VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

A Few Comments.
Ed. Journal.—Is looking over the columns of the Journal I often see statements that should receive more attention from our citizens.
Scarcely every one realizes the importance of good roads leading into New Bern and all over the County for that matter, but especially should it be looked after for four or five miles adjacent the City. We are aware that the Journal has worked most ardently in advocacy of good roads, and there has been splendid results in the last few years, but will it not pay to keep on?
Oh! for a good live Chamber of Commerce that knows how to stick and assume our people to seeing the needs for such.
Inside our City there is a general air of improvement. Nice residences are continually being built, and they generally meet with ready renters. One thing noticeable about the new buildings constructed for the last few years is that great attention is being paid to their convenience and comfort. Many of the old slightly dwellings that are so abundant in New Bern are being torn down and modern residences replacing them.
Another stride for New Bern is the enterprise and development shown by the A. & N. C. R. R. Only recently we saw a statement in the Journal that fourteen trains passed through New Bern in one day, not counting log and gravel trains. The A. & N. C. is a hauler in this late day.
The fall is now approaching, and let us all work together for the general advancement of our good old town.

CITIZEN.

FAREWELL BASE BALL GAME.

The Exhibition of The Great American Sport on The Athletic Grounds.
The last base ball game of the season, and probably the last that will ever be played at Athletic Park will take place Thursday afternoon at four o'clock between New Bern and Goldsboro.
The New Bern team is closing one of the most successful seasons that an amateur club of New Bern has ever had. Out of a total of fourteen games played on the grounds they have won eleven, and the only club that has beaten them this year and not been defeated in return is the one they play Thursday. The home team will have its strongest players out and a good game can be expected. Let every body come out as the expense is very heavy.
The batteries will probably be for New Bern, Patterson and Armstrong. Goldsboro, Higgins and Robinson.

CASTORIA.

"Here's something that's been puzzling me people," remarked the man who thinks deeply.
"What's that?"
"It all ends in grass are cannibals really 'vegetarians'."—Philadelphia Press.

Getting Back to Business.

"This is the first stroke of work I've done for three months," remarked the genial farmer as, with a flourish, he scribbled across the signature of the little bogus check and laid aside his fountain pen.—New York Times.

THAT STOLEN BICYCLE.

Returned to its Rightful Owner Yesterday. Thief Captured and Lodged in Jail.

The stolen bicycle mentioned in these columns as being found at Bayboro. This day, was brought to this city and delivered to Preston Blake, the rightful owner of it. The thief who stole it is also in the strong hand of the law.

Friday a very meager description of the thief, who gave his name as Willie Clayton was received by phone from Bayboro, and it was intimated that he might be a passenger to this city on the tonight's summer Florence train.

A warrant was taken out and placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Richard Blackledge, and this vigilance and hard-eyed officer watched until a late hour for the boat, but it came not.

As an early hour yesterday morning the watchful officer was again at the boat, and as night approached he discovered a negro man slip on the wharf.

A close examination of the sleeping negro's countenance justified his arrest. He was taken before Justice H. H. Hester, and there confessed to the theft, recognized the owner of the wheel, and told all about it.

BURGULARS OPERATING.

Two Unsuccessful Attempts to Rob Houses Friday Night in New Bern.

Kanan Farhat is a Syrian merchant, who has a small business place on Broad street, and dwells in the rear of the shop. Kanan is a married man, that he has a wife but no children, and the worthy couple, like most Orientals of humble rank, require but little space in which to exist. The room they occupy for sleeping is an unpretentious but very tidy little affair of about eight by ten, having one small half-drawn paneled window high up in the wall, looking to the west.

On the outside, below the window is a brick wall four or five feet high, to a man standing on this wall the sill of the window mentioned would be about breast high.

Farhat and his companion, being strangers in a strange land, as it were, are very careful to fasten the entrance to their domicile, and Friday night saw them everything, the window, which is a small glass affair without shutter-indicator, was fast and secure and retired to their rest.

Along in the night, Kanan's slumbers were broken by an unusual noise and looking up beheld the head and shoulders of a person outlined in the frame of the window.

The unterrified Syrian sprang up to the opening and grabbed the intruder, but his hold was insufficient, the burglar with a howl fell off the wall on which he was standing, and escaped.

Upon examining it was found that two panes had been removed, with the aid of a knife from the window, admitting the hand which undid the fastening from the inside.

It was an unusually bold attempt and the thief evidently intended to resort to desperate measures to effect his purpose.

The same night of the above occurrence, about one o'clock, a member of the Kator family who reside at the bakery on Middle street, was awakened by a noise coming apparently from the dining room.

The noise, which sounded as if spoons were being handled was investigated, but no one was seen.

After the person returned to the room a noise was heard in the back yard, and looking out a man was seen vaulting over the fence.

The man was supposed to have hid when he found that the noise had betrayed him, and made his escape as soon as the searching person retired from the dining room. Nothing was missed, only the door was found to be open.

Letter to O. H. Guion.

New Bern, N. C.
Dear Sir: As your business is to get people into and out of trouble, suppose you consider their palat; it makes 'em almost as much trouble as money, except of course matrimony.
They buy poor paint a good deal, they don't see so; they don't know any better; they buy without thinking. Bad paint isn't good. It looks good enough for a year; then begins to get rusty, but changes so slowly, one don't notice it.

Looking ten's all. The business of paint is to keep a house dry inside, the wood and iron of it; keep it from rotting and rusting. Takes good paint to do it.

Good and bad paint are sold at one price or about that. One can't go by the price at all; as with lawyers, the price has nothing to do with goodness or badness, and costs are worse yet; the painter and shaver come in for their share.

But the probability is that a man, who paints Deyce, will come out on top.

Yours truly,
F. W. Dwyer & Co.

STORM PREVENTS RACE.

Sir Thomas Lipton Will Not Again Challenge. Admits America's Superiority.

New York August 29.—The postponed race of Thursday, was declared off today there being a severe storm, with a 35 knot gale of wind.
Sir Thomas Lipton aboard the Erin, declared in an interview, that he would never challenge again for the America's cup until a man had been found in England who equalled Nat Hareschhoff in yacht building. The baronet admitted his disappointment at his failure, and frankly said that he had no hope of winning even a single race. He said: "American brains and development have outbeaten. If the day ever comes when England produces a Hareschhoff then, I will challenge for the cup again. It will not be until then. It is unimportant to be compelled to admit it, but the brains in boat building are on this side of the water. Hareschhoff is a wizard. His work is wonderful; none can have admired Hareschhoff more than I have. She is the best boat by all odds, and has won on strict merit."

"I am a most disappointed man. My hopes were high when I left home, for I surely believed we would carry back the cup."

New Fall Woollens we are showing will catch the fancy of the business man, the society man or the man of the world.
