and today students poured in here, to attend the female colleges and the Agricultural and Mechanical College. About 900 have so far arrived. All the colleges are full. Last term was a very prosperous one and the one now beginning is up to that high mark.
The work of preparation for the State Fair here in October is very active. All the indications are for the best fair ever held. The financial success during the past three years has put the Fair on a high plane. It will be a "clean" show this year. The outcry against last year's gross indecencies on the "Midway" has had the happiest effect, and the show people who gave those miserable performances are to be vigorously excluded from the grounds.
The State has so far this year chartered nine new cotton mills, which is regarded as a good record.

Commissioner's Sale.

NORTH CAROLINA, Superior Court.
JOSEPH L. HARRIS, vs. WILLIAM HARRIS.
By virtue of a judgment rendered at the January term, 1901, of the Superior Court of Craven county, N. C., in the above entitled action, wherein the undersigned was only appointed commissioner to make sale of the land hereinafter described, I shall expose for sale and sell to the highest bidder for cash, at the court house door of said Craven county, on Monday the 6th day of October, A. D., 1905, at the hour of 12 o'clock P. M., the following described real estate, to-wit: A certain lot or parcel of land situated in the city of New Bern, in said state and county, on the east side of Scott's Alley and known and distinguished in the plan of the estate of J. William Scott, deceased, made by Henry A. Brown, surveyor, as lot No. 112, containing 20 feet 14 inches front on Scott's Alley by 100 feet 8 inches deep, bounded on the north by lot No. 122, on the east by lot No. 110, on the south by lot No. 121 on the west by Scott's Alley, more fully described in the deed from George E. Fisher and wife to said William Harris, recorded in the office of register of deeds for said county, in book No. 118, folio 50, to which reference is made.
This 2d day of September, A. D., 1905.

Weekly Crop Bulletin.

For week ending Monday, September 1, 1905.
Except in a few western counties where beneficial showers occurred on the 28th and 29th, the past week was extremely dry throughout the greater portion of the State; at most places, indeed, hardly more than "traces" of rain occurred. The mean temperature was about normal, with warm days and rather cool nights. The amount of sunshine was abundant, and the weather very agreeable, but showers are much needed for all late crops, especially corn, peas, potatoes, late cabbages, clover and turnips. Excellent progress in pulling fodder, curing tobacco, picking cotton and haying was made under the very favorable conditions that prevailed for farm work. The ground is now so dry and hard that fall plowing and preparations for winter wheat and oats are backward.
Dry weather has caused the growth of cotton to cease, and top bolls are not forming; some fields look as brown as they usually do in October. Cotton is opening very fast, and is said to be nearly half open, but the absence of very high maximum temperatures has prevented much premature opening; complaints of rust and shedding continue and some correspondents report short crops on account of the small size of the bolls. Picking is progressing, but is behind on account of rapid opening and scarcity of labor. Late corn continues to do well and in many sections will be the best crop gathered. Pulling fodder continues actively. Tobacco is ripening in northwestern counties; while the crop planted was short, the yield has been above the average in quality. Digging sweet potatoes and peanuts has commenced and also cutting rice with favorable prospects for these crops. Peas vines promise a large yield of hay but are not fruiting heavily. Crimson clover and late seeded turnips have not come up on account of drought.
