"I am pleased to give my experience with Wine of Cardui as I am very grateful for its help. After my first baby was born I could not seem to regain my strength, although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband came home one evening with some Wine of Cardui and insisted that I take it for a week and see what it would do for me. As he seemed to have so much faith in it I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise."

Wine of Cardui, in re-inforcing the organs of generation, has made mothers healthy and able to pass through pregnancy and childbirth with little suffering. After the ordeal is passed the Wine prepares a woman for a speedy recovery to health and vigor.

The Farmers & Merchants BANK.

Capital, Surplus and Profits $100,000.00

APRIL 30th, 1901.

What We Have Done, Do, and Will Continue to Do.

This Bank conducts its business upon "up-to-now" methods. It is our purpose to deal justly and liberally with all.

We carefully safeguard the interests of our customers. Moreover, we frequently do it unknown to them; as opportunities often come to us in confidential ways, and you cannot over-estimate such considerations.

We are not disposed to overlook the fact that the interests of the Bank and those of the people are closely bound together, and cannot by any means be separated.

This Bank acts as a repository for wills, and safely keeps them till the proper time of surrender. Will also act as the custodian of money or papers left with us in escrow. No charge for these services.

We procure Letters of Credit for traveling travelers.

We aim to be prompt, progressive and liberal.

In the matter of accommodations, this Bank meets every requirement within the limits of prudent banking.

If you have never been identified with us as a patron, we ask you to consider the advisability of becoming one.

In the early future, we propose adding a novel, yet substantial Savings Bank feature to our already progressive facilities.

In the average wages paid to employees the industry that stands highest among the large undertakings is that of smelting and refining, says Mahlin's Magazine. Here the average for the 24,500 workers is $652 per worker.

The report covering coffee and tea importations for the last fiscal year indicates what was shown by the report for the year before—namely, that the American is becoming the great coffee-drinking nation of the world.

Germany has a new university, Munster, in Westphalia, which now has the complete number of faculties. For many years Munster was called an "academy," as it had only a double theological faculty, Catholic and Protestant, and a philosophical faculty.

The strait of Canso, between Cape Breton and the mainland of Nova Scotia, is to be bridged. The task is an immense one, involving great engineering difficulties, and the outlay is about $5,000,000. The bridge will be a cantilever, with a span of 1,800 feet, the longest in the world.

While in New York Prince Henry saw and admired a keyless clock which was in course of manufacture. It was the first timepiece of its kind. The prince ordered one, which he will present to his brother, the Kaiser. It will run continuously for a year without the change of battery.

Police pensions in Chicago have been cut down 20 per cent in compliance with the law which provides that they shall be scaled if necessary to meet the condition of the fund. The pensioned widows of policemen are much distressed over the cut, many of them having large families to support.

Shad were very scarce in Connecticut waters this summer, but appeared in large numbers in the Ohio river, a profitable catch having been made within five miles of Cincinnati. Before 1870 shad were never caught in that river. The first one taken in that year was considered such a curiosity that it was sent to the Smithsonian institution.

An English physician who has been making a study of diseases in Alaska reports that cerebro spinal meningitis is very prevalent, scurvy is widespread, rheumatism is frequent, pneumonia is almost unknown, strange to say, and insanity is by no means rare. His report indicates that a vigorous physique is required to resist the Alaskan climate.

A research steamer belonging to the Norwegian government recently carried on in the North sea some experimental fishings which yielded important results. In three days 117 halibut and 300 large cod were caught at a depth of 200 fathoms, thus proving the existence of large quantities of these fishes at a time of the year when they are not to be found on the coast of Norway.

The Botanical Gazette states that the magazine known as "Contributions to the United States National Herbarium" has been transferred from the department of agriculture to the National museum, with an increased appropriation of $7,000, thus enabling the museum to hire an editorial assistant and an artist god to reproduce certain valuable numbers that have long been out of print.

The skull of a prehistoric man was dug up on a farm near Lansing, Kan., some weeks ago, upon well defined strata of earth and rock. The scientist who has examined it are of the opinion that the man to whom it belonged lived during the glacial period, probably 35,000 years ago. If this is so, the "Lansing skull," as it has been named, furnishes the first tangible proof of the existence of prehistoric man in America, though such remains have been found in various places in Europe.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

An Inspector of Dishcloths.

In this age of temperance, health and various other officers it may seem presumptuous to suggest that we need a new one.

Did you ever look for your dishcloth on a hot summer day and find it a hot, muffled lump? Perhaps you have not, but there are dozens of people who have. I have compared notes with them, and this is my reason for suggesting an inspector to go from house to house, seeing to it that this important article is not neglected.

I think one reason for carelessness in the fact that we use "any old thing" for a dishcloth, thinking that it can be burned up when badly soiled. A good way to avoid this is to have squares of coarsely woven toweling, neatly hemmed, then have it understood that these are to be washed and scalded carefully after each dishwashing and hung where they will dry sweet and clean. Crumpled squares will clean your stove and the bottom of vessels when they are blacked, so the cloths need never get beyond redemption until completely worn out.

If this warning seems useless to the older housekeepers, please think that it was meant for those who have not yet had the time to acquire the knowledge that you have gained by your long years of experience.—Lulu Linton in Ladies' World.

Cuban Chicken.

Cut up chicken as for a fricassee. Dry each piece and dip in beaten egg and roll in cracker dust, season with pepper and salt and fry each piece very brown in half butter and half lard. When browned, add cup of hot water, cover and simmer half an hour. Then take out chicken and put on plate in warming oven. Have ready a bowl of rice cooked in the following manner: One cupful of rice washed in several waters, the more the better. When well washed, pour over it two quarts of hissing hot water, add a teaspoonful of pure sweet lard and two teaspoonfuls of salt. Let it boil rapidly for fifteen minutes or until tender; some rice takes a few minutes longer. Stir but once, and when perfectly tender drain at once through a coarse sieve, put into the frying pan which the liquid chicken has simmered in, add two tomatoes (canned or fresh) chopped fine and a chili pepper, also chopped fine. Toss all together lightly with a fork. Pile in the center of platter and lay around it the pieces of fried chicken. Garnish with parsley.—Fried Chicken, New York.

Hints About Lamps.

Lamps are generally supposed to spell danger, and as we are not all able to afford the massive standard lamps in our rooms here are a few hints which insure safety in the use of cheaper lamps.

A table stand for a round bottom lamp can be boxlike in shape, the exact depth of the lamp, which is slipped in a hole through the top cut the size of its greatest width. This stand can be stained or decorated as desired, and if wished the sides can be arched or cut into fretwork.

An easily made stand for a passage lamp has a straight wooden back and slanting sides. It hangs from copper rings fixed in the back or has plain holes bored. In this stand the lamp also fits through a hole in the bottom.

By using these easily made stands all danger of upsetting the lamp is done away with, and a lamp that has lost its pristine freshness, so to speak, gains a new lease of good looks when placed in a stand which can be prettily and artistically decorated.

Fabrics Oust the Pictures.

The fancy for fabric wall coverings which people of wealth are indulging in to a considerable extent makes it a difficult matter to hang pictures without injuring the costly substitute for wall paper. A young man who has recently taken possession of a new house, the room walls of which are fabric covered, solved the picture question in a satisfactory manner. She transformed a large square hall into a picture gallery. The pictures were hung closely together, and as they comprise a well selected collection the gallery is a very interesting and attractive place, especially at night, when softly shaded incandescent bulbs furnish the illumination.

Imitation Stained Glass.

Imitation stained glass, which may be turned to good account for flower or landscape tablets to be hung before windows to add, in addition to any attraction of the design, color vibrancy to a room, may be executed by covering the glass with a thin film of turpentine and painting on this in various colors, somewhat thin. The glass is to be placed in a warm, and a lamp that has lost its pristine freshness, so to speak, gains a new lease of good looks when placed in a stand which can be prettily and artistically decorated.

Work Knowing.

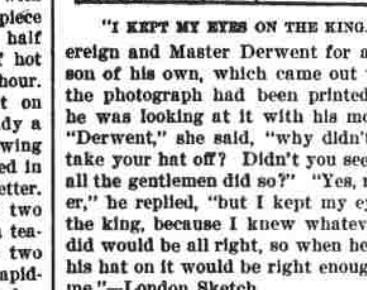

A beautiful mother of pearl surface can be given to articles of glass, cardboard or wood by applying to them with a brush an extremely thin coating of a strong solution of salt mixed with hexetin. Other beautiful hues may be obtained by adding to the salt solution other sulphate of magnesia, acetate of soda or sulphate of tin.

A Million Voices.

Could hardly express the thanks of Homer Hall, of West Point, Ia. Isten why? A severe cold had settled on his lungs, causing a most obstinate cough. Several physicians said he had consumption, but could not help him. When all thought he was doomed he began to use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and writes: "I completely cured me and saved my life. I now weigh 217 lbs." It's positively guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds and Lung troubles. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles free at C. D. Bradburn, Druggist.

Entered the King's Conduct.

Readers of the Sketch will recollect that on the occasion of the recent visit of the king and queen to the Isle of Man an illustration of the royal party, including Hall Calne, who acted as cicerone, was published. In that photograph there is a picture of a small boy, wearing his hat. He is Derwent, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Calne, and is ten years old. Only he and the Marquis de Soveral, the Portuguese ambassador, remained covered in the presence of the king, the marquis because he does fealty to another sovereign.

"I KEPT MY EYES ON THE KING." Derwent and Master Derwent for a reason of his own, which came out when the photograph had been printed and he was looking at it with his mother. "Derwent," she said, "why didn't you take your hat off? Didn't you see that all the gentlemen did so?" "Yes, mother," he replied, "but I kept my eye on the king, because I knew whatever he did would be all right, so when he kept his hat on it would be all right enough for me."—London Sketch.

The Human Lottery

"Ah, if only I were beautiful how happy life would be."

Many a forlorn maid has said this as she looked into the mirror. For beauty women have sacrificed love, love and friends. It is the one possession in the lottery of human life which women would not refuse.

BRADFIELD'S Female Regulator

(for young girls on the threshold of womanhood, has been invaluable. When they become pale and languid, the eyes dull, the hair falls out, the face swells, the system goes on abnormal, obstructed periods and painful menses, and their systems generally run down, they need a certain amount of Bradfield's Female Regulator for women. It is particularly valuable and useful owing to its tonic properties to build up the system, and as a regularizer of the menstrual flow. Painful, obstructed and suppressed menstruation permanently relieved and all diseases peculiar to her genital organs cured by it.

It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes, sharpens the appetite, removes study and blotched conditions of the skin and does the same to a certainty by removing the cause.

Rheumacide

Is a new and scientific compound made from roots, herbs and berries—contains neither opium nor poison. It purifies the blood and removes the cause of rheumatism and all blood diseases. It cures RHEUMATISM with absolute safety. Does not injure the digestive organs.

TWO CURES.

FLORHAM, N. C., Aug. 19th, 1902. Gentlemen—About two years ago I had a very severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism. I suffered great pain and was confined to my bed for five weeks. During the time I was treated by two Physicians without permanent relief. Capt. Barker, a conductor on the Atlantic Coast Line, heard of my condition and sent me two bottles of "RHEUMACIDE." I began to take it and in a week I got up and walked on crutches. After taking three bottles of the remedy I got entirely well and went back to my business. I personally know of a number of other bad cases that were cured by the use of your medicine, in this town and vicinity. It is all that you claim for it.

Truly, J. L. SISKRON.
