GUARDING FOREST LANDS.

The government method employed of policing its forest reserves has proven a perfect success, so much so that timber depredations have about ceased.

The annual report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, shows that the public land disposed of by the Government during the year aggregated 19,488,535 acres, an increase of 3,925,730 acres over the previous year.

On October 1 last there were 54 forest reserves, embracing 60,176,765 acres, an increase of almost 14,000,000 acres since the last report. During the fiscal year there were 1668 forest fires discovered, which burned over 87,790 acres.

The constantly decreasing area burned over is said to demonstrate the efficiency of the Government forestry force. The Commissioner says that the withdrawal of the Government during the year has shown that the work has proved self-supporting and has brought in a revenue to the Government. Needed timber supplies have been placed within lawful reach of the public, and timber depredations within the reserve limits have practically ceased.

The government is also at work in reforestation of the denuded tracts, in the forest reserves, and these tracts are being carefully guarded, so that they may not be damaged by fires or stock grazing.

This work is showing for itself in the reproducing of the native trees, and many waste tracts are becoming covered with trees.

He Can't do the Car.

"I'll catch that street-car," he snaps, "for die!" Faster goes the street car; faster goes the man. He overturns fruit stands and aged blind men in his wild career; he knocks down children and tramples upon them, but onward he rushes; he collides with a baby carriage. The baby is knocked into the street. The mother of the child picks it up. She points a finger at the disappearing form of the man. "Murderer!" she hisses; through her clenched teeth. He draws nearer to the car; nearer yet. He reaches out his hand. He touches the rail on the rear platform. He gives one last convulsive effort. He is on the car. He sinks breathless into a seat and mops his brow. The conductor touches him on the shoulder. "Get off here!" he says. "We're agoin' to the barn! No more cars to-night!" - Chicago Tribune.
