BEAUTIFUL SONG BIRDS.

he Mocking Birds of Mr. Sam Radcliff Sweet and Remarkable Songsters.

The mocking bird is usually cons ered the sweetest singer of the feathered songsters of the South, and the distinc-ion is well deserved. Several months in the year this bird trills its varied notes to the enchantment of human listeners, and who can tell but what audiences of its own kind are harmed by its sweet singing, perhaps just as Nordica and other human nightagales charm their audiences.

But Maytime is the time of the bird's glory, for it sings both night and day. The bird has been made immortal by the old song, "Listen to the Mocking Bird" the bird is native.

Those who have heard the mocking birds at Mr Sam Radeliffe's cafe have been charmed with the sweetness of their volces. Their song is almost conthey not only mock other birds but they with $2,500 capital, and T. S. Ragadale, mitate successfully the tunes whistled olisten to them thinking some person was whistling a popular melody.

A peculiar trait of Mr Radeliffe's birds have, when they discover that they are being watched they stop singing and wait till the person has passed on before they will continue singing uttering only have the person go sway. When the cause of the offence has been removed hey will begin their song again which can be heard for a long distance.
