CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

MISS MONIE BOWEY,

No. 38 Perry Street, DETROIT, MICHIGAN.

Miss Monie Bowey.

A couple of winters ago I slipped on a frozen sidewalk and fell flat on my back. On being examined I found that I had sustained internal injuries which laid me up for more than two months. After that I noticed that I had pains in the back and groin which I never had before. I doctored and doctored for several months but as the pains increased instead of growing better I decided that I was not having the right treatment. Reading in the papers of the wonderful cures performed by Wine of Cardui I wrote to one of the parties and received a very satisfactory reply and I immediately sent for some. In a very short time I felt generally better and after seven weeks faithful use I was once more well and strong. I have never had a sick hour since and I daily bless your splendid medicine.

MONIE BOWEY.

WINE OF CARDUI is one medicine that should always be kept on hand in every home for immediate use when female weakness first makes its appearance. Miss Bowey's painful and dangerous accident would not have resulted so seriously had she taken Wine of Cardui promptly.

Wine of Cardui makes women more womanly by curing their weakness and making them stronger. Wine of Cardui cured Miss Bowey. As a medicine for all women in every trying period of their lives can you think of a better medicine for yourself, your sister, your daughter or your mother? Can you think of a more acceptable present to give your friend than a bottle of this medicine which will bring her health and happiness? You are suffering? Your duty is to rid yourself of this pain. If your daughter, mother, sister or friend is sick and in need of relief, your duty is equally great to them. Many women, now well, owe their lives to friends who brought them Wine of Cardui.

Wine of Cardui is adapted to women at any age in any walk of life. For the working woman it gives her strength for her tasks and better treatment than a doctor for very small cost.

Your druggist will sell you a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui. Secure the medicine today. Take it in the privacy of your home. Relief will come to you as surely as you take it.

WINE of CARDUI

A million suffering women have found relief in Wine of Cardui.

PILES! PILES!! PILES!!!

WOMAN AND FASHION

An Attractive Costume.

The gown here illustrated is an excellent example of the mediish tweed costume. It is extremely simple in cut and faultless in finish. The three-quarter sealskin coat has an inserted vest in white coming to the waist line, and the skirt, which just clears the ground, is plaited and finished about the hem with stitching. The hat is of rose pink velvet, with a lace edge and a shaded rose red plume.

TWEED GOWN AND SEALSKIN.

Aubergine a New Shade.

Aubergine is the latest color. It is a cross between pink and plum. There are aubergine velvets and aubergine chiffons, and to show this tint is to guarantee that the article was imported. One frock from a Parisian maker is appraised at $700. As it is a fairly plain tailor gown, the price seems extortionate. The frock is of soft cloth of aubergine color, and the velvet trimming is of the same tint. The richest embroidery is used to finish the coat, and this embroidery combines a variety of colors. The collar is edged with ruching, and the cuffs are finished with a fall of fine lace. In addition to the velvet bands and embroidery there are about twenty solid gold buttons.

Instep Evening Frock.

A great many evening dresses are cut in instep length, and very pretty they are and very convenient. Coming just to the instep, they show the high heels that are worn with the dinner gown and the very graceful arch of the foot. Indeed it is due to her vanity and the pretty shoes of the season that woman wears the instep skirt.

The instep skirt is a feature of the restaurant gown, as well as of the street dress, and is also worn for the evening and for the nicest of occasions. No more is it preserved for the rainy day skirts and the trotting costumes.

A Kid Coat.

A novel garment affected just now by the belles of Vienna and Paris is a small, tight fitting coat made of suede kid. It is worn with very smart traveling gowns, and its appearance is thought to indicate the revival of fitted coats in general. Kid is quite a favorite just now when one reflects upon the pretty crush girdles made of it and that it is even used to face the brims of hats. One pretty facing of the kind noted was of pale yellow suede, just the thing to set off brunette beauty.

Dressing the Hair.

The latest fashion of dressing the hair is to have a thick, waved piece of hair brought well forward on the forehead and the sides somewhat brushed upward, and the Parisiennes lightly pin this lock of waved hair to the bandeau of their hat, thus avoiding any ugly break. The French women always prod and poke their hair about after their hat is put on, so that all the indentations of the hat should be gracefully filled up.

A Lovely Hat.

The illustration presents a lovely hat showing several shades of the rose, with smoke gray. It is in beaver, the under brim faced with shirred velvet, and sets well from the face. It is simply trimmed with bands of velvet, with a single shaded plume curls upward on the left side.

SHADES OF SMOKE GRAY.

Fight Will Be Bitter.

Those who will partake in closing their cars against the continual recommendation of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, will have a long and bitter fight with their troubles, if not ended earlier by fatal termination. Read what T. B. Snell of Snell, Miss., has to say: "I can fill my wife and every member of my family with Dr. King's New Discovery after everything else has failed. I regard it as the best Throat and Lung medicine made." Sold under guarantee at F S Duffy's Drug Store. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

HER CLEVER SCHEME.

The Blond's Neighborly Act Was All For Naught.

The blond neighbor never had called before, so the brunette was somewhat surprised to see her.

"We've been neighbors for some time," remarked the blond after the first formal greetings had been exchanged.

"Almost a year," returned the brunette.

"Long enough," continued the blond, "so that either of us might reasonably call upon the other to do a little neighborly act."

"Either of us might," admitted the brunette guardedly.

"And we really ought to be friends," persisted the blond. "We can be of great assistance to each other at times."

"It's quite possible," the brunette conceded, still guardedly. "Is there something you wish to borrow?"

"Oh, dear, no," answered the blond. "I thought perhaps you were just out of coffee or wanted a little of my best china and silver to help out at a little dinner or something of that sort."

"Not at all," said the blond. "I was thinking of your children. You have several, I believe."

"Four," was the reply.

"And they cry some and occasionally play leapfrog and other noisy games."

The brunette became haughty at once. No woman cares to have a stranger cast reflections on her children.

"Oh, that's all right," the blond hastened to explain. "So do mine. All children are noisy, and the only thing to do is to take advantage of their noisiness. Now, tomorrow morning about 10 o'clock a tall man with a black beard will call at my flat, and if you'd watch for him and set the children to crying or playing leapfrog or making a great racket of some kind"—

"Madam!"

"Don't you understand yet?" persisted the blond, ignoring the indignant interruption. "The man with the black beard is the new landlord, and he's coming to see me about renewing the lease. Now, if you and your children can only make yourselves out to be seriously objectionable neighbors don't you see what a chance it gives me to force a reduction of the rent? And later, when your lease expires, I'll do as much for you. What! You won't do it? Well, I don't blame the men for saying that most women have no head for business."—Chicago Post.
