Growers Association is here and when asked his views as to the reduction of the fact that the most distinguished the screage in tobacco said—"My advice is to raise food crops and then all of this great order, headed by Washing the tobacco that can provide the screen that the most distinguished men in American history were members of this great order, headed by Washing vice is to raise food crops and then all the tobacco that can conveniently be planted. This tank of organizing to reduce crop acreage amounts to nothing When the statement gets out that tilere will be a general rejuction some farm readence of William Hooper, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, was at Masconboro, so named because the lodge and opened there. Many years earlier a lodge had been established at Wilmington, but of its history there appears to be no information. Grand-Master William R Davis devoted himself to securing university at Chapel Hill of which he laid the corner stone, and its establishment was due more to him than any lishment was due more to him than any one elie. The chief sctors in State affairs in those early days were all masons, and they had a powerful influence. The noble order has taken a deep hold among Angio Saxons. The splendid results and triumph of the grand principles of masonry are witnessed everywhere.
