Official Paper of New Bern and Craven County.

REMOVAL OF CASES INJUSTICE TO DEFENDANTS

The Journal has before this referred to instances of where cases in the United States Courts, in which the litigants were residents of Craven county, have had their cases removed from here, to be heard at Raleigh.

There has not been shown any sufficient or good reason for this change of place for hearing the cases.

On the contrary, such removals work hardship and injustice to the defendants.

Such changes bring about a miscarriage of justice, through a defendant being unable, financially, to pay the costs incidental to the taking of his case to Raleigh, as he has to pay traveling expenses of lawyer, witnesses and himself, amounting to possibly twenty dollars per day more than it would cost him to try his case in New Bern.

The defendant in many cases may be in serious need of a number of witnesses which he could secure in New Bern for his case, but in being forced to arbitrarily follow his case to Raleigh, he cannot carry his witnesses along through financial distress.

A defendant in a case to be tried in the United States Courts in New Bern, might if the case was tried here, be able to prove his innocence, while if the case was removed to Raleigh, the defendant might be found guilty, simply through the circumstances connected with the removal.

Take maritime cases which come up in Wilmington or New Bern, which can be heard in the United States courts in these cities.

In both cities lawyers are familiar with such cases, witnesses can be secured, and the cases are of a character familiar to the localities.

The removal of such cases from New Bern to Raleigh should cease, and those in authority should see to it, that no further hardship and injustice are put upon defendants, who are entitled to protection and a recognition of their personal rights.

Cures For Insomnia. To an overworked little woman who suffers from insomnia an old doctor delivered himself as follows:

"Since all the devices one hears so much about, such as counting up to 5,000. They are maddening. Never take light baths if their action is too stimulating. Go in for a few physical exercises, including deep breathing. After the exercises walk backward on tiptoe round the room until forty or fifty steps have been taken. When in bed, relax the body completely. Take long, slow, deep breaths, and if you must think of something imagine yourself surrounded and supported by a soft, strong, gray cloud which is bearing you off to slumberland. Drinking a glass of warm milk just before retiring sometimes hastens the trip." - New York Times.

Market News in Detail.

By Edward Wood to J. E. Latham & Co.

New York, June 2.—There was a further advance in new crop months with prices at the highest point of the season. October sold at 5.77 with a fairly active business, but with more or less profit taking. The weekly report indicated a further improvement in the crop but the showing was not flattering. Prices began to rise to 5 points, but with no decided weakness, owing to the general belief that the Government figures will be below. The short interest is getting well covered up, and the new crop months are now reacting to a point where it is dangerous to buy. In the event of a very poor harvest report, a further advance is more than likely, but not a thing to work for, by buying cotton. Cotton is still coming in this direction, and the course of July and August is such as to furnish evidence of unwillingness of spot cotton interest to do anything but stand upon short contracts. We would like to see a break before again taking the long side, and on any advance this week would sell out the last bale.

While tearing down the old brick German Lutheran church at Columbus, Ind., recently to make place for the new edifice workmen found imprisoned in the wall a live bat that had been there since the old building went up thirty-three years ago.

A novel and ingenious method of fighting tuberculosis has been applied in the Argentine Republic. By order of the government several millions of match boxes have been made on which are printed simple directions for preventing the spread of the disease.

Two hundred Chinese peasants and California quails have been presented to Evanston, a suburb of Chicago. A special ordinance has been framed for their protection, and they will be turned out with the squirrels upon lawns or among the branches of the old oaks of the town.

SOME REASONS

Why New Bern People Should Follow This Valuable Advice.

Because the proof is in New Bern. You can easily investigate. Not necessary to experiment. With some untired remedy. Profit by the experience of a child.

R. B. Parker, whose sheet metal business is at Craven and South Front Streets, place of residence at Craven street, says: "I believe Hall's Family Pills to be a good remedy, in fact, I know it. I have been quite a sufferer from back-ache. At times it was so bad I could scarcely walk, but when using Don't Kill My Kidney Pills which I got at the New Bern Pharmacy my back has not troubled me at all. Should this ever be a recurrence I shall certainly resort to Don't Kill My Kidney Pills, and intend to keep them on hand to have in case of need."

For sale by all druggists, from all cities and places of residence. Price, 25c. per box. Y. S. Daily, New Bern, N. C.

Don't Kill My Kidney Pills

By making the digestive organs to do their work, and thus to get rid of the waste matter that accumulates in the system, the kidneys are kept in good health. This is the only way to keep the system in good health. The kidneys are the great filters of the system, and if they are not in good health, the system will be in a state of diseased action. Don't Kill My Kidney Pills are the only pills that will keep the kidneys in good health, and thus keep the system in good health. They are sold by all druggists, and by the Y. S. Daily, New Bern, N. C.

WIT OF LITTLE ONES.

A bunch of Central sayings by Pansy Tompkins.

"Mamma," said three-year-old Margie one day when her baby brother had a prolonged crying spell, "for goodness sake, give me some of my smoothie air!"

Sunday School Teacher—Harry, can you tell me why the lion didn't eat Daniel?

Harry—I guess it was 'cause they didn't know how good he was.

"Oh, dear!" sighed small Harry. "I do wish I was a man!"

"What would you do?" asked his mother.

"I'd grow a beard so I wouldn't have to wash my face," was the reply.

Teacher—Elmer, can you tell me what the largest diamond in the world is called?

Elmer—Yes, m'am. The ace.

Small Tommy—The teacher wanted to box my ears this morning.

Grandma—How do you know he did?

Small Tommy—'Cause he wouldn't have boxed 'em if he hadn't wanted to.

Mamma—Are you asleep, Bobby?

Bobby—Why do you ask, mamma?

Mamma—Because if you are awake you must take your medicine.

Bobby—Oh, I'm asleep.

"Why is it you can't get away from the foot of your class, Johnny?" asked the father of a precocious youngster.

"Because," explained Johnny, "by the time the teacher gets down to me I've forgotten my lesson."

"Mamma," said little Elsie as she looked up from her book of Bible stories, "I don't believe Solomon was as rich as people think."

"Why not, dear?" asked her mother.

"Because," replied the small investigator, "this book says he slept with his father, and if he was so awfully rich I guess he would have had a bed of his own."—Chicago News.

Very Sensitive. "We must not look down on any man because of his humble circumstances," said the broad minded citizen.

"Let us remember that some of our ablest statesmen started out as rail splitters."

"Yes," answered the man who is painfully precise, "I don't object to a rail splitter in statesmanship, but I must confess that an indefinite splitter annoys me."—Washington Star.

He Was. "Did you ever win any money at the race track?" asked the wise guy.

"Yes, once," replied the cheerful idler.

"Pick the best horse with your eyes shut?"

"No; bet a friend $10 that I could beat him walking home and did it."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

Passing Belief. Miss Gidday—What did he say when you told him I was married?

Miss Speltz—Well, he seemed surprised.

Miss Gidday—Did he ask when it happened?

THE MODERN CENSUS.

A remarkable thing that of the nation...

Since 1790 the area of the United States has increased from 537,244 to 3,020,063 square miles; the number of counties has increased from 407 to 3,807, and the total population has increased from 3,929,214 to 75,953,887, or nineteenfold. There are four states each possessing in 1900 a population greater than that of the entire nation in 1790, at which time two of the four were an untrodden wilderness. The number of cities with a population of 5,000 or over has increased from 6 to 544, and the number with a population of 25,000 or over from 2 to 161. There are now 35 cities having a population exceeding 100,000, and 3 of these have over 1,000,000 each. In 1890 the record of capital, wages and value of products of manufactures rises to figures almost beyond comprehension. The capital invested was $5,846,235,564; the salaries and wages paid amounted to $2,785,450,848, and the value of products was $18,059,279,568. In agriculture the figures are almost equally impressive. The total value of farms in 1900 was $16,674,990,247, and that of agricultural products in 1890, $4,739,713,702. To gather and collate such stupendous figures not only with accuracy, but so swiftly that the record of population in 1900 appeared as quickly as did the little report of the first census, was a task of the first magnitude. It was indeed an evolution.

Such is the modern census. It is a decennial snap shot of the nation for the benefit of all time. Patrick Henry declared that there was but one lamp by which his feet were guided—experience. But so important has the study of facts become that statistics presenting the facts analyzed and classified are the lamp which guides the statesman and the student of today.—W. R. Merriam in Century.

That Throbbing Headache.

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and build up your health, only 25 cents, money back if not cured. Sold by C. D. Bradham, Druggist.

CLOSE OBSERVERS.

Savages are supposed to have keener senses, especially a keener sense of sight, than civilized races. The author of "Idle Days in Patagonia" does not accept this theory. He believes that savages have no keener senses, but that they pay closer attention to what comes within the range of their perception. As an instance of quick response to an impression he tells the following story.

On March 12, 1881, a company of hunters were camping beside a grove of willows in Patagonia. About 9 o'clock that evening, while they were seated round the fire roasting their ostrich meat, Sosa suddenly sprang to his feet and held his open hand high above his head for some moments.

"There is not a breath of wind blowing," he exclaimed, "yet the leaves of the trees are trembling. What can this portend?"

The others stared at the trees, but could see no motion, and they began to laugh at him. Presently he sat down again, remarking that the trembling had ceased, but during the rest of the evening he was very much disturbed in his mind. He remarked repeatedly that such a thing had never happened in his experience before, for, he said, he could feel a breath of wind before the leaves fall, and there had been no wind. He feared that it was a warning of some disaster about to overtake their party.

The disaster was not for them. On that evening occurred the earthquake which destroyed the distant city of Mendoza and crushed 13,000 people to death beneath the ruins. That the subterranean wave extended east to the Plata and southward into Patagonia was afterward known, for in the cities of Rosario and Buenos Ayres clocks stopped, and a slight shock was also experienced in the Carmen on the Rio Negro.

Driven To Desperation.

Lying at an out of the way place, remote from civilization, a family is often driven to desperation in case of accident resulting in Burns, Cuts, Wounds, Ulcers, etc. Lay in a supply of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, it's the best on earth. 25c. at C. D. Bradham's Drug Store.

WORLD'S FAIR NOTES.

Herbert W. Bowen reports that President Castro hopes to arrange his affairs so that he can visit the world's fair in 1904.

The Agricultural building at the St. Louis world's fair will be 15 per cent larger than any other building at the exposition. It will be 500 by 1,500 feet, thus containing a floor space of almost twenty acres.

Uncle Sam's cage for live birds at the world's fair will be 200 feet long, 90 wide and 52 high. The collection of 2,000 birds from all parts of the world will completely distance all former shows of this kind.

CYNICISMS.

Some people overdo the being cheerful act.

Great as you are, your friends will laugh merrily after your funeral.

When you complain too much of money, look out for a cynical to break it.

Those who never save a cent have no trouble in fair weather in proving that they are philanthropists.—Albion Globe.

A Serious Mistake.

R. C. De Witt & Co. is of the same line as the one who says "I'll have my share of the world's fair in 1904."

By making the digestive organs to do their work, and thus to get rid of the waste matter that accumulates in the system, the kidneys are kept in good health. This is the only way to keep the system in good health. The kidneys are the great filters of the system, and if they are not in good health, the system will be in a state of diseased action. THE SCOLD'S BRIDLE.

British Punishment for Which Women Were Once Subjected.

The brank, or scold's bridle, or goat's bridle, was neither more nor less than a muzzle. It was in general use in Great Britain from the sixteenth to the eighteenth century, and in Scotland as well women were muzzled for certain offenses, some at least of them more imaginary than real. The instrument of torture, even a dog's halter, is uncomfortable; how much more the scold's muzzle! It consisted, according to a high authority, Mr. W. Jewitt, of a kind of crown or framework of iron, which was locked upon the head, and it was armed in front with a gag, a plate or a sharp cutting knife or point, which was placed in the poor woman's mouth so as to prevent her moving her tongue, or it was so placed that if she did move it or attempt to speak it was cut in a most frightful manner. With this cage upon her head and with the gag firmly pressed and locked against her tongue the miserable creature, whose sole offending perhaps was that she raised her voice in defense of her social rights against a brutal and besotted husband or had spoken honest truth of some one high in office in her town, was paraded through the streets, led by a chain by the hand of a bellman, the beadle or the constable or chained to the pillory, the whipping post or market cross, to be subjected to every conceivable insult and degradation, without even the power left her of asking for mercy or of promising amendment for the future, and when the punishment was over she was turned out from the town hall or the place where the brutal punishment had been inflicted, maimed, disfigured, bleeding, faint and degraded, to be the subject of comment and jeering among her neighbors and to be reviled by her persecutors.—Fireside Magazine.

Worst of All Experiences.

Can anything be worse than to feel that every minute will be your last? Such was the experience of Mrs. S. H. Newson, Decatur, Ala. "For three years," she writes, "I endured insufferable pain from indigestion, stomach and bowel trouble. Death seemed inevitable when doctors and all remedies failed. At length I was induced to try Electric Bitters and the result was miraculous. I improved at once and now I'm completely recovered. For Liver, Kidney, Stomach and Bowel troubles Electric Bitters is the only medicine. Only 50c. It's guaranteed by C. D. Bradham Druggist.

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

In some parts of Berlin there are special public houses for women.

Among the 23,143 persons sent to penal servitude in Germany last year no fewer than 473 were charged with political offenses.

A woman has, it is alleged, obtained a divorce in Germany on the ground that she discovered after marriage that her husband wore a wig.

The days of the German thaler, or three mark (72 cents) piece, are numbered. It is to be withdrawn because inconsistent with the decimal system.

The South African colonies and islands owned by Germany have no local legislature or even crown councils. Each is ruled by an autocrat appointed by the emperor.

After a career of 287 years the Frankfurter Journal recently ceased to exist. The honor of being the oldest German newspaper is now claimed by the Magdeburgische Zeitung, of which copies bearing the date of 1626 have been preserved.

Deaths in Graves. Cemetery shares continue to be quite a market feature in Scotland and are actively dealt in on the Edinburgh Stock Exchange. Apparently they appeal to the curious nature of the canny Scot, who doubtless reasons that in such a holding he has a security which is not likely to vanish and that if the worst comes to the worst he will never need to come on the parish for a grave.

—London Financial News.

$100.—Dr. B. Detchou's Anti-Diuretic may be worth to you more than $100 if you have a child who soils bedding from incontinence of water during sleep. Cures old and young alike. It arrests the trouble at once. $1. Sold by C. D. Bradham, Druggist, New Bern, N. C.

A Whistling Oyster. The proprietor of a London chop-house some years ago made fame and fortune by the discovery of a musical oyster. A distinct whistling sound came from a newly opened barrel of oysters. With eagerness he hunted for the cause and found an oyster which seemed to amuse itself by whistling. The hunter advertised it, and hundreds came daily to his hostelry to listen to the musical oyster. In due time the oyster died, and its secret died with it. It is supposed that the sound was caused by the implosion and expiration of air through a tiny hole in the shell. To this day the inn is known as "The Whistling Oyster."

The Art of Conversation. "Tell me," pleaded the artless maid, "wherein lies the secret of the art of conversation?"

The sage affected the attitude he was wont to assume when in the act of imparting wisdom and said: "My child, listen."

"I am listening," breathlessly she answered.

"Well, my child," he rejoined, "that is the art of conversing agreeably."

Startling Evidence. Fresh testimony in great quantity is constantly coming in, declaring Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption Coughs and Colds to be unequalled. A recent expression from T. M. McParland, Buchananville, Va. serves as example. He writes: "I had Bronchitis for three years and doctored all the time without relief. Then I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery, and a few bottles really cured me." Equally effective in curing Asthma and Whooping Cough, Paralysis and Rheumatism by C. D. Bradham Druggist, New Bern, N. C.

WE MUST GROW OR DIE.

Constant Study is Necessary to Keep Pace With the Times.

A passion for growth, a yearning for a larger life, is characteristic of all great souls. A man is measured by his power to grow, to become larger, broader, nobler. The intensity of his desire to reach out and up defines his capacity for development.

Any one, young or old, possessed by a passion for growth is constantly adding to his knowledge, always pushing his horizon a little further. Every day he gains additional wisdom, every night he is a little larger than he was in the morning. He keeps growing as long as he lives or the old man or woman is still stretching out for larger things, reaching up to greater heights.

We often find plants and trees that are not fully developed, but have reached the limit of their growth. They cannot be made to respond to the wooing of enriched soil or copious watering. The power for the extension of cell life seems to have departed.

There are many human plants of similar nature. Early in life they settle into grooves, from which nothing can displace them. They are dead to enterprise, to advancement along any line. New movements, new systems of business, larger conceptions of life and similar things in the living, moving present do not appeal to them. Immovably bound to the past, they can step only just so far this way, only so far that way. There is no further growth, no more progress for them. They have reached their goal.

Employees often think that they are kept back designedly and that others less deserving are pushed ahead of them, when the real trouble is with themselves. They have ceased to grow. They continue to move in a circle. They have not kept pace with the trend of the times.

"Forward" is the bugle call of the twentieth century. The young man or woman or the old man or woman who has ceased to grow is to be pitied. Life holds nothing more for either—Success.
