AROUND AND ABOUT.

Fair weather is the forecast for today.

Cotton sold in the local market yesterday at $8.40.

Seats for "Reaping the Harvest" will be on sale at Waters' street this morning.

Mr. L. C. Tolson who has been with the National Bank, has accepted a position with the Blades Lumber Co. in this city.

The boats from down the river bring in a lot of onions now and then, enough to about supply the home market. Seventy-five cents the bushel is the actual price asked dealers.

With one exception all the members of this year's graduating class of the graded school are attending college.

SCHOOL BEGAN YESTERDAY.

When All Have Entered There Will Probably be More Than 500 Pupils.

Yesterday was the first day of school at the graded school and the attendance was very gratifying—rather unexpected for the beginning.

The number enrolled yesterday was 448, all of them having been pupils of the school before.

Today new pupils will be admitted. A large number of applications for instruction have been received, and it is expected that when the school gets fairly adjusted it will fully be up, and will possibly surpass any previous year in point of attendance.

Three new teachers are in the school. Mrs. Reaney of Martinsville, Va., will have charge of the English work of the three highest grades; Miss Etta Nunn of this city is teacher of the fifth grade, and Miss Pace, of Wilson teacher in the third grade. The other teachers remain as they were last year.

The colored schools began with the large attendance of 490 students. The pupils are under the competent instruction of Prof. W. G. Avant.

Craven Club, Tonight. There will be a business meeting of the members at the Craven Club tonight at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of members is desired.

Children of the Confederacy. The Children of the Confederacy will meet Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. F. O. Roberts, on Pollock street. A full attendance is desired.

Death of Mrs. Thompson. Died, in this city, on Wednesday, October 1st, at her home on Pollock street, Mary F., aged 64 years, wife of Capt. Augustus C. Thompson.

Mr. Thompson had been an invalid and sufferer for years, yet was patient through it all. She leaves a loving husband, who has the sympathy of this community in his bereavement.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the residence 84 Pollock street.

Democratic Address. Hon. R. B. Glenn addressed the people of New Bern, at the Court House Wednesday night, on the issues of the day.

Owing to the attraction at the Opera House only a comparatively small audience was present. About one hundred and fifty persons.

Mr. Glenn was in his usual good shape and made a very strong and forcible address which was received by the audience with unusually strict attention.

His comparison of Democratic and Republican administrations of State affairs was strongly drawn, and seemed to be an answerable plea for the success of Democracy.

Frequent applause showed that the audience was in full sympathy with his argument, and the tribute to Senator Vance, met with a feeling response from every one present.

Won't Be Crushed. To the Editor of the Daily Journal. Dear Sir: I sent you a poem last week and asked you to publish it in your paper. You declined and returned it to me with the crushing reply that I was no poet, and that you could turn out better poetry out of a sausage machine. Now I won't be crushed, and I propose to show up your attempt to throttle bubbling genius. Publish this card and the following poem in your columns and charge me at your advertising rates.

Yours, JAMES METCALF RILEY.

THE POEM. I stood upon the ocean's sandy beach, And with a reed I wrote upon the sand these words:

"Agnes, I love thee!" But the waves came and the waves rolled mountains high, And blotted out the fair impression. Cruel waves, treacherous sand, fragile reed,

No longer will I trust to thee. But from the highest mountain peak I'll pluck the tallest pine. And, dipped in the crater of Vesuvius, with it I will write Upon the high and burnished heavens these words:

"A Who You said!" is drawing the largest audience ever known, And giving an entertainment that will take your breath away. And I would like to see any dog-gone wagon wash that out.

Many Returns. "Are your own literary efforts productive of returns?" asked the interested visitor. "Oh, yes indeed," replied the proud mother. "Scarcely a day passes that something does not come back."—Indianapolis News.

Too Much Risk. "That boy next door said he'd bet he could lick me with his hand tied behind his back." "You mean you bet him up?" "Now, I didn't. He said he'd have to do the tying."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

An Anecdote. "Oh, my!" exclaimed the pretty typewriter. "I'm afraid I'm a wretched speller." "Ah, no!" sighed her sponsored employer. "You are mistress of all sorts of spelling."—Ohio State Journal.

Mr. Teacher. Brown—"What was Jones kicking about? You'd think he never got what he wanted." Smith—"It's worse than that. He says he never got even what he doesn't want."—Detroit Free Press.

MILLINERY OPENING.

Elaborate and Beautiful Displays of Fall Bonnets.

The Fall opening at the Bee Hive was one rare beauty. In addition to a fine display of the latest styles of ladies hats in rich and varying styles was the beautiful draperies in the store.

A person could almost imagine herself in a Turkish bazaar, so deftly and artistically were the rugs, curtains and blankets arranged. All the prosaic affairs of the ordinary dry goods store were concealed and palms and ferns added immensely to the beauty of the scene.

Some of the rugs displayed were of beautiful design and of the very best material and workmanship. The blankets were of rare design, many of them pretty and were woven by Indians.

The whole store was a sample of Mr. J. A. Patterson's decorative art and a splendid success he made of it.

For Ladies Inspection. We welcome October! the month when lavish nature with unstained hands paints the forest in gorgeous colors, and decks the fields in golden red; and with insinuating mildness of Indian summer would deceive the unwary into believing that the time of wintry winds, and icy blasts is unreal, and remote, and would tempt the negligent to delay the many necessary purchases that mean so much to the comfort of the home, and well being of the family.

No so the Simmons & Hollowell Co. with their usual promptness and characteristic foresight they have studied the needs of their patrons, and have procured exceptional values in their various departments.

The housekeeper cannot fail to be pleased with the handsome draperies, table linens, towels blankets and comfortables, while their selection of black skirts and dress goods, waist patterns, has never been surpassed.

Those who are artistically inclined will find in the stamped linens and tinted pillow tops with silk to match most congenial employment for the long winter evening.

The millinery department was aglow with burnt orange and golden red and was thronged as usual with animated visitors.

The hats were the recipient of feminine favor, and many coonlets were passed upon the combinations of fur, feathers and lace.

One especially pretty was castor velvet embroidered in chenille, another composed entirely of black plaid half inch taffeta ruffles. Black and white braided felt was unique, while an all feather turban had many admirers.

Ping Pong has become such a craze, it has invaded the realm of millinery, and claims one style all its own, and a pretty style it is too in black moire, plumes and chiffon.

One feature of opening day of this enterprising firm, and in this they are exclusive, is the gift of some little novelty to each visitor as a souvenir. On yesterday an after dinner coffee spoon, with pretty design of Electricity Building, Buffalo Exposition, was very much appreciated by pleased patrons.

Another Landmark Gone. The old well on South Front street will now become a memory, its reality and usefulness gone forever.

Situated as it was, on one of the city's busiest thoroughfares, it was ever a drinking place, for man and beast. Warriors and statesmen have cooled their brows and slaked their thirsts from its limpid flow, and for years, threefold to the memory of man to recall, it has freely given up its water to the necessities, and delights of the rich and poor, high and low alike, but now its waters are stilled.

The well was one of the old time surface wells, and for some time it has been feared that it had become contaminated and lately the water assumed a dirty, greasy appearance, which was sufficient to condemn it for drinking purposes.

The city hands late yesterday evening removed the pump and top curbing and with a few loads of dirt, in a little while demolished and obliterated this old and well known landmark.

The authorities will cause to be erected at an early date, a large fountain at the corner of South Front and Middle streets, which will perhaps in the course of time be as useful and popular as the old well, and a good deal safer for one's health.

The Runaway Match. The "Runaway Match" gave a large audience some sore sides last night. There never has been a more roaring farce on the local stage, nor one that was more highly enjoyed.

Without commending the plot we can honestly say that the actors are surely "onto their job," and produce a comedy that is worth going miles to see. It is a clean comedy with the most ludicrous situations imaginable. There were good specialties introduced.

SILENCE ALMOST ELOQUENT.

If nothing to say, say nothing.

Nothing is more common than for those to bore their companions with their history, who have neither done nor suffered anything that can excite curiosity or afford instruction.

Upon the same principal "dogs delight to bark and bite, for 'tis their nature to." Many advertisers are afflicted with a like complaint. They bore the public with press announcements of every day occurrence, few, if any, of which are worth printing, being mere inventories of goods and prices. Not so with ours. No ordinary things is counted there. Only the uncommon, the extraordinary are deemed worthy of mention.

We are showing today A Soft, Fleecy, Pure Wool Robe weighing about 4 lbs. That's the Pendleton Indian Robe, the colorings are unique, the lines being of the alberta type. Price 30c.

The magazines are dwelling at great length on the novelty and art of Indian corners and room ornamentation.
