RALEIGH.

Discussion On Senatorial Question Occupies All.

Large Attendance of Masons. Superintendents of Water Works Meet. Cost of Penitentiary. Sales Fertilizer Tax Tags.

RALEIGH, Jan. 14.—Today your correspondent had an interesting interview with Senator Graham of Granville, regarding his resolution looking for information as to the cost of the penitentiary. Your correspondent last year published the only history of the penitentiary which has ever been written. This gives all the figures as to the cost of the prison from start to finish. Senator Graham said that he wished to have architects carefully examine the building and see to what use it could be put. He has some ideas as to such uses, one being as a part of the central hospital for the insane, another as dormitories and mechanical department for the Agricultural and Mechanical College. He says the walls are so strong as to sustain the weight of any machinery likely to be in use. There are so few convicts in the big prison that they are almost lost therein. It seems to be quite evident that indoor convict work will not cut any figure in this State at least for many years to come and in fact every experiment along that line has failed of itself, except one which was knocked out by the powerful Knights of Labor. This was the making of horse collars.

A conference of Superintendents of water works was held today, the purpose being to consider matters for the common good and also the matter of the coming part of the American Water Works Association of which Superintendent Campbell of the Charlotte water works is the president. There are 51 places in North Carolina which have water works. All the superintendents were invited to attend and the meeting was a gratifyingly complete one, all the important towns in the State being represented. Several physicians were also present by invitation and took part in the discussion, the State Board of Health being represented.

There is much talk again today in aid of this, that, or the other Senatorial candidate and the hotel where they all are was like a beehive. Every few minutes one would hear the phrase "So and so is the logical candidate" or "the logic of the situation is that so and so will win." Nobody knew what was going to happen, nobody could pick the winner, and bets were uncommonly scarce. In fact but four bets have been heard of and one of these which was two to one on Overman was withdrawn this morning. Overman's friends did not want adjournment, they wanted balloting to continue the first night and certainly the second night of the caucus. The Craig men are calculating that in case of a break the Overman contingent will go to them rather than to Watson. Such was their talk today.

The attendance at the communication of the Grand Lodge of Masons now in progress here is a record breaker, exceeding that at the centennial communication. It is said that nearly half the members of the legislature are Masons.

Associate Justice Platt D. Walker arrived from Charlotte today. He will bring his family here in about a fortnight.

"King" Kelley, the veteran base ball player, has left here for Fall River, Mass. having signed as a member of the team there.

A number of towns and counties are asking the legislature to give them prohibition laws, and some want the dispensary law.

There has really been but little talk so far of a "dark house" in the Senatorial contest. R. B. Glenn, who is working zealously for C. B. Watson, is most talked of, but Frank I. Osborne, of Charlotte and ex-Senator Matt Ransom are mentioned as possibilities, but not probable.

The report on sales of fertilizer tax tags for 1903 shows that fertilizer sales in the State aggregated 880,000 tons, or 9,000 less than in 1901.

The commissioner of agriculture urges the Legislature to make a stringent law against adulteration of food for man and animals.

Money For Colored Normal Schools.
Special to Journal.
Raleigh, January 14.—Today the State Superintendent of Public Instruction sent $500 each, to the seven negro Normal schools.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Bills of Local Importance Passed or Introduced.

Special to Journal.
RALEIGH, Jan. 14.—A bill passed the House repealing the act allowing $500, annually to the negro industrial school at Elizabeth City.

A bill was introduced in the Senate for a Reformatory for youthful criminals.

Bills were passed allowing judges to continue terms of court to complete civil trials, as is done in criminal cases; abolishing the August term of Craven county court; allowing clerk of Craven county to be absent one month in the year.

Senatorial Dead Lock Continues.
Special to Journal.
Raleigh, January 14.—Senatorial caucus lasted one hour today with no change in the voting. There is no sign of a break.

Overman got 53 votes on 2nd ballot and his forces brought about adjournment.

Notice—School Teachers.
The Board of Education at its meeting held January 5th, 1903, passed the following order:—
"Whereas, under present conditions of the county, the duties of the County Superintendent are seriously interfered with; it is hereby ordered that the County Superintendent be in his office at New Bern, N. C., during business hours every Saturday for the purpose of transacting the business of the schools and that he shall not be required to attend to such business at other times."
S. M. BRINSON,
Secy. of Board.

Cotton Gets to Ten Cents.
The much desired price for cotton—ten cents, was realized on the local market, yesterday, when a bale of "long staple" was sold at that price.

The commodity has a good upward tendency and dealers say they look for a time when all cotton will reach and maintain a price that will warrant a quick sale for all cotton.

The next highest price paid here was 8c.
The bale at ten cents was brought in by Mr. J. S. Morton, of North Harlowe, Craven county. He could have realized ten cents for one hundred bales of the same kind, if he had had them.

Market Letter on Cotton.
By private wire, J. H. Latham & Co.

New York, Jan. 14.—We were very much discouraged over action of prices yesterday it looked as though improvement would have to start from a lower level although the buyers keep the market active, too many selling for a further break but today it looks as though the improvement might start at any moment, of course this may prove as much of a delusion as the decline we had yesterday that remains to be seen. Tone today was about as strong as it was weak yesterday. That there has not been much profit taking is evident the position never was stronger. That cotton is being taken care of is evident, a lot of it has been sold by one holder to another and a lot by the late January bell pool. Somebody is short and not comfortable as some ballistics show. We would like to see a little support, a slight advance in price and see the shorts interest try to cover that would set the position. As it is, the tone showed reasons to pressure and from many points of view the market looked as though it wanted to go up we can at present only advise buying conservatively.
