In the year 944 in London nione 1,500 houses were blown down; in October, 1094, a great number of churches and 500 houses were destroyed; in 1235 it thundered for fitteen days consecutively. The dreadful night during which Cromwell's apirit passed has formed a theme for poet and partisan. And the great storm that "o'er pale Britan-

Sting Swimmer's Straight Steering. It is a standing pussle that all blind swimmers are able to hold an almost perfectly straight course for very con-siderable distances, though no more guidance is given to them than some species of call or whistle coming from the winning goal. A blind man, in fact, desiring to go in a straight line possesses the curious power of being able to do so almost exactly. A provincial mayor instituted a series of contests in an open lake between blind men and ordinary ones of about equal ing of the blind was concerned.—Lon-don Chronicle.
